Another Vote For Tax Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan picked up another vote for his deadlocked $1 billion tax revision plan today as he neared a final Senate showdown on his top priority program of the legislative session.

The added vote was assured when Republican State Chairman Dennis E. Carpenter won a Senate seat Tuesday in a special Orange County election.

But the governor still was no closer to victory than he was three weeks ago when a lone Republican — Sen. Clark L. Bradley of San Jose—and a dozen rigid Democrats blocked passage of the embattled bill on the Senate floor.

FINAL TRY

Reagan and the measure's legislative sponsor, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, planned a final attempt to pry loose the property tax relief plan Thursday night or Friday. The Legislatuer hopes to adjourn this weekend.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, planned to return Thursday from an Asian trip to be on hand to vote for the governor's program.

Reagan's package would provide substantial homeowners property tax relief—$105 for an average $20,000 home—and finance it by raising other taxes. The sales tax, for instance, would be increased from 5 to 6 cents on the dollar. Withholding of the state income tax also would be adopted.

27 VOTES NEEDED

The bill requires 27 votes for passage. Even with Carpenter's vote it would still need one more, and the 13 Senate opponents showed no sign at a meeting Tuesday of weakening their adament stand.

One Democrat who voted with the governor the first time now is in a hospital and not expected to return before adjournment. Sen. Tom Carrell, D-San Fernando, is recuperating from what his office described as "congested lungs."

The administration pinned its hopes on a potential "courtesy vote" for Carrell, cast by one of the bill's opponents. But there were no indications this was going to happen.

"The whole concept of 'courtesy' is one that was invented this session. It's part of Bagley's psychological warfare," said Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles, one of the opponents. "They're not going to get the bill unless Tom (Carrell) comes back in an ambulance."

Bagley told a reporter, "You can't bring in a man who is ill and jeopardize his health." Reagan's press secretary,

FUTURE DORMITORIES — Townhouse-style dormitories of 400 units are expected to partially relieve the critical need for low cost housing for Sonoma State College students in 1972. The living quarters, which will include a swimming pool and cafeteria, will be located on the northwest corner of the campus. Separate entrances off a common courtyard will provide privacy.

SONOMA HOUSING

Plans May Offset Future Shortage

By BONNIE BARD

(Last of three articles)

New living units — ranging from townhouse-style dormitories to geometric dome structures — are in the proposed future to offset the critical housing shortage for Sonoma State College students.

While they may have little meaning for students now searching for living quarters, the various plans may begin to solve the problem.

First on tap are the dormitories that have been delayed annually for lack of funds. Dr. Warren R. Tappin Jr., associate dean of students, said plans set the opening in early 1972 for the first 400 units.

Cost per student will average $122 per month and include room, meals and recreational facilities.

Dr. Tappin is enthusiastic about the townhouse design because it permits students privacy as well as the communal living arrangement so many are seeking.

"Dormitories will add to the college atmosphere," Dr. Tappin said, adding he feels students should get more out of college than simply attending classes. Sonoma State is now largely a commuter school with most students driving daily from points in Sonoma and Marin counties.

Tappin said he felt that parents would also appreciate dormitory living opportunities for their teen-aged children since some supervision will be maintained and a smoother transition from parental control to adult freedom provided.

Developers in the area, who opposed dormitories as unfair competition to apartment complexes, have a pessimistic outlook toward the dorms.

"I doubt that students will live in them," real estate agent James W. Rogers said. "The students just don't want supervision. The college will have to force some students to live there."

Developer Paul Golis also wonders if students will rush for admittance to the dormitories, despite the lure of lower rent.

"The modern attitude of kids is ridiculous," he said. "They have a built-in idea about housing that's far and above the importance of what college should be."

"We don't have old houses to dwell upon and repair, so the students must compromise their demands and go on from there," Golis said. "Students should accept dorms as a place to go to sleep, study quietly and wash up."

Tappin feels the dorms will be successful simply because of the attractive design. With early California architecture, red roofs and redwood siding, the dorms will deviate from standard styling to provide as much privacy as possible.

Units have been designed to house one, two, four and nine students. The unit for two will include two bedrooms and a bath; four students will share two double bedrooms, a living room and a bathroom.

The unit for nine students will include four double bedrooms, a single bedroom, living room and two bathrooms.

Each of the 200 housing units will have a common lounge and kitchen facilities. All apartments will have a private entrance off a central courtyard. A swimming pool and parking for 300 cars is planned.

Total cost of the project has been estimated at near $4 million.

Realtors report that lending institutions have realized the potential housing market around the college and are now loosening the reins slightly on money.

A group of ambitious students recently formed a group called Student Projects, Inc. and are working on plans for unique housing units to meet the unique demands of students.

Alden Hanson, one of the leaders, said, "We realized how bad things were and got a package together."

"They're pretty revoluntionary ideas and we must 'sell' them first to the Sonoma County Building Department."

Hanson said three different types of structures are being considered. They include rain-

Goals, Land Values Delay Plans For Community Park In Novato

By WAYNE RATLIFF

Plans for a community park in Novato were delayed indefinitely last night by bond election technicalities and disagreement at a city council meeting on park goals and relative values of land for the park.

The delay could result in failure to obtain either of the properties considered for the park, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The meeting was marked by citizen complaints of unresponsiveness on the part of the parks and recreation commission to public desires.

A proposed ordinance setting a special $850,000 park bond election Sept. 29 failed to pass after Brown told the council he could certify only 935 of 977 registered voters' signatures needed on a petition to hold the election.

Brown told the council that passage of the ordinance at last night's meeting was necessary to hold the election in advance of November's general election.

Edward Adams, parks and recreation director, presented arguments in favor of purchasing the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue for a community park in preference to the nearby Garlick property.

His arguments were met with point-by-point rebuttal by Councilman George C. Quesada and objections from several citizens in the audience.

"Unfortunately," Adams said, "comparisons are going to be made between the Garlick and O'Hair properties on the basis of price and the number of acres."

The $600,000 price contemplated for purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property is the same price at which the 452-acre Garlick property was offered.

Adams said that the O'Hair site was better located because it was closer to town and to the San Marin High School, which was expected to make a joint use agreement for a swimming pool planned for the park.

Costs of sewer and water facilities, road work and other development would be much higher for the Garlick property and it would be easier to fit desired recreation facilities on the O'Hair land, according to Adams.

He said that the Garlick land was suitable for a regional park, but that the county's Stafford Lake property three-fourths of a mile past the Garlick site was planned for the same uses for which the Garlick land was suitable.

Adams also said that the O'Hair property was suitable for the type of development called for in the city's master plan for parks, and that policing and maintenance of the property would be much less difficult than for the larger Garlick property.

Quesada said that the distance between the two proper-

ABM Expansion Wins In Senate

A Nixon Missile Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted today for expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) system—a clear-cut legislative victory for President Nixon. The vote was 53 to 45.

The administration victory was assured when ABM opponents failed in their second and final attempt to confine deployment of the defense weapon to two sites authorized last year in North Dakota and Montana.

The vote, on an amendment by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., gave the administration what it felt was an important bargaining wedge in the Soviet-American arms control talks. It will enable the administration to build two new safeguard sites to protect strategic missiles and bombers in Missouri and Wyoming.

PROTECTION

Safeguard is designed to protect Minuteman missiles and B52 bomber bases from a possible surprise Soviet strike that would paralyze the U.S. land-based nuclear arsenal.

The Brooke amendment would have prevented deployment of ABM radars, computers and missile-interceptors at the new sites proposed for Whiteman AFB, Mo., and Warren AFB, Wyo.

A tougher amendment that would have sliced the $322 million for Whiteman and Warren was defeated 52 to 47 last week.

LAIRD'S WARNING

Just before the vote, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird warned the Senate that adoption of the Brooke amendment would pose a threat to U.S. bomber bases.

Laird said the proposal would raise the ultimate cost of the ABM and delay completion of the defense system by 15 months.

His letter was read by Chairman John Stennis of the Senate Armed Services Com-

Angela Davis On FBI List

Angela Davis, the elusive black militant charged with murder and kidnapping in the bloodletting at the Marin County Hall of Justice, was put on 10 most wanted list yesterday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The avowed Communist was only the third woman ever to make the list, and the FBI warned that she should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. (See picture page 8.)

An intensive nationwide search for Miss Davis has been launched amid rumors that she may flee to Cuba via Mexico. Her car was found last night in front of a Black Panther Party member's Los Angeles home, but she was not found.

Meanwhile, Tom Hayden, a defendant in the Chicago Seven trial, predicted yesterday that there will be more kidnapping attempts like the one that rocked Marin on Aug. 7. "We've had our first kidnapping attempt. There will be a second, there will be a third," Hayden told about 200 students at the National Student Association in St. Paul, Minn.

He called the attempt, in which Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three of his abductors were killed, "a very, very important thing. It's changed the entire relationship between the courts and political prisoners, between the oppressors and oppressed people," Hayden said.

According to United Press International, Hayden said that Black Panther leader Huey Newton was released from prison on bail because U.S. officials, including President Richard M. Nixon, were afraid some of them may be taken hostage like officials in Central and South America.

"Everybody knows that it was a political campaign at first, and the rising threat of more than a political campaign that has gotten the man Newton out of prison and onto the street," Hayden said. "You expect that to restore people's faith in the judicial system!"

Miss Davis, fired earlier this year as a University of California at Los Angeles instructor after she claimed she was a Communist, disappeared after having been seen on Saturday in Birmingham, Ala.

Marin authorities said that she purchased all four of the weapons used in the shooting. California law holds persons who aid or abet a crime as

Marin Transit Line Faces Safety Counts

Prosecution of Marin County Transit Systems for violations of state safety regulations will be sought through the Marin County district attorney' office, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Supervising Inspector Ralph M. Walker, commander of the highway patrol in the Bay Area, told the Independent-Journal that reinspection of the Marin City-based company's buses on Monday again found "a general lack of maintenance."

Walker had warned the company on June 16 that the highway patrol would seek legal action against the company unless it corrected its violations of safety regulations. The company's president, Theophus Barron Jr., promised compliance by the end of last week, and Walker had agreed to withhold action until this week.

Walker had also warned that the highway patrol would recommend that the California Public Utilities Commission revoke the company's charter party certificate. Walker said today, however, that this step would not be considered until after the district attorney's office had decided what action to take against the company.

The violations, according to the Highway patrol, involve air brakes, emergency warning devices, fire extinguishers, general interior condition, chafed air hoses and worn steering links.

The company last week signed a tentative agreement with a Petaluma bus company for maintenance of its buses. The agreement also provided for leasing additional buses

FIRE SUPPORT — With the use of a helicopter South Vietnamese troops at Fire Support Base O'Reilly near the Laotian border, carry ammunition to a storage area. The base's strategic location blocs enemy movement from Laos to South Vietnam.

Saigon Aids In Red Drive Halt

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops with South Vietnamese aerial support halted a Viet Cong unit nine miles from Phnom Penh Tuesday night. The U.S. Command today reported the loss of two American F4 Phantom jets and a troop carrying helicopter over Vietnam.

Allied forces killed 29 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in two clashes near artillery bases along the Laotian border early today.

A unit of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade killed 15 Communist troops and took one prisoner in fighting a half mile west of Artillery Base Barnett 10 miles from Laos. One American was killed and eight wounded.

South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division troops killed 14 Communists two miles south of Artillery Base O'Reilly, 10 miles south of Barnett about the same time.

Both outposts have been under heavy North Vietnamese pressure because they overlook key Communist infiltration routes from Laos into South Vietnam's northern provinces.

Military sources said Allied forces killed 72 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong around O'Reilly Tuesday.

In a delayed report, the U. S. Command said Communist ground fire shot down two U. S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter bombers Monday night 12 miles southwest of Da Nang. Two men aboard one of the $2.4 million planes were killed and two others were missing.

Communist ground fire shot down a U.S. UH1 Huey helicopter on the northern coast of South Vietnam near Hoi An, 357 miles north-northeast of Saigon Tuesday. The crash killed four Americans.

Cambodian military spokesmen said the fighting broke out an hour after dark when government forces met the Viet Cong at Trek Tamek, ine miles north of the capital. The Cambodians called in help from South Vietnamese AC47 "Spooky" gunships firing 20mm cannon and Cambodian gunboats firing mortars from the Mekong River, which runs through Trek Tamek.

After the Cambodian forces broke up the Viet Cong force, the AC47s—a military version of the twin-engine DC3 equipped with rapid-firing cannon—raked the jungle with gunfire until nearly midnight, the spokesmen said.

Casualties were not announced.

It was the second outbreak of fighting near Trek Tanek in 10 days. The village is on what military experts say is a Communist infiltration route to Phnom Penh.

It was not the closest Communist penetration to the capital. Cambodian forces have broken up Viet Cong infiltration missions as close as four miles from Phnom Penh in the past few weeks.

The Cambodian command has cited the results of fighting near the capital as proof government security forces are fully capable of defending it.

Action in other parts of Cambodia was light and scattered, with Communist forces bombarding the besieged city of Kompong Thom with 15 rounds of mortar fire Tuesday night. The city is 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Viet Dove Is Rejected In Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—Wyoming voters rejected an antiwar candidate Tuesday in a closely watched primary and set up a U.S. Senate fight this fall between incumbent Democrat Gale McGee and Republican congressman John S. Wold.

McGee and Wold, both supporters of President Nixon's Indochina policies, scored easy victories to advance in a Senate race that is a rematch of the 1964 election.

LIGHT VOTE

Wyoming voters, turning out in lighter numbers than expected, also set up a race for the state's only congressional seat between former Congressman Teno Roncalio, a Cheyenne Democrat, and Republican Harry Roberts, state superintendent of public instruction.

McGee's primary opponent was antiwar candidate D. P. "Mike" Svilar, a state senator who had pledged to work for immediate withdrawal of American troops in Vietnam. Wold's opponent was Laramie businessman Art Linde.

LATEST COUNT

MsGee led his opponent 27,884 votes to 7,427 with 402 of 468 precincts reporting. Wold was ahead of Linde, 32,179 to 4,679.

"The vote, at this point at least, indicates that the overwhelming majority of the people of our state put the interests of the United States' leadership in foreign affairs ahead of narrow partisan politics," McGee said.

A former university professor who is considered a liberal in traditionally conservative Wyoming, McGee came under repeated attack during the campaign as a result of his pro-Vietnam policies.

McGee frequently has been the only voice supporting war policies on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Aid To Education Upheld By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By refusing to back the Nixon administration's spending curbs, defecting Republicans slowly are undermining a prime GOP campaign issue—excessive spending by a Democratic controlled congress.

Twice in less than two months ignoring President Nixon's orders to cut spending, Congress has overturned his vetoes.

In both cases, Republicans deserting the administration have provided enough votes to muster the two-thirds majority needed to over-ride.

The Senate, following the example set by the House, Tuesday comfortably over-rode Nixon's veto of the $4.4 billion aid to education appropriations bill. The 77-to-16 vote automatically made the measure law.

Joining with all voting Democrats, 23 Republican senators cast ballots against the administration's position. Sixteen Republicans vote to sustain the veto.

In June the Senate over-rode Nixon's veto of the hospital construction bill, 76-to-19, with 23 Republicans defecting.

The Senate's action on the aid to education bill gave Nixon a split on his vetoes so far. The Presidents' vetoes of the fiscal 1970 Health, Education, and Welfare bill and the fiscal 1971 housing and independent offices appropriations bills were sustained.

President Pays A Walking Visit To Old Neighborhood

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon paid a walking visit to his old Manhattan neighborhood Tuesday, enjoying the abundance of well-wishers and the lack of the usual antiwar demonstrators.

Nixon came to brief the editors and executives of the New York Daily News. There also was a bit of nostalgia in his visit when he took an impromptu stroll from the Hotel Pierre to his former apartment residence at 810 Fifth Avenue with his daughter Tricia, 24.

The President not only stopped but seemed to seek out long-haired youths, young men and women, for brief chats.

The crowds which trailed him were friendly and enthusiastic. The visit, kept secret until Tuesday morning, was free of the militant antiwar demonstrations he and his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, faced on previous New York trips.

There were a few antiwr signs. Some placards with obscene slogans and some calls of "we want peace." But Nixon felt free and safe to walk the streets, and he said so.

He told reporters:

"I think the climate is some better—yes, its better. It's the hope that people have.

"I think whether it's the Middle East, Vietnam or the rest — that we are moving — even though they must disagree in various ways. That we are moving toward a period when we can have a peaceful world.

The President spent two hours discussing foreign and domestic policy with the editors and executives of the nation's largest circulation daily.

Tricia Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tricia Nixon is back at the White House after several days in the company of her favorite boy friend, New York socialite Edward Finch Cox.

A Smokeless Jet Engine Bill Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill giving airlines an additional year to convert to relatively smokeless jet engines last night cleared the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and went to the Assembly floor for a vote.

A 1969 state law required that jet emissions be virtually smokeless by Jan. 1, 1971. The new measure, SB 904 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, would postpone the deadline to Dec. 31, 1971, to give the airlines the time they say is needed to convert their engines.

McCarthy's bill originally would have given the airlines an additional two years, but this was halved by the Assembly Transportation Committee after the airline industry reported one year extra would be enough to bring most of their jets into compliance with the 1969 law.

Assembly approval of the bill would send it back to the Senate for concurrence in the amendment.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Florida Unrest

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Brickbats and gasoline bombs were thrown in this city's northwest section early today.

In neighboring Pompano Beach, where trouble started Saturday night, Mayor Frank Rozler ordered an investigation of the police department and agreed to withdraw police from the troubled Northwest area.

Two small white boys-ages 11 and 8-were treated for minor injuries at Broward General Hospital. The car in which they were riding was hit by rocks.

There were reports of shotgun blasts and several firebombings in the black district.

Uruguay Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Organization of American States (OAS) was asked today to stand behind Uruguay in that nation's refusal to give in to leftist terrorists who have murdered one U.S. official and threatened the lives of two other diplomats.

The inter-American organization has already condemned terrorist kidnappings as "crimes against humanity," but it had not before today been asked to sanction any one country's hard line stand against such acts. Uruguay asked for such an endorsement and the OAS council planned a mid-morning meeting to consider the request.

Uruguay's resolution made no suggestions as to any collective action on the part of the OAS, leaving it up to the nations to decide individually how to meet such acts.

To View Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — Rulers of East European Communist conntries will meet in Moscow in the next few days to discuss the effect of the historic Soviet-West German treaty on the European situation, East European sources said today.

They will renew the Moscow-sponsored call for an all European security conference, the sources said.

The Communist party leaders and premiers of the Soviet Unios, Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania were expected to welcome the Soviet-West German pact as a major contribution to European peace and call for further European and world detente.

Wyoming Fires

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Forest fires, their flames fanned into giant peaks by winds gusting to 50 miles per hour, raged out of control in three separate areas of northern Wyoming today. More than 6,000 acres of timber and grasslands have been charred.

The largest of the fires, which turned the sky a "blood red," destroyed more than 5,000 heavily timbered acres of the Big Horn National Forest near the Montana state line Tuesday night.

The other fires blazed on the Wind River Indian Reservation, where two men lost their lives when a converted bomber with fire-fighting chemicals crashed; and in the Shoshone National Forest, scene of a major fire last week.

Cholera Threat

International health officials are confident the current wave of cholera in Asia and the Soviet Union will stop short of U.S. shores. Western Europe also is considered safe but Africa poses a problem.

"Standards of hygiene in Europe are such that there can be no question of an epidemic spreading westward," a spokesman said at World Health Organization WHO headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

In Africa, however, health standards are much lower and any spreading of the disease would be difficult to stem.

Reports Egypt may have imported cholera from Asian travelers has caused deep concern.

Union Found Guilty Of Secondary Boycott

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 has been found guilty of engaging in a secondary boycott aimed at preventing the movement of newsprint to the Independent-Journal, which the union struck Jan. 7.

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner ruled Monday that the typographical union and two teamsters union locals had engaged in unfair labor practices since Jan. 19 in connection with picketing at a San Francisco pier where newsprint bound for the I-J was stored.

Trial examiner Allen Sinsheimer ordered the typographical union to cease encouraging picketing at Pier 46A in San Francisco and to cease encouraging the trucking company which brought the newsprint to the I-J to stop doing business with the I-J.

The union was also ordered to stop threatening, coercing or restraining anyone from doing business with the I-J.

Teamsters Local 287 was ordered to stop encouraging employees of the trucking firm to refuse to pick up or deliver goods destined for the I-J.

In addition, Teamsters Local 85 was ordered to stop threatening, coercing or restraining the Star Terminal Co., which operates the pier, from doing business in connection with newsprint distribution.

The three unions were ordered to post notices to their members notifying them that the unions will follow the NLRB ruling.

The unions must also notify the NLRB within 20 days what steps they have taken to comply with the order.

U.S. Finds Israeli Charges Of Violations Inconclusive

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

U.S. diplomats today tried to ease the Egyptian missile crisis and get Arab-Israeli peace talks started. The Suez Canal cease-fire held fast but Israeli warplanes struck into southern Lebanon.

The United States declared today that it had no conclusive evidence to support Israeli charges that Egypt and Russia violated the standstill agreement in the period immediately following the cease-fire in the Suez Canal Zone.

The State Department said there was "some evidence" from the Israelis that the forward movement of anti-aircraft missiles which had been in progress immediately prior to the cease-fire continued beyond the cease-fire deadline but added that "our evidence of this is not conclusive."

A department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said this applied to alleged violations on April 8. He said that the United States was still examining additional charges made by the Israelis that there were Egyptian violations of the standstill agreement on Aug. 13, 14 and 16.

Yitzhak Rabin, Israel's ambassador to the United States, returned to Tel Aviv from Washington to report to Premier Golda Meir on the U.S. attitude toward Israeli charges that Egypt was violating the 12-day-old cease-fire by moving missiles in the Suez area.

Rabin carried word from Washington that the United States does not believe the matter serious enough to delay peace talks under U.N. auspice any longer.

Washington dispatches said U.S. reconnaissance has not been able to draw firm conclusions about whether Soviet-built antiaircraft rockets had been moved closer to the canal in violation of the truce at Israel has charged. The United States contends that developments since the cease-fire have not put Israel at a military disadvantage.

Rabin, in remarks to newsmen at Tel Aviv, sought to allay reports that the missile matter had caused a crisis in relations between Israel and the United States.

"It is not wise to speak of a crisis in confidence between us and Washington," Rabin said. "It would be unwise to damage our relations because America is the only real friend we have in the world.

"But there are differences of opinion and these have to be discussed. The present U.S. attitude to our charges of cease-fire violations is not its final conclusion. I do not believe there is any basic change in the U.S. attitude."

Egypt, Jordan and the Soviet Union attacked Israel for not agreeing to get peace talks started.

The big four power sought today to put their weight behind the Middle East peace mission of Swedish mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to get Arab-Israeli negotiations started.

Representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and United States were meeting at the Park Avenue residence of French Ambassador Jacques Kosciusko-Morizet in their 41st session to provide guidelines for a settlement.

Informed sources said little could be expected to today's effort. The big four Middle East talks have been unable to produce concrete agreement since they began in April, 1969.

The Jarring mission has been unsuccessful in getting Israel to begin negotiations because Israel contends Egypt violated the 12-day old cease-fire agreement by moving missiles close to the Suez Canal.

Guilty Verdict In Co-Ed Slaying

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A jury of six men and six women, after deliberating since last Friday, Wednesday found John Norman Collins guilty of first-degree murder in the slaying of Karen Sue Beineman, an 18-year-old co-ed.

The verdict carried an automatic sentence of life imprisonment for the Eastern Michigan University senior.

Collins faces another murder charge in the sex slaying of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, near Salinas, Calif., in June, 1969. Monterey County, Calif., District Attorney Ed Barnes said Wednesday he would begin extradition proceedings against Collins within 10 days. He said he would wait until Collins is sentenced Aug. 28.

Caribbean Jetliner Hijacked To Havana

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)—A Trans Caribbean Airways DC8 jetliner with 149 persons aboard was hijacked today on a flight from Newark, N.J. to Puerto Rico and ordered to fly to Cuba.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) in New York reported the plane landed in Havana at 5:19 a.m. EDT. The aircraft was scheduled to continue its flight to San Juan from Havana, but there was no indication when it would be allowed to leave Cuba.

Priority List On Parks Set In Belvedere

Five priorities for the development of parks, lanes and beaches in Belvedere were formulated last night by the city's parks and recreation commission and forwarded to the city council.

Secty. Wendy Buchen said the commission established the priorities from recommendations contained in a long-range parks master plan recently prepared for the city by a consultant.

Two sets of priorities were drawn up, one for work which must be done before certain facilities can be used and the other for upgrading and improving facilities now in use.

The first group contains three items:

1. Securing title to a pedestrian lane running from West Shore Road to Pelican Road. Belvedere Land Co. has promised to deed the land to the city for a lane, and the commission recommended that the transfer be completed.

2. Development of Lagoon Road Park, which could be used both as a recreation area and as a holding pond for flood waters during winter months. Mrs. Buchen said the pond would be a temporary measure until permanent flood control measures can be accomplished.

3. Improvement of access steps to Belvedere Cove Beach.

The second group of priorities contains two items:

1. Renovation of the entrance to the city along San Rafael Avenue, including planting of trees and the improvement of a pedestrian walkway.

2. Improvement of Belvedere Cove Beach.

ties is less than 500 feet and that flat usable portions of the Garlick propery are only two minutes farther from Central Novato than the O'Hair property by car and that the Garlick offer included a trade for propety immediately adjacent to San Marin High for a swimming pool.

Quesada said there was more flat, developable land on the Garlick property and that the O'Hair property would be more difficult to police since half the land consists of 40 per cent or more slope.

He said that sewer and water facilities would cost only slightly more and that costs could be delayed by use of only minimal water facilities and chemical toilets.

Councilman Joseph D. Gargiulo said that he favored the Garlick property, and Councilman Douglas M. Merrill said, "I don't know who's right."

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain said that the Garlick property has "a great deal of potential," but that he favors the O'Hair property because opposing the recommendations of the parks and recreation commission would confuse the public an possibly prevent purchase of either property.

Beverly Ehreth of 792 St. Francis Avenue said that she felt the council "should take a close look at the differences in the philosophy" of the park master plan and current sentiment.

Calling the oak forest on the north slope of the Garlick property "an ecological gem," she said, "I do feel that we have an obligation to preserve some areas as they are . . . to me it's extraordinarily important."

Robert D. Anderson of 53 Orchard Way said, "If it takes having to go back and analyze our master plan, let's do it . . . there should be a redefinition of the responsibilities of the parks and recreation commission — whether they serve the city council or whether they should listen to residents."

Anderson said that public discussion at the commission meeting was pro-Garlick, but that the commissioners virtually ignored it and kept the same opinions they came in with.

Merrill said the question of a re-evaluation of the park master plan should be raised by the commission and that it should hold hearings to determine whether the plan still reflects community feelings and attitudes.

However, no agreement on whether to pursue purchase of park land or on procedures to be followed was reached.

equally guilty with the actual participants.

Unconfirmed reports also circulated that Miss Davis drove the rented escape van to the vicinity of the Civic Center the day before the shooting.

Police also reportedly are seeking Franklin D. Alexander, 28, at whose home Miss Davis' car was found last night. One of the weapons used in the shoot-out previously was found in his apartment, but returned to him under a court order.

Police also reported that several witnesses said a woman matching Miss Davis's description arrived at Los Angeles International Airport yesterday aboard a flight from New York City. However, officers said the clothing descriptions varied greatly, and tended to discount the reports.

One other woman is currently on the most wanted list, Marie Arrington, sought since May of last year when she escaped from a Florida prison while awaiting execution for murder.

The first woman to be listed was Ruth Eisemann-Schier, later arrested for the kidnapping of a Florida heiress.

In Marin, meanwhile, the only surviving convict from the shoot-out may be one of the first San Quentin inmates to see court held within the prison's confines.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he will seek to have at least the preliminary stages of legal proceedings held in the prison against Ruchell Magee, 31.

Named To Council

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today named former Ventura assistant District Attorney Herbert L. Ashby, 40, to the California Council on Criminal Justice.

Young Rivas Takes Stand To Tell Story

Ronald Rivas, 21, returned to the witness stand today in his trial on a charge that he shot his father to death in the family home at 59 Raposa Vista, Novato, on the night of July 17, 1969.

It was his third trip in two days to the witness box, and perhaps his most crucial one. Today, Rivas's defense attorneys, Robert Carrow and Robert Bell, planned to have him recount his memories of the evening on which his father, Fidel I. Rivas, died. The morning session of the trial was unable to start until 11 a.m. due to interference from other court business.

Young Rivas took the stand unexpectedly yesterday morning, when the attorneys' supply of other defense witnesses temporarily ran out. In both the morning and afternoon sessions of the trial, Rivas described family troubles going back to the early 1960s.

Interrupting Rivas's testimony, the atterneys put a family friend, Jerry Orth of San Rafael, on the stand late yesterday to describe his discussions of family problems with the mother, Mrs. Marjorie Rivas.

Beginning in a small, low voice, he answered Carrow's questions about his early childhood in San Antonio, Tex., where he lived before coming to California when he was 13.

Frequently bowing his head for long periods before answering, young Rivas recalled his brother's and sisters' distress at seeing their father running around with another woman and her children while the Rivas family was in want for food, money and clothes for school. He also said the family was in constant fear of his father's repeated violence toward Mrs. Rivas and of his temper outbursts toward the children.

Saying he tried to be close with his father, young Rivas recalled, "he pushed me away," and later recalled that the elder Rivas often called him effeminate and used scornful nicknames for the son and the son's friends.

Senate Doves Rewrite Plan To End War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate doves today rewrote their "amendment to end the war," extending the proposed deadline for getting out of Vietnam by six months — until the end of next year.

The revised amendment to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill was introduced by Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., and Charles Goodell, R-N. Y.

The new McGovern-Goodell amendment would cut off funds for maintaining or introducing U.S. troops "in or over Indochina" after Dec. 31, 1971 unless Congress voted to extend the deadline.

The measure would permit expenditures, however, "for purposes specifically authorized by the Congress, for the release of prisoners and for the arrangement of asylum for Indochinese who might be physically endangered by the withdrawal of U.S. forces."

Sponsors, estimating they now have upwards of 30 sure votes for the measure, said they hoped the revision would attract support from other senators who were reluctant to accept the original withdrawal deadline of next June 30.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield termed Agnew's strong criticism as uncalled for. He said:

"I do not question the vice president's patriotism or dedication. He should not question ours."

McGovern said the later withdrawal deadline did not alter the central purpose of the amendment — a definite timetable for the withdrawal of all American forces.

"We continue and reaffirm our conviction that unless such action is taken we must accept the dismal prospect of many more years of brutal and futile warfare," he said.

mittee in final debate before the Senate vote on the issue.

"The Department of Defense cannot support, and is opposed, to the Brooke amendment," Laird said. "It is the view of the department that adoption of the amendment would both increase the cost and reduce the effectiveness of the Safeguard defense of Minuteman (offensive missiles)."

He then said the measure would eliminate protection to a substantial number of strategic bomber bases.

A similar amendment sponsored by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. was rejected last Wednesday. But unlike the Brooke amendment, it would have cut $322 million earmarked for new Safeguard installations at Whiteman AFB, Mo., and Warren AFB, Wyo.

The Brooke amendment would allow the entire $1.3 billion requested by the administration, freeing the extra $322 million to be used for more radars and computers at Grand Forks and Malmstrom.

Brooke contended his proposal would create a "defense in depth" of the Minuteman fields at Malmstrom and Grand Forks.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has led the fight for Safeguard, said the number of Minuteman silos protected by Brooke's proposal would be less than a third of those guarded if the system were expanded to Whiteman and Warren.

As with the Cooper-Hart amendment, the key argument was the effect of the proposal on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

REAGAN

Paul Beck, also said it "would be appalling, almost" to not cast a "courtesy vote" for "a poor guy who is sick."

But another of the dissidents, Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, said, "I don't have any feeling of responsibility because they had plenty of time to take up the bill before Sen. Carrell got ill."

Administration forces were waiting until Carpenter's election before calling another vote. The state party chairman told newsmen today, "I'll vote for the bill. Tax reform is essential, and I'm tired of the Democrats playing political games with it."

The Newport Beach attorney previously had declined to publicly commit himself to voting for the measure, although he had said he endorsed it "right down the line."

Carpenter was expected to be sworn into office Thursday or Friday, and backers planned a showdown soon afterward.

Reagan was expected to confer today and Thursday with Senators, including opponents, in an attempt to secure the extra vote. The governor also was considering issuing a special appeal for public support.

The deadlocked bill represents half the governor's tax revision package. The other half required only a simple majority vote and passed the Senate last month. It now is in the Assembly awaiting concurrence in Senate amendments.

Suspected Woman Arsonist Booked

A 24-year-old Novato woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of setting a fire that did $24,000 damage to a rented house at 1253 Yukon Way on Aug. 4, Novato police reported.

Grace Patricia Halloran, of 10 Gustafson Court, reportedly told firemen she discovered the fire when she awoke in the middle of the night and she awoke a young man and woman who occupied the house with her.

A gasoline can was found in the kitchen near where the fire started, police reported.

The house is owned by Dennis Weaver of Tahoe.

Miss Halloran was held on $5,000 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

bow-shaped duplexes of 1,000 square feet each; geodesic dome structures; and another plan with a variety of styles now being drawn by six different architects.

He said there is nothing wrong with the plans that would constitute code violations, but the only problem is that the building department has never encountered them before.

"There will be very low cost units," he said. "The two bedrooms will rent for $80 per month and two persons can get by in them for $40 each."

The students are currently negotiating for purchase of land in the foothills of the Sonoma Mountains east of the campus.

Although the group is operating on limited funds, Hanson said, "We've got a pretty comprehensive plan and hope to do a pilot project next month and then have a full-size project going in three months."

"We feel we've got the answer because we're students and know what students want," he said. "We're also planning for high school students and even getting into the junior high school level to see where they're at. Most problems come up when people don't look ahead."

from the Petaluma company, North Bay Charter Service.

Walker, however, said that the newly leased busses were "not in too good a shape either."

Conviction of volating the regulations would be a misdemeanor, he said.

Marin Transit Systems has been operating a feeder service to the Tiburon ferry since November, a service subsidized by the county at a total of $30,000 through Sept. 15.

In addition, the company has won a promise of a $51,000 subsidy from the county to expand service to San Rafael and Novato.

One condition of the promised subsidy was that the company comply with all highway patrol safety regulations.

Barron had written Walker on July 13 that the company was "confident of our ability to adhere to the code in providing safe and efficient service to the public."

Sculptor Benny Bufano Dies At 72

THE MASTER'S EYE — Benny Bufano, the colorful sculptor of huge and often controversial granite and steel statues, examines a model for a mammoth sculpture he wanted to build on Alcatraz before the Indians moved there. Bufano, 72, was found dead in his studio yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Benny Bufano, considered by many the greatest sculptor since Rodin, is dead at the age of 72.

The body of the pint-sized Italian born artist famed for his works of heroic proportions was found in his studio Tuesday by friends who were worried because they had not heard from him. The coroners' office tentatively blamed a heart attack and said he had been dead for 36 hours.

An objective view of Bufano the artist was often clouded by the complex picture of Bufano the man.

He was a confidant of the city's leaders and claimed friendships with major figures throughout the world. Stories about him were legendary although it was often difficult to separate fact from Bufano's fertile fancy.

A life-long pacifist, he said he had chopped off the first joint of his trigger finger and sent it to President Woodrow Wilson to protest World War I. Also, he said, he designed the buffalo on one side of the old nickel and posed for the Indian head profile on the other side.

The resemblance was there, but the coin's designer of record insisted Bufano merely swept out his studio.

He was born in the Southern Italian village of San Felee and came to the United States in 1900. He was married in 1925 and divorced here six years later. His wife said he was "not designed for domestic life."

He was involved in frequent legal battles over both his personal life and works and was perpetually broke until a group of friends finally took over his finances. They have also gathered more than 500 of his works in storage.

His friend Henry Miller called him "the poorest and richest artist in all America. He is also the purest. He will outlive our civilization and probably be better known and better understood, both as a man and as an artist, 5000 years hence."

His works are part of the landscape in many open areas in Northern California as well as on display in major museums and the United Nations, where he donated a 3-5 foot copper hand with a mosaic in the palm depicting the world's children.

His most massive piece, an 85-foot mosaic of stainless steel and redwood, is perched atop a 250-foot promontory on the rugged Northern California coast and is visible 150 miles out to sea.

A 30-foot tall "peace" statue condemned by many critics stands at the approaches to San Francisco International Airport. An 18-foot work of St. Francis of Assisi languished in a Paris warehouse for 28 years before coming here. It is now outside the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union offices.

Yet British critic Roger Fry called the latter work "the most significant piece of sculpture done within the past 500 years."

Bufano's round animal figures, possibly his best known works, are found in the hundreds. His creation of the Press Club mascot cat, for instance, brought him free lodging there.

A mosaic depicting St. Francis with the children of the world adorns the wall of Moars Cafeteria and earned him free meals there.

But most of Bufano's life was spent without cash or permanent lodging. If he obtained any money, he usually would use it for the raw materials of massive uncommissioned works.

"I want to be poor," he once explained. "I'll be damned if I'm going to waste my life decorating the homes of the rich."

He sustained himself on cheese, sour dough bread and wine for years until he rendered the work for Moar's.

In 1944, he was appointed to the San Francisco Art Commission. His controversial actions and stormy fights with fellow members resulted in only one term of service.

But before his term was up he succeeded in commissioning Leopold Stokowski and Igor Stravinsky to present 50-cent concerts at a city-subsidized series.

In 1963, while suing the city for $65,000 over ownership of two of his pieces of sculpture, he was warned by Superior Court Judge Charles S. Peery to use more temperate language.

"It's difficult for me to sit here like a vegetable and listen to all those lies," Bufano apologized, "and I apologize to your honor for you to have to sit and listen to them, too."

Finance Committee Concurs With BCDC Alternates Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill partially restoring the power of San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission members to appoint alternates has been endorsed by the Senate Finance Committee

The bill, AB 1771 by Assemblyman John F. Dunlap, D-Vallejo, went to the Senate floor for action that would send it back to the Assembly for concurrence in the radically amended bill.

Dunlap originally proposed that each commissioner appoint an alternate, subject to confirmation by the person or body appointing the commissioner. This power was in the 1965 law that created the commission, but stricken by the 1969 law that made it permanent.

The Senate Governmental Organization Committee amended Dunlap's bill to limit the power to appoint alternates to alternates with the same qualifications required for the regular commissioner. Thus city councilmen and county supervisors could only appoint fellow councilmen and supervisors as their alternates.

Government officials supported the original Dunlap measure on the ground they could not find time to attend every meeting. The amendment incorporated the provisions of a bill by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

Earthquake Jolts Region In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A strong earthquake jolted south central Alaska Tuesday, but no injuries or property damage was reported.

A seismograph at the Environmental Services Administration in Palmer said the jolt registered 6 on the Richter Scale and centered 150 miles east of Anchorage.

Committee Kills Bill To Halt Littering

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill making it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10 to $500 to fail to maintain property free of accumulations of litter has been killed by the Assembly Criminal Procedures Committee.

Committee members objected that the bill, SB 1195 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, was designed to make it easier to convict litterers instead of attacking the problem of litter itself.

The bill declared that property owners have "the duty to maintain such property, including the adjoining sidewalks, free from accumulations of waste matter."

Petaluman Treated For Accident Injury

Robert Higgins, 31, of 425 Sierra Avenue, Cotati, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for a head cut suffered in an accident at 2 a.m. today.

Transportation Bill Wins Senate Approval

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill creating a nine-county Metropolitan Transportation Commission in the Bay Area, including Marin, yesterday won Sentate approval.

The measure, by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, went back to the lower house for concurrence in minor amendments. Foran predicted swift approval by the Assembly, which would send the bill to the governor for his signature into law.

Under Foran's bill, AB 363, the commission would have binding authority over local transportation plans, including those drawn by the Golden Gate Bridge District. It will be financed by transfer of $530,000 a year in federal and state planning grants now going to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

A similar Foran measure last year passed the Assembly Transportation Committee, but got no further.

The 19-member commission would have one representative each from Marin and Sonoma counties, to be selected by the boards of supervisors.

The commission would have power to review all applications for state and federal grants. The commission would "forward only those applications that are compatible" with the regional transportation plan it is to draw by 1974.

With Citizenship Comes Official Name Of Tommy

Kim Fung (Tommy) Hom of Mill Valley became Tommy Kim Fung Hom last month when he and nine other Marinites became American citizens.

Hom, 45, of 1 Azalea Drive, has gone by the name "Tommy" since he came to the United States in 1941, so he had it legally changed when he was naturalized in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

A native of a small village in Canton province of China, Hom was brought to the U.S. when he was 17 by an uncle in San Francisco.

During World War II, he worked as a kitchen helper on merchant ships. Following the war, he stayed in the kitchen and has worked in San Francisco restaurants.

When Senor Pico's restaurant opened in Ghirardelli Square in 1964, Hom was named to his present job — head chef.

When he came to the United States, his uncle told Hom that he should have an English name because it would be easier for people to remember.

In the Cantonese dialect, Hom is pronounced "Tom," and Kim Fung became Tommy.

Following the war, on a visit to Hong Kong, he met and married his wife, Mary Lee. They now have three children: Calvin, 17, who graduated from Tamalpais Hgh School and will attend the University of California at Santa Barbara in the fall; Richard, 16, a senior at Tamalpais, and Stephen, 8, a student at Alto School.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month are:

MARINWOOD — Duncan George Gordon, 628 Blackberry Lane.

TAMALPAIS VALLEY — Robert Martin, 1023 Trillium Lane.

Novato's Water Ballet Show Set Friday, Saturday Nights

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department's annual synchronized swimming water ballet show will be held Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Novato High School swimming pool.

Theme of the show is "A Little of This and That From Here and There," and it will feature synchronized swimming numbers done by 80 Marinites from 6 to 18 years old to popular songs of today as well as some hits of the past.

The finale, "Hello, Dolly," is an experimental novelty number combining swimming and dancing on the pool deck.

A diving exhibition will be given during the intermission.

Admission will be free, according to Cheryl A. Ziegler of the parks and recreation department.

Oriental Paintings Currently Displayed

An exhibit of Oriental paintings by Venita Brous Lobdell of Novato will be on display from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday until Sept. 5 at the Expression Art Gallery at the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Lobdell, an art teacher, has studied Oriental art and culture with master artists in the Orient and Hawaii.

Mental Health Talks

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board will meet at 8 p.m. today in Room 180 of the Hall of Justice to discuss a five-year plan for community mental health.

Panel Kills Power Plant Review Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would have subjected electric power plant sites to a review of their environmental effects was killed yesterday by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

The measure, AB 818 by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, died on a 2-2 vote, one short of the majority needed to clear the committee. The committee's fifth member, Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, was absent. Marks indicated during a previous hearing on the measure that he opposed it, thus his return from a voyage to Hawaii apparently would not have saved the measure.

Briggs had worked for months trying to win approval by conservationists, regional air pollution control officials and the power companies, but never succeeded. Opposing his measure yesterday were representatives of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District and the Southern California Edison Co.

The district objected that the bill could cut into its jurisdiction over power plants, while the utility objected that it could "leave in doubt the finality of the California Public Utility Commission's decisions."

Deadline Set In Factory Pollution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bay Area Air Pollution District Tuesday gave an Antioch factory until May to complete a new system for disposing of lead and other wastes.

The plant is owned by E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company and manufactures tetra-ethyl lead for gasoline companies.

Ross Austin, a duPont attorney, said an explosion in June disrupted a disposal system that pumped waste 6,000 feet below ground.

Long Search Seen To Pick School Chief

The search for a superintendent for the Reed School District will continue after Labor Day following a citizens' screening committee report last night that none of the 28 candidates for the job was suitable.

Dr. Charles Epstein, screening committee chairman, told the trustees that six of the 28 candidates were selected for interviews. Only two of these were able to meet for interviews and neither was satisfactory, according to Epstein.

"I would suggest," said Epstein, "that after the Labor Day holiday is over, Reed announce the position and begin the screening procedure."

The superintendent position became vacant when Robert B. Gaw resigned in June.

The Reed School District board also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Bryce Moore, a teacher at Reed School, for personal reasons.

Reed Trustees Delay Decision On District Transfer Question

Reed School District trustees sidestepped the thorny question of interdistrict transfers last night as repercussions of Sausalito School District's problems continued to be felt in other Southern Marin districts.

The Reed board instructed Interim Supt. Stanley Friese to prepare a revised policy on interdistrict transfers for review at its Sept. 2 meeting.

"The board does not encourage interdistrict transfers," said Friese. "In normal times, this would go largely unnoticed, but now with the possibility of so many applications for transfer, we need to take a closer look at our policy."

Friese suggested that the revised policy be based on availability of transportation, classroom space in Reed district schools and the emotional well-being of the individual students.

Two requests for transfer out of the Reed district were approved last night, while two others into the district from Sausalito were postponed until a revised policy can be adopted The Reed trustees seemed determined to judge each application on its individual merits, rather than making a sweeping policy at this time.

The interdistrict transfer matter appeared to have died after surprisingly brief discussion, until Willis C. Bohn, 121 Leland Way, Tiburon, asked just before the meeting adjourned if this policy revision was being considered because of a large influx of transfer applications from other districts.

"We do not have an influx of transfers," board chairman Gordon Wright replied flatly.

Bohn suggested that he thought there seemed to be a number of parents in Sausalito "desirous of transferring out of Sausalito into Mill Valley."

"Firstly," replied Trustee James Richwagen, "we have an existing policy which discourages interdistrict transfers, and secondly, I would hate to have a policy that would introduce chaos into the district."

The revised policy to be prepared by Friese is also expected to contain a provision that all expenses involved in such transfers be paid by the school district losing the students to the district receiving the students.

Although only two of the four interdistrict transfers considered by the Reed trustees last night came from parents of Sausalito School District pupils, the Independent-Journal was told that there may be as many as 50 Sausalito students applying for transfer to the Reed district if the door is opened to them. The Sausalito School District board is expected to continue its consideration of the problem at its Aug. 31 meeting.

Interdistrict transfers are normally accomplished only with the approval of the two school districts involved. However, if there is a disagreement, the county board of education has the power to intervene, according to Friese.

New BCDC Function Dies In Senate Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation that would have put the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission in the sewage business has been killed by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The measure, AB 1310 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, was opposed by commission officials, the Port of Oakland, Leslie Salt Co., and the League of California Cities. All but the commission itself opposed it on the ground that they did not want BCDC to gain any new powers.

Knox's bill would have required BCDC to plan construction of a regional sewage system. The State Water Resources Control Board already has completed preliminary planning for such a system, and is about to prepare detailed plans.

BCDC never voted to oppose the measure, but several of its members urged its defeat. The commission's effectiveness would be diluted if it were to get into another field, they argued.

The League of California Cities also objected that the Knox bill was another attempt to make BCDC a regional governmental agency.

Clausen Urges Extending Limit

NORTHBEND, Ore (UPI) — Legislation is pending to extend U.S. territorial waters to 50 miles or to the continental shelf, Rep. Donald D. Clausen, R-Calif., told a meeting of fishermen Tuesday.

Under the present 1966 law, this nation controls waters within 12 miles of its shores.

U.S. Fishermen assert the present limit is being violated by Russian boats that are larger, faster and better equipped than theirs.

Clausen spoke at a meeting attended by 600 fishermen from Oregon, California, Washington and Alaska to discuss the intrusion problem. The session was called by Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore.

U.S. Launches Second Satellite For Britain

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The United States launched a second Skynet communications satellite for Great Britain today to open hundreds of new military radio channels between the British Isles and the Far East.

The American - built spacecraft was headed toward a stationary orbital outpost 22,300 miles above the Indian Ocean where it will join a sister satellite orbited last November.

The new Skynet, weighing 535 pounds and costing $5.5 million, left earth at 8:11 a. m. EDT on the 80th Delta rocket launched by the U. S. space agency in 10 years. Britain will reimburse the agency $4.6 million for launch costs.

Skynet rode a plume of fire toward an initial egg-shaped orbit. On Friday, a small rocket motor aboard the spacecraft will kick it into a 22,300-mile high circular path and then small jets will nudge it toward its final parking place.

The first Skynet, reported performing "exceptionally well," is now relaying voice, teletype and facsimile communications between the Royal Annications.

Terminals also will be installed on the assault ships HMs Fearless and HMs Intrepid, and smaller mobile stations are being built for air transport to eastern trouble spots.

Each Skynet satellite is able to relay one television transmission, or 600 telephone conversatins or 6,000 teletype messages simultaneously. In addition, the satellites have an usual second radio pathway to relay communications between low power mobile terminals.

The Skynet satellites are similar to two satellites built for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). All four spacecraft were built by Philo-Ford Corp., Newport Beach, Calif., and all are designed to work with the American military satellite communictions network.

The space agency also planned to orbit a pair of bullfrogs in a research satellite from Wallops Island, Va., today, but that shot has been postponed until Friday.

LACKLAND AFB, Tex. (UPI)—The commander of this Air Force base, Maj. Gen. John S. Samuel, said Tuesday his public information officer used poor judgement in ordering 15 airmen to clip Samuel's photograph out of 10,000 copies of the base newspaper.

The information officer, Lt. Col. John Hartig, had insisted the photograph be deleted Aug. 7 because it was considered to have been inappropriately cropped for publication in the paper, the Tailspinner. Only head and shoulders appeared in the picture of the general receiving the Legion of Merit award.

The man responsible for cropping the photograph, assistant editor Jim D. Palmer, was dismissed from the paper, and the resulting squabble reached all the way to Washington.

The paper's editor, Sgt. John E. Polich, wrote to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., protesting Palmer's firing, and Proxmire wrote to Samuels asking that the matter be investigated.

Polich said his superior on the newspaper ordered Palmer to include the photograph, although the deadline was near and there was little space available. Then when the photo was cut down from 8-by-10 to six inches and two and a half inches, Polich said M-Sgt. Michael A. Kenny, who had ordered Sgt. Palmer to run the picture, stormed into the office "in a rage" and dismissed Palmer.

The disc used in playing shuffleboard is six inches in diameter.

'SOMETHING DIFFERENT'

San Anselmo Teen-Ager Builds Hovercraft From Magazine Idea

An article in a national science magazine earlier this year, in giving instructions for building a hovercraft, informed its readers that construction of the craft was easy and wouldn't cost much money.

A 15-year-old San Anselmo boy thought it might be "something different" to do.

Six months and $200 later, Craig Madison of 9 Dutch Valley Lane had himself a hovercraft.

Madison's vehicle — which is probably the only hovercraft in Marin County and bears the name "UFO-XI" is powered by a three horse power lawnmower engine and is capable, according to the magazine, of traveling on land or water at a top speed of 30 miles per hour.

Madison has made up to 25 miles per hour, but hasn't tried it on water yet. The gas tank isn't too big, he explained, and "we want to make sure we have enough gas if we take it out on a lake."

"We also want to make sure it will float," he added.

He should find out during the Labor Day weekend when the craft is tried on Lake Tahoe.

Madison didn't know if it is legal to drive the hovercraft on city streets. It doesn't require a license because it is technically classified as an experimental vehicle, he said.

He said the California Highway Patrol and the Federal Aviation Administration are trying to figure out under whose jurisdiction hovercrafts fall.

It might even be the navy's jurisdiction, he said.

Madison said he's restricted use of it to a playground near his home, although it was on the street when he took it to the playground.

"Going down the street, which was on a hill, was like being on a sled on an icy slope," he said.

The vehicle, which is 10 feet in diameter, consists of a flat, circular piece of light wood. The motor is in the center and the driver or pilot — whichever is correct — stands over the motor. A polyethylene curtain hangs down around the perimeter of the vehicle, forming a curtain to hold in air pressure.

The motor is attached to a 30-inch propeller under the craft which creates air pressure and — contained by the curtains — lifts the hovercraft about a foot off the ground.

Direction is controlled by the driver leaning in the direction he wants to go.

Madison, who will be a junior at Drake High School in the fall, was assisted in the construction of the UFO-XI by his father, Leonard C. Madison, an electrical engineer.

Midshipmen at the Naval Academy are paid approximately $1,500 a year.

Addition Of Two Members To Hospital Panels Is Now Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Addition of two directors to hospital districts' five-member boards of directors has been authorized in legislation signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 1158 by Assemblyman Tom Hom, R-San Diego, allows the increase from five to seven members upon a petition signed by a number of voters totaling at least 5 per cent of the number voting in the district in the preceding election for governor.

The Marin Hospital District board would qualify for the increase. The measure was limited to districts with at least 225 beds.

Hom introduced the measure at the urging of the California Medical Association. The association adopted a policy favoring the change, reportedly at the urging of a Marin doctor.

The petitions would have to be filed with the hospital board at least three months before a district election.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Showroom Burglary

John Lauren Mott, 18, of San Rafael, yesterday pleaded guilty to burglarizing the DeLong Chevrolet showroom in San Rafael on June 24.

Mott's plea halted a preliminary hearing before Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, who ordered Mott's appearance today in superior court, where the district attorney's office is expected to recommend a county jail sentence.

Mobile Home Plans Delayed By Commission In Petaluma

Plans for three mobile home parks were postponed last night when the Petaluma Planning Commission said it wanted to study potential tax revenue from the developments in more depth.

The McDowell Investment Co. has requested mobile home prezoning for 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard adjacent to the Candlewood Mobile Home Park and the Detero Corp. has asked prezoning on 40 acres for a mobile home park on Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway.

Plan changes were also requested for the Petaluma Mobile Home Park on North McDowell Boulevard. Formerly known as Youngstown, the property has been purchased by the Caster Mobile Homes Corp. and the commission noted that a new use permit may be required.

The commission heard a report from the planning staff that indicated that while mobile homes provide less tax dollars, they also require less city services.

Planning Director William C. McGivern noted that the subdivision population on the east side of Petaluma averaged 4.04 people per unit and more than 10 children per acre.

He said that in the few mobile home parks that permit children, the average is less than two children per acre.

The commission said it would study the report and consider the mobile home park requests again in October.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

STORM DRAIN — Objected to plans for an open storm drain for the Cherry-Magnolia area and asked the Sonoma County Water Agency to consider an underground drain. Residents complained about erosion, odors and rodent problems that might be encountered in open ditches.

SIGNS — Granted a variance to the Sanderson Ford Co. for 333 square feet of signs.

CLUSTER PLAN — Delayed a decision os a tentative map submitted for the Sun Terrace Park planned unit development on Ely Boulevard North at East Washington Street. Developers proposed 300 units on 26 acres.

SUBDIVISION — Approved a final map for Sonoma Vista Subdivision Unit Three on South McDowell Boulevard between Baywood Drive and Casa Grande Road.

Directors of the Strawberry Recreation District will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School to issue paychecks to swim personnel.

Extension Of Brown Act Is Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation extending the state's antisecret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act, to meetings of directors of nonprofit corporations created by public agencies under joint powers agreements has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 2442 by Assemblyman Robert Moretti, D-North Hollywood, originally would have applied the act to any nonprofit organization receiving more han half of its funds from public sources, but this provision was amended out of the bill.

The Brown Act generally restricts closed meetings by public bodies to hiring or firing employees and to hearing charges against employees or officers.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Newsmen Included In Disrupt Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature has passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill allowing public officials to clear a meeting hall during disruptive demonstrations.

Newsmen taking part in such disruptions could also be barred.

Amendments added by the Senate to the measure by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmon, were approved 48-11.

Mulford said members of the "underground" press are examples of potential demonstrators.

"I think if the members of the press are there, they should be expected to behave," said Mulford.

"Something like punching the mayor in the nose," replied Mulford, although he cited no specific examples.

PARK LAND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly was asked today to give final legislative approval to a bill requiring state and local governments to replace park land they condemn for other public use.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was passed 26-7 by the Senate Tuesday and returned to the lower house for concurrence in amendments.

It would direct that park plots converted into other use, such as for a freeway, must be replaced in the same neighborhood by the agency using it.

CONFLICT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — After senate leader Jack Schrade warned there was "no way" to finance it, the governmental organization committe Tuesday killed a bill to set up a $100,000 commission to study conflicts of interest among public officials.

The measure by Republican assembly speaker Robert T. Monagan of Tracy failed to clear the Senate panel on a split voice vote.

Commission members would be appointed by lawmakers and the governor to make a two-year study of the subject and report back to the legislature with their findings.

MARIJUANA

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday night approved legislation changing the classification of marijuana from a narcotic to a restricted dangerous drug.

The measure by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, was sent to the full Senate. Campbell emphasized the bill does not change the penalty for possessing or pushing pot.

If approved by the legislature and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the classification change would become effective July 1, 1971.

CONSUMERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday night endorsed a bill giving consumers a legal remedy to regain losses incurred through deceptive business practices.

The legislation by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, was sent to the full Senate on a split voice vote.

It provides that a consumer who feels he's been duped can file a class action lawsuit against a businessman to regain actual money losses or damages, while also requesting a court to enjoin the merchant from continuing such practices.

Final Approval Given Bill To Stop Residence Rulings

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill prohibiting cities, counties and special districts from imposing residence requirements on their employees has won final legislative approval and gone to the governor for his signature.

Th bill, SB 1114 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, was introduced at the request of employee groups who argued that such requirements no longer were needed in the age of the automobile.

The bill, however, would not prohibit requiring employees to be able to reach their jobs within a maximum time limit.

The bill will not affect charter cities. San Rafael is the only charter city in Marin County.

Diphtheria Shots Battle Epidemic

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Between 6,000 and 10,000 persons are receiving diphtheria shots each day. A health official says the epidemic which has hit the city could last for another year "at least."

The health department reported two more cases of diphtheria Tuesday, bringing the total for the year to 52. Nine other persons are suspected of having the disease. Two persons have died from it.

Dr. Martha Lyn Green, director of the Communicable Disease Division of the San Antonio Health Department, said the fifth clinic dispensing diphtheria shots opened Tuesday. She said the 100 regular health department nurses and 10 to 15 volunteer nurses staffing the centers could administer the 6,000 to 10,000 shots a day.

Agency To Take BCDC Place Dies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Governmental Organization Committee has killed legislation to place nine San Francisco Bay Area counties under the umbrella of a personal planning agency.

The bill by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, was rejected on a split voice vote after opponents objected saying it would create a new level of government.

"We'll be back next year with another proposal," Knox told the panel.

The regional agency would have taken over the planning duties of the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission, although it would not have had operative powers of its own.

However, the agency would have had authority to draft and enforce an area-wide master-plan for development and use of the region's resources.

Originally, half of the 40-member agency would be elected and the other half composed of local elected officials. But Knox changed the plan to make all the members elected.

'Hayburner' Horse Tax Fails To Finish

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee has killed a bill to tax "hayburner' race horses the same as thoroughbred champions.

Opponents argued at the Tuesday hearing that small owners of horses that perpetually lose on the county fair circuits would be put out of business by the levy.

Under terms of the bill taxes on their animals would be hiked, while the levy on more expensive derby thoroughbreds would be reduced.

But proponents of the bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, said it would help discourage the owners of quality horses from moving their stables to other states.

"Kentucky has taken over horse breeding and California taxes are going to destroy racing in this state," said Neil Papiano, lobbyist for the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

Currently counties assess a property tax on race horses, based on their worth. Bagley's bill would place a $50 in lieu tax on the head of every race horse. Nonactive horses would be taxed at $20 and stallions at $200.

Go-Between Role Offered By Chamber

The Novato Chamber of Commerce last night volunteered to act as a liaison between Novato city government and the business community as a measure to improve communication between the two groups.

The move came in an informal meeting between four members of the chamber board and the council following the special council meeting to consider park and street bond elections.

The discussion, touched on feelings by some businessmen that the city was anti-development and that the planning commission often fails to consider needs of businessmen in planning requirements.

Among projects agreed to by the chamber was distribution of pamphlets to be prepared by the city to outline planning requirements for businessmen considering development in Novato.

The chamber also agreed to determine the business community's reaction to proposed shopping bus routes around Novato and from Novato to the Civic Center, Northgate Shopping Center and San Rafael.

Councilman Pay To Be Discussed

The question of salaries for city councilmen is slated for discussion at a special meeting of the Larkspur City Council at 8 p.m. today at city hall. Councilmen are now unpaid.

Adopting the final budget and setting the tax rate are also set for council consideration.

Also planned is a closed session to discuss litigation in connection with the apartment construction furor on Corte Madera Creek.

Trailer Mishap Hurts Young Boy

A 4-year-old San Rafael boy escaped serious injury yesterday when he was struck by a lawnmower protruding from a truck trailer and then run over by the trailer in a San Rafael city park.

Michael E. Giazzon of 129 Canal Street, Apt. 203, suffered a cut scalp and multiple bruises and was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The truck, owned by the City of San Rafael, was driven by a parks department groundsman, John F. Tartaklia, 24, of 29 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia. The accident occurred at 3:07 p.m. on a pathway at Gerstle Park.

Oakes' Condition Reported As Good

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Officials at ths University of California Medical Center said today the condition of Richard Oakes, Indian leader, "is good and he's progressing well."

The 28-year-old Mohawk led the Indian invasion of Alcatraz Island. He was beaten unconscious June 11 during a tavern brawl here.

Oakes, hospital spokesmen said, earlier this week, apparently signed himself out of the hospital against doctor's orders, but then decided not to leave.

Author Asks Stronger Bill Against Smog

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The author of a major anti-smog bill said today he hoped a two-house conference committee could strengthen the measure weakened in the Senate.

Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle asked Tuesday that the lower house refuse to concur in Senate amendments to the measure, which would impose a $5,000 on automakers whose products fail to meet California's smog standards beginning with 1973 models.

REJECTED CHANGES

The Assembly rejected the Senate changes, which automatically throws the measure into a six-member conference committee to resolve differences.

Meanwhile, the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee approved a bill imposing a 3 per vent state excise tax on new cars, if Congress repeals the current 7 per cent federal excise levy.

The bill by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was sent on a split voice vote to the Finance Committee. If approved, the tax would begin in 1972.

The excise levy would raise an estimated $150 million that would be earmarked to buy beaches and parks for recreational use, plus pay for smog control research.

FIRST MODELS

The committee also adopted amendments proposed by Briggs to give 1955-65 model owners first call on funds to equip cars with exhaust emission control system approved by the state Air Resources Board. Briggs said the models are major contributors to auto-caused air pollution.

The Biddle bill would subject the manufacturers to the $5,000 fine for each sale or attempted sale of an automobile that did not meet emission standards adopted by the board.

It would also direct the board, beginning with 1972 models, to develop standards and procedures for testing automobile emissions at the factory assembly line. Such testing would start no later than 1972.

The Senate also approved, 32-0, Tuesday a bill to help finance the fight against smog by setting up a special fund financed by motorists who want to pay $35 for personalized license plates.

Pupils May Register For Dixie District

All schools of the Dixie School District will be open for registration of new pupils tomorrow and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parents are asked by the district to register their children on the two dates so that class lists may be prepared for teachers by Sept. 3.

For those enrolling in kindergarten for the first time, the pupil must have attained the age of five on or before Dec. 2. To be eligible for first grade, the pupil must be at least six on or before that date.

Proof of age, verified by birth certificate, passport or other affidavit, must be furnished for those enrolling in kindergarten or first grade for the first time.

Seventh and eighth grade Terra Linda residents should register at Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way. Seventh and eighth grade residents of the Marinwood-Lucas Valley area should register at Miller Creek School.

Assembly Passes Plan To Aid Horse Racing Industry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The horse racing industry would receive an additional $8.5 million from funds bet on races under terms of a bill passed by the Assembly.

The measure by Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, would increase the take of horse breeders and owners and race track owners by 1.25 per cent. The state and horsemen presently divide the 13 per cent now taken out of the betting total.

The bill was sent back to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments on a 56-8 vote Tuesday.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, lower house sponsor of the measure, said the horse race industry "has been suffering" economically.

"At this point the industry is in the loss position," he said. "Some northern tracks are only getting two per cent on their investment."

The Burns measure does not increase the state's share of the revenue.

Bagley had sponsored a similar bill earlier in the session. However, the Bagley measure would have increased the state's share by about $2 million along with the raises for the horse racing industry.

Ford Will Build 'Modern Model T'

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—The Ford Motor Co. has plans to build what a company official calls a "modern Model T Ford for the masses" to sell for $896.

William O. Bourke, chief executive officer of Ford in Australia, said the car would be marketed only in Australia, Asia and the Pacific at first.

"It will be very basic car—it could even have a plywood body and canvas seats," he said.

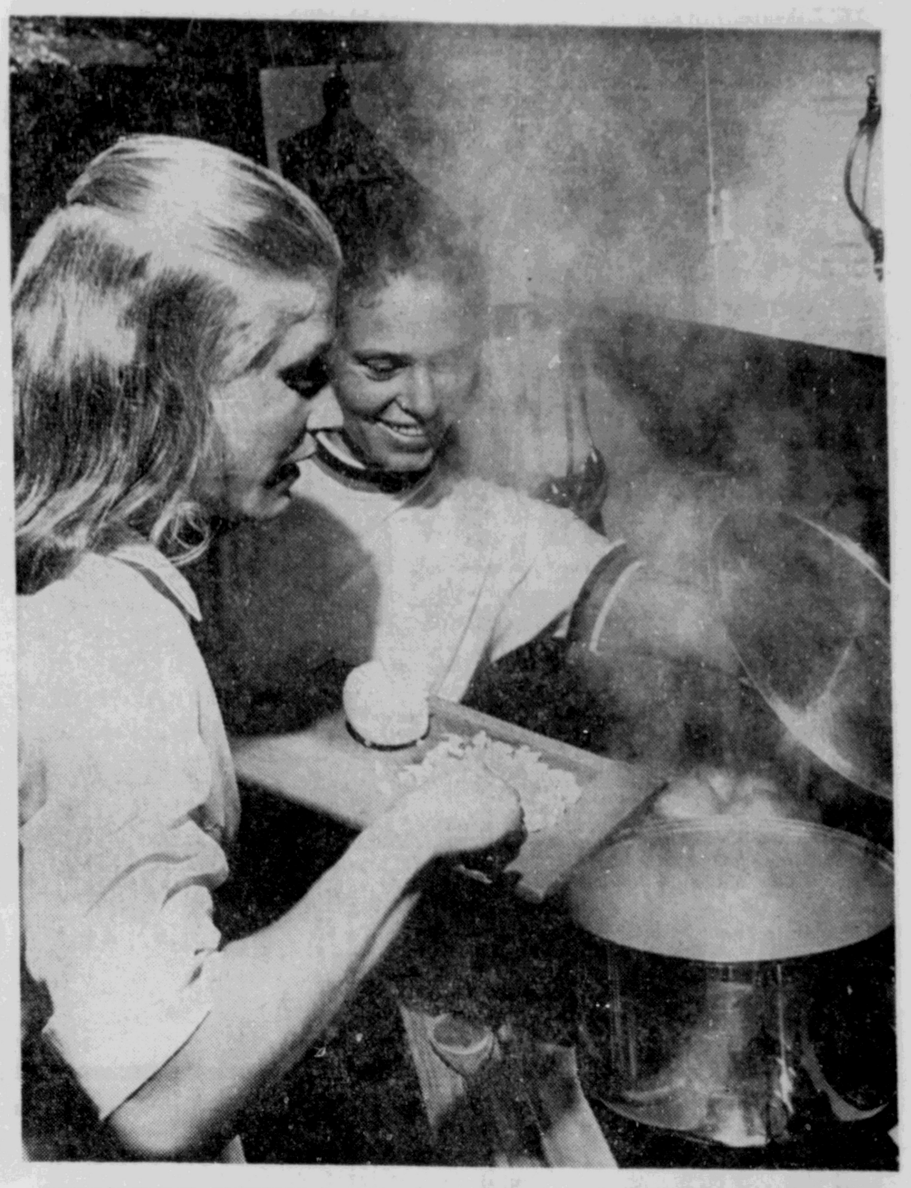
Sharing Ideas For Large Group Menus



STIRRING MOUSSAKA sauce is Mrs. David Blatchford of Mill Valley, left, a member of the Marin Child Development Center's auxiliary, while president Mrs. Richard Hyde of Belvedere helps. The auxiliary perfected recipes to serve large groups when they prepared a series of luncheons this spring for professional groups which came to the Tiburon school to learn about its work with preschoolers who have learning and behavior difficulties.

CHOPPED ONIONS for 40 are dropped into the Moussaka by Mrs. Hyde, president of Marin Child Development Center's newly-formed auxiliary, while member Mrs. David Blatchford of Mill Valley, assists. The women plan an informal sherry brunch this fall to attract new members. Child-oriented fund-raising events are on the auxiliary's agenda. (Independent-Journal photos)

Working out recipes to feed 40 guests was the first job of the newly-formed auxiliary of Marin Child Development Center this spring. They gave a series of luncheons for professional groups who work with children to inform them of the Tiburon school's work with preschoolers who have learning and behavioral difficulties that lead to trouble when they start school.

Mrs. Richard Hyde, president, and Mrs. David Blatchford, a member, share their favorites with other hostesses who may be faced with large groups to entertain.

This fall they plan an informal sherry brunch for prospective members: "Anyone who wants to work hard. She will be required to attend an orientation program. The work of the auxiliary is for the school, but not at the school," they explain.

SWISS CHEESE PIE
Contributed by Peggy Blatchford

6 envelopes onion soup mix
9 tbsp. flour
12 pkgs. frozen cream spinach (thawed)
3 lbs. ground ham
3 lbs. grated Swiss cheese (12 cups)

Mix together all ingredients except 6 cups of the cheese, and put into baked pie shell. Combine 6 eggs, 4 cups milk, salt and pepper to taste. Pour over mixture in pie shell. Sprinkle with reserved swiss cheese and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

This recipe fills five two-quart baking dishes. It takes about eight pies' worth of pastry. Serves 40.

MOUSSAKA A LA PROVENCALE
Contributed by Meredith Bruce

4 Spanish onions finely chopped
6 to 8 cloves garlic finely chopped
¼ to ½ cup olive oil (or more) for frying eggplant
4 lbs. mushrooms
8 lbs. ground lamb
8 to 10 tomatoes chopped
6 tbsp. finely chopped parsley
salt and black pepper to taste
1 small can tomato paste
1 can beef broth
8 to 10 eggplants
parmesan cheese, flour

Saute onions and garlic in olive oil until transparent. Add lamb and continue cooking, stirring occasionally until brown. Add mushrooms, tomatoes, parsley, salt and pepper. Cook until onion is tender. Dilute tomato paste in beef broth and add to meat mixture. Simmer as you would a spaghetti sauce.

Slice unpeeled eggplant thinly lengthwise; dust with flour and fry on both sides in hot olive oil. Drain slices on absorbent surface and line bottom of baking dishes with them. Spread a layer of meat mixture, sprinkle with parmesan. Cover with another layer of eggplant and continue layering until dish is full, ending with eggplant. Top with topping and bake at 375 degrees about 30 minutes until top is cooked and a little brown.

Topping:

1 large carton plain yogurt
7 eggs
7 tbsp. flour

Beat eggs, blend in flour. Add yogurt and whisk to a creamy sauce. Serves 32.

1 lb. butter
4 pkgs. dehydrated onion soup

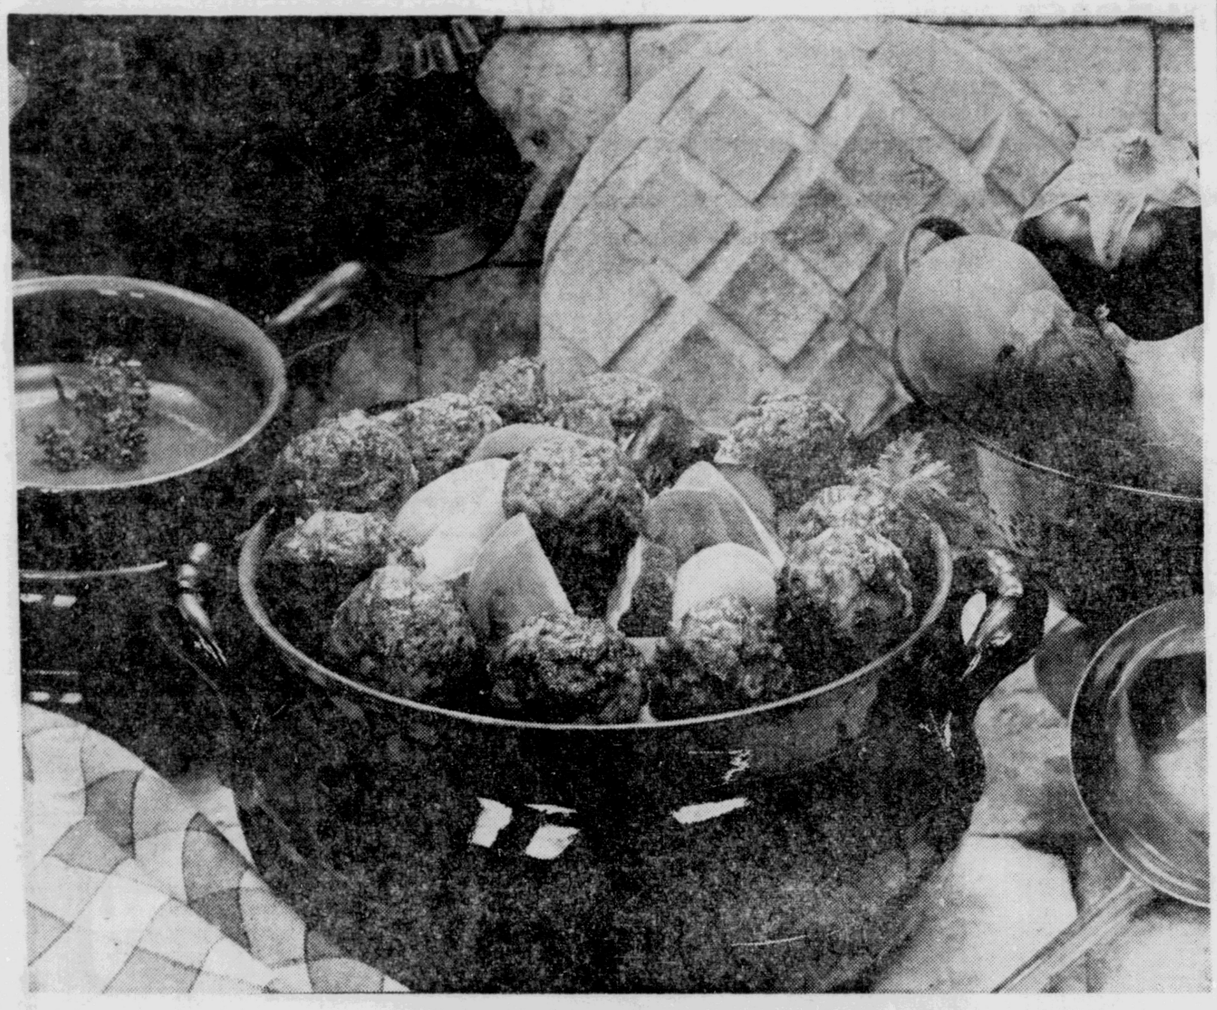
Split loaf in half lengthwise. Cream butter together with onion soup. Spread on loaf halves. Put halves together and slice in 1½ inch slices, 3/4 of the way through. Wrap in foil and heat in the oven at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves 40.

RASPBERRY TORTE
Contributed by Susan Lukens

6 pkgs. (10 oz. each) frozen raspberries or 7½ cups fresh raspberries with sugar
3¾ cups sugar
1 cup water
3 tsp. light corn syrup
12 egg whites
6 tbsp. Kirsch (optional)
6 cups whipping cream
36 ladyfingers

Puree raspberries in an electric blender; press through wire strainer to remove seeds. Combine sugar, water and corn syrup in small pan; heat to boil and continue boiling until soft-ball stage is reached (238 degrees). Beat egg whites in an electric mixer until soft peaks form; gradually beat in hot syrup and continue beating at high speed until mixture cools (10 minutes).

Add Kirsch to raspberry puree; fold into egg whites. Whip cream; fold into meringue. Line buttered sides of three nine-inch pans with removable bottoms with ladyfingers (which have been split into halves); fill pans. Cover with plastic wrap. Freeze until firm (eight hours or longer). To serve remove from pans and decorate with fresh raspberries. Serves 40.



Ground Beef And Vegetables Make Complete, French Inspired Meal

No ordinary beef stew this. Plump, juicy balls of California ground chuck and a rainbow of garden fresh vegetables make a beautiful blend to please both palate and eye. It's a special California version of Ratatouille, a freely formulated vegetable stew that originated along Frances sunny southern coast. With the addition of beef, it's a complete meal.

The heart and heft of the stew is the beef — in this case, well seasoned, beef balls quickly and easily oven baked. For the vegetables, select the freshest eggplant, onions, zucchini, green peppers and tomatoes to simmer in beef broth. And to keep those reds, greens and purples bright, don't overdo the cooking. Because it looks so pretty and tastes wonderfuly fresh and wholesome, this beef and vegetable medley is a great idea for party buffets.

California ground beef and a basic beef ball recipe are the beginning of many good things. Float beef balls in soups, or sauce them for pasta toppings. Bake them in casseroles or serve as is for hors d'oeuvres. Ground beef is as versatile as your imagination.

BEEF AND SUNSHINE STEW

California Beef Balls
1 eggplant
4 onions
2 minced cloves garlic
¼ cup cooking oil
1 (10½-ounce) can beef broth
½ teaspoon thyme
4 zucchini
5 tomatoes
2 green peppers
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Prepare Beef Balls. Cut eggplant into cubes. Peel and quarter onions. Cook eggplant, onions and garlic lightly in oil, stirring gently to prevent sticking. Add broth and thyme. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cut zucchini into ½-inch slices; add to hot vegetables. Cook 5 minutes. Peel and quarter tomatoes; seed and cut green pepper into strips. Add tomatoes and pepper to vegetables. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with browned Beef Balls. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

CALIFORNIA BEEF BALLS: Cook ⅓ cup finely chopped onion in 1 tablespoon cooking oil until transparent. Combine 1 lightly beaten egg, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add onion and 1½ pounds ground California beef chuck. Beat with fork to blend. Shape into 24 small balls. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

Tuna Croquettes Are Quick, Easy

Baked tuna croquettes are quick and easy to make. With a vegetable and salad, they make a meal.

Prepare 1 envelope (5-serving) of instant mashed potato granules as label directs. Stir in 2 teaspoons of prepared yellow mustard, 1 beaten egg and 2 (7-ounce) cans of flaked tuna fish. Shape into croquettes and roll in buttered bread crumbs. Place on a greased cookie sheet and bake in preheated 450-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 to 8 croquettes. Serve with mushroom or tomato sauce, if desired.

Lomi Quiche From Hawaii

Unbaked unsweetened pastry for crust.

½ cup sour cream
½ cup Parmesan cheese
½ cup Swiss cheese
¼ pound diced salt or smoked salmon
4 stalks of green onions (scallions) trimmed and finely cut from end to end
Salt and pepper to taste
1½ cups coffee cream
4 eggs

Line a 9-inch pie tin with pastry dough, trim and flute the edge.

Mix eggs with coffee cream, add Parmesan cheese, green onions, salmon, and salt and pepper to taste. Pour mixture over pastry in pie tin and bake in a pre-heated (400 degrees) oven for ten minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until custard is set.

Combine Swiss cheese with sour cream and spread over Quiche, smooth top evenly, place under broiler for one or two minutes until lightly browned. Serve hot.

Serves six.

More Women Should Be In Politics—Both Parties Say

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Republican and Democratic women leaders are making common cause in an attempt to lure more members of their sex into big-time politics.

Mrs. Elly M. Peterson, assistant chairman of the GOP National Committee, and Mrs. Geri Joseph, who formerly held the same position with the Democrats, began last spring to look for a foundation that would finance the poll they believe should be made.

Once they find an angel, they will be ready to compile questions they believe should be asked.

Women now do far more of the nuts-and-bolts work than do men. But even though they comprise more than half the national population, they generally are forgotten when party endorsements are distributed and few are to be found in high political office.

There have been Jews on the Supreme Court bench, and there is a Negro there, but no woman ever has been named to this prestigious position. None has been chosen for the President's cabinet since President Dwight D. Eisenhower named Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby to head the new Health, Education, and Welfare Department.

The 100 Senators include one woman, and the 435-member House, 10 Congresswomen.

Why such a small representation?

It is hoped the poll will provide the answers.

Harriett Cipriani, deputy vice chairman of DNC, said the Democratic Women's Division first wrote to all female candidates in the 1968 convention, those who lost as well as the winners. The questionnaire asked if it had been difficult to raise campaign money, for example; did men support them as the gentle sex has male candidates?

The effort for a professional poll was launched because party leaders believed their first attempt was too amateurish in such a complicated field. "Maybe we're urging women to run for public office and then will find out they couldn't care less," Mrs. Cipriani said. "And some simply prefer to vote for the male candidate."

If this hazard proves true, she said, "We must turn to education to change their minds.

"We're not saying women would be better than men . . . but there should be more of them in Congress."

Voting records of both parties show a dwindling of feminine interest in politics.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Noon Prayer Asks God For Peace At Home And Around The World

DEAR HELEN:

Not too long ago one of your young readers talked of having a special day set aside when we all would concentrate on praying for peace.

We couldn't agree more: and so "Twelve Words At Twelve" was born.

It's going strong in San Francisco and surrounding areas, where Mayor Joseph Alioto issued a proclamation, joining a group of church leaders (all faiths) in a call to Midday Prayer For Peace. We're beginning to remember to stop each day and say just 12 words asking God for peace at home and around the world — for everyone — everywhere.

Radio and television are helping get the word out. We're hoping more and more newspapers will ask for and print original "Twelve Words At Twelve," from readers.

Won't you and your readers, Helen, join our Midday Prayer for Peace campaign? If we all prayer — believing — think what could happen. — M.G.B.

DEAR READERS:

I've asked permission from "M.G.B." to print her name and address, so that her Synod may answer personally all questions on how to initiate a Twelve Words At Twelve campaign across the country.

Send a stamped, self addressed envelope to:

Martha G. Bigelow,
United Presbyterian Church
Synod of the Golden Gate,
330 Ellis Street,
San Francisco, California
94102.

(The Synod represents 166 churches in 15 counties of northern California.)

We've tried almost everything else in our efforts for peace. So now: let's give prayer a chance. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all this furor about our leading brand name cereals being non-nutritional, my big question is "Why?" For very little more expense, the companies can add vitamins, minerals, etc., just as they have added them to instant breakfasts and liquid diet foods.

I see no reason why any funfood from candy to Danish pastry can't also have high nutritional value. After all, the taste isn't affected — or at least not much. — AGAINST WORTHLESS FOODS

DEAR AWF:

I'll let the food experts answer your question.

Nutritionists — cerealphites and phobes —please speak your piece. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

How can I get it across to my parents that money is to enjoy? They went through lean years when they made every penny do the work of two. I guess somehow money became god to them, but they forgot how to spend, except for necessities.

Now, when they have plenty and are ready for retirement, they still live cheap, grumble about every little bill, won't take trips because "everybody has their hands out." Their favorite phrase is, "It costs too much." So they invest their money, make more, and for what? We children have all done well, possibly because of our frugal upbringings. We didn't need inheritances. How can we get our parents to loosen up and have fun with their money? — THE KIDS (all over 35).

DEAR KIDS:

For certain types, the pleasure of money is making it, not spending it. But while they have better uses for their own dollars, they might enjoy a trip provided by their children. How about "borrowing" against that inheritance and giving your folks the perfect all-paid-for cruise as a retirement gift? — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Halley For Mini

Despite the longer look trend that seems to be taking hold of the fashion industry, designer George Halley stood firm on the mini. Halley bares all knees. "We tried making skirt lengths much longer in our workrooms," Halley said. "They just did not look pretty. I don't believe in them."

David McHenry, Mrs. O'Loughlin Exchange Vows

The garden of the San Anselmo home of Kenneth R. Boyd, the bride's father, was the setting for the wedding of Mrs. Lisbeth Ann O'Loughlin of San Jose to David M. McHenry of Oakland.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Geraldine Francis Boyd of San Francisco, chose her sister, Roberta Boyd of Novato, as her maid of honor for the Saturday wedding. The bride's daughter by a previous marriage, Maribeth O'Loughlin, was the bridesmaid.

James McHenry of Fairfield served the bridegroom as best man.

A reception followed at the Boyd home. The couple will make their home in Oakland.

The bride attended Star of the Sea Academy in San Francisco and is employed with Southern Pacific Railroad. She is the sister of Norman F. Boyd of Novato, Roberta Boyd of Novato and Lauren Mary Boyd of San Francisco.

The bridegroom is employed with International Business Machines in San Francisco.

Sleepwalkers Are Mostly Children

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 4 million Americans walk in their sleep at night, with the problem especially prevalent among young children, medical authorities report.

Experts on the subject say that sleep-walking children should be steered away carefully from any potentially hazardous situation and then gently awakened. If sleepwalking continues into adulthood, a physician should be consulted.

Water Clean-Up Is Mostly For Fish

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — When it comes to protecting water from pollution, should the welfare of fish take priority over the welfare of people?

If that sounds like a silly question, consider the thrust of federal water pollution control programs. Purely on the basis of money appropriated for fighting water pollution, the fish are way ahead.

Out of $800 million set aside for water quality, $798 million is earmarked for better treatment of waste materials going into public lakes and streams. Fish should be happy about that. So should anglers.

Of course, anything that cleans up public waterways is likely to improve drinking water that comes from those sources. But there is a huge problem that is being virtually ignored at the federal level.

ONLY $2 MILLION of the $800 million is earmarked for water treatment programs, the process of purifying river and lake water for household use. The amount is for research and training purposes.

Actually, even the $800 million is a drop in the bucket compared to the $20 billion and more cited by pollution experts as the national cost of reducing water pollution to satisfactory levels.

Yet the $800 million is four times the amount requested by the Nixon Administration. The increase was voted by Congress after conservation groups put on the pressure.

At least, the $800 million is a start on a mammoth job. But the $2 million for water treatment research could hardly even be called a beginning on a task that is also huge.

For the crisis in water pollution goes far beyond reducing harmful materials from entering waterways. It extends to the problems of making available water suitable for personal use.

Despite all efforts to curb pollution, the amount of chemicals and poisonous bacteria is increasing at a steady rate. As the quantity of lead, mercury, pesticides, arsenic, nitrates and radioactivity builds up, water treatment plants are losing ground in the purification job.

SOME 157 million Americans are served by community water supplies. And many of the facilities for handling these supplies were built 30 or 40 years ago when the task was much simpler.

According to the Public Health Service, nearly half of the 20,000 public water supply systems in this country contain defects serious enough to place them in a potentially unsafe status if the defects are not corrected in the near future.

The absence of serious epidemics from water borne diseases is evidence that public water supplies have not yet deteriorated to an unsafe point, but many are below federal standards. And there is genuine concern about what the trend will bring.

This concern is evident in the Public Health Service report on drinking water that is being released this week.

And it is evident in this week's Water Quality Symposium being held here by the Water Quality Research Council. Among the subjects to be discussed in panel sessions are: "Public Water Suppliers — Are They Doing Their Job?" and "The Relation of Drinking Water Composition to Health."

Duplications Cause Medical Cost Rise

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American college of Physicians is urging its 16,000 members throughout the country to exert local leadership in eliminating duplication of equipment, services and personnel among private hospitals.

The college's board of regents sees this duplication as one of the reasons for the rising costs of medical care in the United States.

Novato Sets Street Bond Vote Rolling

The Novato City Council last night passed two resolutions and introduced an ordinance aimed at holding a special $3.25-million street bond election during the Nov. 3 general election. (Another Novato city council story, page 1.)

Discussion of the actions was limited almost entirely to questions directed to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps to clarify his written report delivered to the council last week on proposals for Novato's street program for the next five years.

The bond issue would, according to the report, provide enough fundst o reconstruct 7.18 miles of streets in Novato.

The bond issue, to be sold in three increments two years apart, would add 36 cents per $100 assessed valuation to property tax for 10 years, 20 cents for the subsequent six years, 10 cents for four years, six cents for two years and two cents for the last two years, according to figures in the report.

Construction plans were presented in Temps' report, but he said that plans were included only as an example of what could be done and that use of the bond money would not be limited to proposed projects.

Included in the plans are construction or renovation of Novato and South Novato boulevards from Stone Drive to Sierra Vista, De Long Avenue from Redwood Boulevard (presently Highway 101) to the proposed Highway 101 bypass, Seventh Street from Grant to Vallejo avenues, Railroad Avenue from Reichert Avenue to Olive Street and all of the old portions of Feliz Road.

Improvements of Vallejo Avenue from Seventh Street to Redwood Boulevard, Fourth Street from Grant Avenue to the city limits, Tamalpais Avenue from Novato Boulevard to Center Road, Ignacio Boulevard from Montura Way to Ulloa Drive, Simmons Lane from Novato Creek to San Marin Drive, Center Road from Lu Sutton Park to Wilson Avenue and Olive Avenue from Fourth Street to Redwood Boulevard are also in the plans.

Other improvements in the plan include $232,800 worth of modifications to downtown streets to accomplish the Sedway-Cooke downtown plan's requirements; renovation of South Novato Boulevard intersections with Rowland Boulevard, Center Road and Diablo Avenue, including signal installation at the Rowland and Center Road intersections; landscaping of the San Marin Drive cut and reconstruction of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad crossing on Reichert Avenue.

The ordinance setting the special election is to be considered for adoption at next Tuesday's city council meeting.

The report also provided alternate proposlas for construction which would be possible without the bond issue.

By use of gas tax and other federal and state funds and small amounts of general city funds necessary to meet matching fund commitments, the city could construct 1.48 miles of road, according to the report.

By supplementing other agency funds with a 30-cent raise in property taxes, 3.79 miles of streets could be built in the five-year period, the report siad.

Limiting the bond issue to a size possible to repay with a maximum 30-cent tax raise, all work planned for the proposed bond issue could be accomplished, except South Novato Boulevard from Stone Drive through Sunset Parkway and portions of Simmons Lane, Seventh Street and Vallejo Avenue, according to the report.

Local Building Restriction Bill Is Killed By Senate Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to restrict sharply the power of local governments to build new facilities without a vote of the people was killed last night by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The bill, AB 2182 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, would have required approval by a majority of the voters of most joint powers agreements to build public facilities.

Such agreements have been criticized as a way of circumventing voter approval in a general obligation bond election. Facilities built by joint powers financing generally are more costly to finance than general obligation bonds.

The California Taxpayers Association had pushed for passage of the bill in the wake of the California Supreme Court's ruling that the state's requirement for two-thirds voter approval of bonds was unconstitutional. That ruling has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association of California opposed the measure, which got about three "aye" votes in a voice ballot by the 10 committee members present.

Warrant Out In Slaying

SAIGON (UPI)—Military authorities today issued a wanted bulletin for an unidentified suspect in the murder of Red Cross volunteer Virginia Kirsch, 21, of Brookfield, Ohio.

The authorities, who said a "sizeable" reward would be paid for information leading to his capture, issued a composite drawings and a description. It said he was a 23-year-old Caucasian of medium height and build, dressed in light colored trousers, a white shirt and dark jacket. The clothes may be spood-splattered, they said.

Miss Kirsch was found stabbed to death early Sunday at Cu Chi, 16 miles northwest of Saigon. She had been at the base about a week and had arrived in Vietnam only two weeks before that.

City, County Environment Measure Signed By Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring city and county general plans to include environmental considerations has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 1566 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, will require cities and counties to consider the environmental effects of all other eleents in a general plan. Transportation elements of general plans, for example, will have to consider and account for effects on environmental resources such as water, timber and farm land.

Toy Pistol Aids Japan Hijacking

HAMAMATSU, Japan (UPI) — A young man wielding a toy pistol hijacked a Japanese jetliner in flight today and forced it to land at an air base in a bizarre suicide plot. Police seized the man when he permitted a woman in labor to get off.

Authorities said the hijacker, Sachi Inagaki, 24, wanted to exchange the 74 passengers aboard the All Nippon Airways Boeing 727 for a rifle to kill himself.

No one was hurt in the incident, second hijacking in Japanese aviation history.

Planned Unit Growth Key To Future

By WAT TAKESHITA

With Marin's 210,000 population expected to double in the next 20 years, where are all the extra people going to live, and how?

Obviously, the biggest growth will be in the open spaces north of Lucas Valley, according to county Planning Director Werner von Gundell.

Van Gundell took over the top planner's job on July 14, succeeding Paul C. Zucker.

To meet the expected growth of about 100,000 in the next decade, von Gundell predicted that planning will make increasing use of the planned unit approach, with developers combining townhouses, apartments and commercial buildings.

"The trend is quite clearly toward the planned unit approach instead of the conventional subdivision sprawl," said von Gundell. "And we are encouraging that trend."

For the housing of moderate and low income groups, new ways must be explored and found, he said. "Creative thinking and a lot of effort are needed to improve the present dismal situation. Preservation of older, moderately priced units, and adding on to them is one possibility." He said the potential for this type of housing exists in older sections of San Rafael, San Anselmo, and other cities. But these can handle only a small percentage of the growth, von Gundell noted.

In high value areas like Belvedere, Mill Valley, Ross and Kentfield, the planning director foresees some influx of well-to-do families, with little room for low and moderate income residents.

The biggest growth will therefore accur in relative open areas north of Puerto Suello Hill to Novato, said von Gundell.

Even in developed areas like Santa Venetia and San Rafael Meadows, gaps will be filled in by development. For example, open land near the Civic Center will have offices and apartments, and open lots along Merrydale Road will probably draw more apartments.

Von Gundell sees these new trends in planning:

1. Stronger control over shorelines and tidelands. These are supported by recent court decisions which held that privately owned beaches which have been used by the public for five years cannot be closed indiscriminately. Within the county itself, an ordinance to protect tidelands and waterways is now in effect.

2. In the past, the emphasis was on separation of land uses, keeping homes away from apartments, commercial and industrial. "We're now beginning to realize that the separation was too strict, and the trend will be for mixing some of the uses," said von Gundell. "Of course, this does not mean we're going to put junkyards next to one-family homes." Mixing of uses means more use of the planned unit approach.

In transportation, von Gundell said it is obvious that eventually, rapid transit will be needed.

In all cases, he believes, the people should be given the widest option of choices, in transportation or living and working environment.

Specific recommendations on housing and transportation for the next 20 years are now being formulated in the balanced transportation study and a housing study made by the planning department, he said.

BELVEDERE

High income community, with were valued at $35,000 and over. Ninety-six per cent of single-family homes are on lots valued at $15,000 or more.

There is little vacant land suitable for development remaining, and projected demand for new housing is relatively low.

CORTE MADERA

Suburban homes and apartments mushroomed in the 1950's and 1960's. Not much room for further expansion.

In transportation, Corte Madera General Plan recommends transit use for the north-south Northwestern Pacific rail right-of-way. Additionally, there appears to be a need for an east-west transit corridor for the Ross Valley, which is not shown on any plan. Corte Madera should take a position on this facility.

FAIRFAX

Although there is still a limited amount of land for housing development, it is generally on steeply sloped land where development costs are high. It is also located away from public transportation and shopping facilities. The potential for housing and redevelopment in the downtown area has not been fully explored. There is a possibility here for development of housing for low and moderate-income households.

In transportation, the major problem is continued congestion in the central business district even with the four-lane improvements assumed for Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the balanced transportation study phase 1. Fairfax should examine an arterial east-west bypass (route 17) as well as a high level of transit service. Preservation of a potential transit right-of-way is an essential issue. Is it wanted, and where should it be?

LARKSPUR

There is a potential for expansion of the low and moderate-income housing supply. There is an estimated need for 330 more housing units over the next decade, just to accommodate natural increase in Larkspur's present population.

In transportation, Larkspur and Kentfield need a six-lane improvement of Drake Boulevard west of Highway 101. Transit may help the problem somewhat, but widening to six lanes may still be needed. The Larkspur and Kentfield plans also lack rights-of-way preservation for proposed transit. Preserving rail rights of way is an immediate issue.

MILL VALLEY

Little land is left for new construction, and what is available is expensive to buy and develop. The developer of Shelter Ridge has been required to include provision for units of moderate-income housing. This is an important step by the city to reverse the market trend, which excludes all but the affluent.

In the Miller Avenue-Tam Junction entry to Highway 101, traffic levels equivalent to 10 lanes were needed for traffic from allowable development and the proposed new town of Marincello. Preservation of the NWP right-of-way for transit is an especially critical issue in Mill Valley.

NOVATO

One of the most rapidly-growing parts of county. The planning area contains nearly 20,000 acres of vacant land suitable for development. Novato is the only area now where houses are being built in the under $35,000 category. If trends continue, there will be no new homes for sale under $35,000 in the Novato area by 1971.

Land costs are the lowest of any community in the urbanized eastern corridor.

In transportation, a freeway extension of Route 37 through the Ignacio-Novato area, as previously proposed by the Division of Highways, might not be needed. An alternate corridor, such as parkway type improvement of the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, might better fulfill the need for a major north-bay access route to Point Reyes National Seashore.

Novato should consider either a reduction of industrial land use proposed for the area near the county airport, or provide additional arterial or collector streets from Atherton Avenue and San Marin Drive into the proposed industrial areas. Traffic demands forecast would require six to eight lane improvements for these two arterials. The Novato plan proposes only four lane connections.

The Novato Area General Plan does propose preservation of the NWP right-of-way for potential transit use.

ROSS-KENTFIELD

One of the most expensive sections of Marin. More than 75 per cent of homes are valued at more than $35,000. Average sales price of homes runs between $44,000 and $53,000. Projected demand for additional housing over the next decade is realtively low. About 128 more units are needed to accommodate natural increase in population.

Moreover, there is almost no land still available for development of housing. What is left is so highly priced that construction of subsidized housing is not economically feasible without donations to a nonprofit housing development corporation.

In transportation, the lack of an adopted plan in Ross left the transportation phase 1 study with an assumption of four lanes on Drake so as to be consistent with San Anselmo and Kentfield plans on either side. Even with transit system testing in phase 2, Ross must face the need for additional right-of-way.

SAN ANSELMO

Little vacant land left for development. The pressure is growing to replace old homes with multi-family units.

In transportation, a high level of traffic is forecast for the link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda, which would call for a four-lane major arterial. A possible solution would be to examine, together with San Rafael, an alternative link from east of Sleepy Hollow across the ridge to the Los Ranchitos area. San Anselmo will probably need both transit and a bypass highway if congestion at the Hub is to be relieved.

Exclusive right-of-way for a potential mass transit system must be studied within San Anselmo itself. The San Anselmo master plan envisioned only feeder bus service.

SAN RAFAEL

It contains about one-third of all households in the county which receive public aid. This low and moderate-income housing has been supplied by the relatively large number of older homes. However this supply of low and moderate-income homes is diminishing. Older homes are being demolished for commercial use.

There will be a need for a minimum of about 1,500 more units in San Rafael over the next decade. Much land is still available. More than 10,000 acres, nearly half the total acreage of this planning area, is vacant and suitable for development.

In transportation, Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda, proposed for four lanes, drew eight-lane traffic levels in the balanced transportation study test. San Rafael might consider a supplementary link from Los Ranchitos across the ridge into San Anselmo to relieve the Freitas Parkway congestion.

The east-west freeway proposed in the San Rafael General Plan, adopted in 1966, would improve today's congestion levels but would need a major east-west transit corridor to supplement it.

SAUSALITO

Sausalito contains both the county's highest proportion of older units and of multi-family units. Because it is close to San Francisco, land values are extremely high. Lot values are $20,000 or more in more than 40 per cent of the single-family homes. This puts pressure on owners of many older homes to convert to apartments. With dwindling land, rising land cost, and heavy market demand, the proportion of multi-family units can be expected to increase.

The greatest problem today in housing quality is the more than 300 houseboats in the Sausalito area.

Probably hardest hit by the upsurge in values are owners of older homes built before World War II. They may have to do without routine maintenance and even move out, in order to meet tax obligations.

Another group that appears to be declining rapidly in Sausalito are families with children. Apartment owners usually won't rent to them, and single-family homes are too costly for most families.

Sausalito is in transition. It could become a community of affluent families and young singles.

In transportation, Lower Bridgeway would require four-lane improvements to offer service freer of congestion than today's conditions. Proposals for transit tube crossings of the Golden Gate, which will be evaluated jointly by the Balanced Transportation Study phase 2 and the Golden Gate Bridge District, will raise the issue of an acceptable location for such a tube to surface and for a station or ferry terminal location.

TIBURON

Because of fine view and easy commute to San Francisco by car or ferry, Tiburon has captured high income families and affluent small households. Almost 60 per cent of single-family homes are over $35,000.

There is much land (about 1,250 acres) still available for urbanization. But the land is expensive and development costs are high. If market forces alone determine who is to live here, there will undoubtedly be more high income families and affluent small households, and very little low and moderate income housing.

In transportation, the major issue is improvement of Tiburon Boulevard south of Trestle Glen. Balanced Transportation Study phase 1 indicates that four lanes would likely provide service in the future about comparable to today's two lanes. To achieve less congestion would definitely require an improved transit service.

The City of Tiburon's 1966 plan for the peninsula proposes higher density than the county's 1959 Tiburon Peninsula General Plan. If development proceeds at these higher densities, it could cause a more severe problem than indicated in the phase 1 study.

Owner Reported Gunshot Accident

The owner of a North Marin ranch where a member of a deer hunting party suffered a gunshot wound last week said yesterday that he had reported the accident to the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

The Shooting of Chester A. Bonfiglio of San Rafael, who died Thursday, took place the preceding Sunday on the ranch of Anthony F. Silveira.

On Thursday, the sheriff's office said it had received no report of the accident, and this was reported that day in the Independent-Journal. Yesterday, the sheriff's office confirmed that Silveira had made such a report, but that it was not typed up until the day after the department had denied the amking of a report.

ABAG Report Criticizes Coastal Region Planning

Study Seeks Balance In Development Of Coastline

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Bay Area's coastal region faces eventual "deterioration and degradation" because of poorly planned development, a report of the Association of Bay Area Governments asserts.

The report, said to be the first comprehensive study of the 332-mile coastline from Santa Cruz to Sonoma counties, calls for preparation of a regional plan aimed at striking a balance between demands for recreation and open space and development interests.

OCEAN FRONTAGE

Comparing the ocean frontage to the San Francisco Bay shoreline, the study said, "Both are faced with problems of degradation and irreversible modification by unplanned, uncoordinated activity."

With improved highway access and advanced construction methods, the potential for large-scale coastal development increases, the report said. At the same time, it said, demands for the region's recreational resources are spiraling.

Beach use, the report said, is growing at a faster rate than the population.

BELOW AVERAGE

The study said only 27.5 per cent of the ocean shoreline is in public hands — 12 per cent below the statewide average — and that nearly 50 per cent of the region has development potential.

It stressed the need for acquisition of public access to the shoreline over private lands.

The report suggested a series of goals to be considered in formation of a regional plan. They include:

1. Where residential development is permitted, housing opportunities for all income groups be provided.

2. Conserve agricultural areas with emphasis on those which may have favored combinations of slopes, climate and soil condition for special crops.

3. Conserve lands used for animal products needed by resideets of the region and lands used for coastside water supply and those needed for fish and marine life production.

4. Set aside selected tidal and submerged lands, marsh and other coastal habitats as fish and wildlife preserves.

5. Provide as parmanent open space all lands with slopes of 30 per cent or more.

6. Establish a task force consisting of utility representatives, public officials and citizens to study location of future power plants and transmission lines.

7. Create standards to prevent pollution of coastal waters.

8. Establish an intergovernmental coastal management system with strong local and regional representation.

The report said a Bay Area Coastal Commission should be formed to develop regional consensus on planning goals and strategies.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1970 23

Five Sustain Minor Injuries In Accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in traffic accidents in Marin County yesterday and today, including a Fairfax youth who was hurt when the car in which he was riding collided with a horse.

Joe E. Holland, 12, of 102 Dominga Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken finger and scrapes. The California Highway Patrol said he was a passenger in a car driven by Ambrose J. Dalley, 30, of 50 Woodland Road, Fairfax, which struck an Arabian stallion which sidestepped into his path on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near San Geronimo stables at 2:15 p.m.

Rider of the horse, Linda Soltav, 21, of Forest Knolls, was uninjured, officers said. Injuries to the horse were not known.

Aileene M. McIverney, 23, of 25 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, was treated for bruises after a two-car collision on Highway 101 at Highway 17 at 10:50 p.m.

Officers said her vehicle collided with one driven by Hans J. Mathon, 37, of 71 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley. Both cars went through a fence at the side of the freeway and came to rest on Francisco Boulevard.

Esterlen Washington, 39, of Eureka, was treated for a sprained back after a car driven by Mathew S. Washington, 32, also of Eureka, was struck from behind on Highway 101, a mile south of the Corte Madera exit at 10:45 a.m.

The patrol said the Washington vehicle had stopped in heavy traffic and was hit by a car driven by Mabel A. Cheda, 59, of 22 Via Cheparro, Greenbrae.

A 30-year-old Rohnert Park woman was treated at the hospital for a bruised right knee after the car in which she was riding struck another on Highway 101, north of Puerto Suello Hill.

Arlene Downs was hurt about 5:30 p.m. when a car driven by Billy M. Downs, 40, also of Rohnert Park, hit a car driven by Mildred D. Derrick, 54, of San Francisco, as the Derrick vehicle slowed to avoid a car which cut in front of it.

Frank I. Gilbert, 60, of Sacramento, was in fair condition at Marin General today with facial cuts and multiple bruises received in a one-car crash at 2:15 a.m. today on the Point Reyes - Petaluma Road east of Point Reyes Station.

Gilbert, who was pinned under the car's dashboard and rescued by the Marin County Fire Department, told officers he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The patrol said the auto left the road, turned over and struck a utility pole.

Sausalito Planners To Discuss City Plan

A proposal to amend and update the city general plan for development will be discussed by the Sausalito Planning Commission today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission will try to include other plans recently adopted by the city council — such as the central waterfront and marinship plans — in the general plan.

Civic Center Security Due Another Look

Marin County's superior and municipal judges, sheriff's officials and county administrator's office representatives were to meet today to discuss improved security for the Civic Center.

Joseph G. Wilson, superior court presiding judge, said there would be a general discussion of how to prevent more "black Fridays" such as the Aug. 7 killing of Judge Harold J. Haley in a bloody escape try by three San Quentin convicts and a young accomplice.

Yesterday, security was given a boost when the board of supervisors approved the hiring of six new deputy sheriffs — specifically for Civic Center security.

County Administrator Alan Bruce estimated the cost of the additional men at $57,774 for the remaining 10 months of fiscal 1970-71. The deputies will go on the payroll Sept. 1.

In moving approval of the additional deputies, Supervisor Louis H. Baar suggested the county investigate the possibility of obtaining state funds to support the additional men since part of the security problem at the Civic Center is caused by the policy of holding trials of San Quentin Prison inmates at the Hall of Justice.

Other security proposals already have been given to Bruce by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, including installation of an alarm system in courtrooms.

Other ideas were expected to be raised at today's session, evaluated by Bruce's office, and eventually passed on to the supervisors for action.

Cash Only Is Recommended For Buying Commuter Buses

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Golden Gate Bridge District's financial consultants have recommended that the agency's proposed $7.7 million commuter bus system be bought entirely on a cash basis.

The district's accumulated reserve for buses and its cash flow over the next 12 to 18 months are more than enough to buy the proposed 132 buses, and any other financing method ultimately would cost more and could interfere with the need for financing a long-range transit system, according to the report by J. Barth & Co. of San Francisco.

Copies of the report have been given to district officials, and its recommendations will be considered by the joint transportation and finance-auditing committee at 10:30 a.m. Aug. 27 in toll plaza offices.

The consultants' recommendation concluded that "it makes little sense, in our opinion, to create short, or especially long-term debt in the money market that prevails today unless the need to do so is critical."

The district "is in a cash position to acquire approximately 118 buses immediately and an additional three to four buses monthly thereafter if revenues to the bus account are as predicted for fiscal 1970-71," their report said.

Given the anticipated need to finance both a water transportation system and a long-range transit system, they said, "it would seem desirable to keep present overall debt to an absolute minumum. Each time debt is created, it will ultimately have the affect of limiting debt ceilings later and could adversely hinder other contemplated transportation programs."

The long-range transit system is being planned by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland. The plan is to be completed in October for public hearings and presentation to the 1971 Legislature.

District officials have estimated that the bus fleet will cost $5.6 million and that maintenance facilities will cost $2.1 million.

The consultants, headed by Vernon E. Perry of Belvedere, noted that about $5 million was in the district's bus fund at the end of last fiscal year, and that accumulation of an additional $2.45 million was estimated by Aug. 31, 1971.

Land acquisition and construction of maintenance facilities would take at least 18 months, they said, thus giving time to accumulate all the needed cash for the system.

They discounted waiting for federal matching funds, saying "there is no real advantage in gearing the district's financial plans to only putting up its half of the investment and potentially sacrificing efficiency and service while waiting for federal grant approval and distribution."

They concluded that the district "is in an excellent position, cash and time-wise, and we can find no logical reason to recommend the creation of debt for the bus system at this time. . ."

Five Exonerated On Drug Counts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon disclosed today that six Air Force officers of the Strategic Air Command were arrested on drug charges in California last year. One pleaded guilty but the others were exonerated.

A Defense Department spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said undercover agents made the arrests on Nov. 24 at Castle Air Force Base, an operating facility for nuclear-armed B52 bombers.

Friedheim said 2nd Lt. Thomas McDonagh pleaded guilty in Merced County Court March 17 to charge of selling marijuana and LSD, and was given a three-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended. Three lieutenants and two sergeants were exonerated, he said.

Prevo Resigns Employee Post

Randall M. Prevo, 48, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association for more than two years, has resigned to take a higher-paying job as personnel director of Napa County.

Prevo announced yesterday he will leave his present $1,166-per-month job on Aug. 31. The new job pays $1,213 per month.

In his new job, Prevo said he will also do administrative work as assistant to the Napa County administrator.

Since Prevo began his present post in June 1968, membership has risen from 525 to 760. He was chief spokesman for the association in annual bargaining for pay raises and benefits.

The association is recruiting a new manager.

Ex-Hungarian Kills Two And Then Himself

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A former Hungarian freedom fighter who served a prison term for slaying his wife shot and killed his girl friend and her mother Tuesday and then fatally wounded himself in a parked car at an ice cream stand in the city's Shadyside district, police said.

Officers said George Toth, 35, shot Mrs. Linda Katarbo, 22, and her mother, Mrs. Wanda Gamble, 37, both of Pittsburgh, and then fired a bullet into his right temple.

Toth and his wife, Irene, came to the United States in 1956. He was convicted of the butcher knife slaying of his wife in 1959 and sentenced to 10-to-20 years in prison. Toth was released in August, 1968.

Singer Faces Drug Charges

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Stephen A. Stills, 24, a member of the rock group Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, has been charged with possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs, police revealed Tuesday.

Stills was arrested in a La Jolla motel last week with Joanna Babb, 22, of Los Angeles, who faces similar charges.

Still was released on $2,500 bail and was to appear for arraignment next Tuesday.

Police said Stills was seen crawling along the floor in the motel hallway. The manager called for an ambulance.

Police, upon seeing Stills' condition, summoned narcotics officers, who seized about two grams of cocaine and several barbiturate tablets.

New Hearing Is Set On Apartments

Bel Aire residents will have another chance on Sept. 1 to protest an 18-unit apartment development proposed on Pelican Hill near Circle Drive in Tiburon.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday postponed the hearing until Sept. 1 at the request of Roger Danford, president of the Bel Aire Homeowner Asssociation, who said the group needed more time to prepare arguments.

On July 27, the county planning commission approved the plans for the 18 apartments, proposed by developer Harley Ussery.

Bel Aire residents protested that the additional units would increase flooding in the area and appealed to the supervisors.

"This has been postponed for two months," protested developer Usery. "It's unfair to hold us up any longer."

When the postponement was granted, Ussery stormed out of the meeting room, grumbling, "Boy, what a joke!"

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

PARK FEES — Set an admission fee of 50 cents per car for county parks at Paradise Beach, McNears Beach (when the swimming season is over) and tSafford Lake (when it opens to the public in about a year.)

McNEARS BEACH — Agreed to buy one-half interest in 31 acres just north of McNears Beach for $80,000, but the other owner is holding out.

JUVENILE HALL — Approved architect Eugene A. Crawfords' plan for site and drainage work for a new girls' dormitory to be built on the athletic field at juvenile hall and set Sept. 1 to award bids. Crawford estimated site work would cost $36,370.

CAMPERS — Asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draft ordinances to control the use of campers and trailers as residences and the use of one-family homes by groups of individuals.

HISTORICAL — Appointed the Marin County Historical Society as the county's advisory committee to make recommendations on preservation of historical monuments and sites.

PLANNING—Asked the County counsel to rewrite some of the county's ordinances on planned unit development to clarify the authority of the planning commission and the board of supervisors.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session for an hour to give directions to County Administrator Alan Bruce concerning deadlocked talks with safety employees on new salaries for this fiscal year.

MERGER — At the suggestion of Supervisor Louis H. Baar, directed Bales and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to "discreetly" explore the possibility of merging the County Supervisors Association and the League of California Cities.

MARINCELLO — Scheduled for 9 a.m. Sept. 8 a presentation by Gulf Oil Corp. on the company's plans for Marincello development.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Marjorie Buckley as social workers union representative on the Family and Children's Advisory Committee and Donald R. Frost, public works director, as neutral member of a review committee to oversee design and construction of Stinson Beach-Bolinas sewerage works.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Approved an internal budget adjustment deleting the budgeted position of human rights commission coordinator and creating a director of human rights with a $1,000-a-month salary.

FIRE DISTRICT — At the request of the Kentfield Fire District board, increased the size of the board from three members to five and appointed Raymond J. Mullen of 21 Oak Knoll Road and Hubert Trembley of 14 McAllister Avenue to the new seats.

APPEAL — Set for Sept. 1 a public hearing on an appeal of Robert D. Marshall Jr. from a planning commission decision denying approval of a tentative map of the proposed Laird's Landing subdivision.

YOUTH — Passed a resolution recommending appointment of youth members to "appropriate" advisory boards and commissions.

$1.5 Million Hall Of Justice Claim

The general contractor on the $11.7 million Hall of Justice filed a $1.5 million claim with the County of Marin yesterday arising from a long delay in completion of the structure.

In a letter to the board, attorneys for the contractor, Robert E. McKee Inc. of El Paso, Tex., claimed $130,078 as balance of the contract price due McKee and $1,417,312 in damages.

The letter was received in the supervisors' office yesterday and was not discussed at yesterday's board meeting.

McKee claimed increased construction costs resulted from a delay in completion of the project and the letter blamed the delay on "acts or omissions of the owner," which is the county.

The letter said these acts or omissions included errors in the drawings and specifications of the building; delays in processing requests by McKee for clarifications, proposals and change orders; late delivery of county-furnished materials; delays in county selection of colors; interference and delays caused by separate contractors and delas in site preparation.

The first county offices began moving into the Hall of Justice last October — a full year behind the scheduled completion date.

McKee claims the delay cost the company $1,417,213.

The attorney's letter was written last Friday. On the same day, the county wrote a letter to McKee demanding work on the building be completed.

The $130,078 was withheld from McKee's $9.25 million contract to cover items which were not completed to the satisfaction of the county and the architect, according to Mario Balestrieri, deputy director of public works.

Balestrieri said the county has a four-page list of items which have not been satisfactorily completed. The list includes concrete repairs where the repair doesn't match adjoining surfaces; stained ceilings in two places due to a leak from a fan unit, and tarnished plumbing fixtures and other hardware.

Forty-six nations declared war on the seven Axis powers in World War II.

Passengers Hurt On Cable Car Ride

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six passengers hanging from the side of a cable car Tuesday were brushed against an illegally parked automobile and injured.

The accident happened at Jackson and Hyde streets when the cable car rounded a curve and passed too close to the car, police said.

All those injured were standing on the ancient vehicle's running board.

Dorothy Slattery, 45, of Rocky River, Ohio, suffered serious leg injuries. Her daughter, Mary Jo, 12, suffered a fractured ankle; and Mrs. Slattery's husband, J.J. Slattery, 44, suffered minor injuries.

The others, all with minor injuries, were Elizabeth Padnar, 23, Joliet, Ill; James Green, 25, San Francisco; and William Nobsek, 24, San Francisco.

Tires Stolen

Two tires, valued at $116, were removed from a car owned by Joan Francis Ziegler of 160 Prince Royal Passage while it was parked at the 5639 Paradise Drive home of Kenneth Frank Toscanini prior to 9:07 a.m. yesterday, Corte Madera police reported.

Closing Festival Was A 'Bargain'

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Gov. Dewey Bartlett said it cost the state $32,500 to close the Turner Falls rock festival before it began. The governor says it was a bargain.

"This was far less than it would have been if we had tried to provide services for the 30,000 persons," Bartlett said Tuesday. "But far more important is the fact we maintained respect for law enforcement."

He also said it was good field training for National Guard troops who patrolled the area to keep festival goers away from the park.

Supersonic Jet Fund Dumping Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of a potential $3 billion throwaway, a joint Senate-House panel today strongly recommended the federal government stop financing development of the supersonic transport (SST) plane.

The joint economic subcommittee said "no further financial support of the supersonic transport development program is justified at this time."

In a report based on hearings held in May, the subcommittee concluded "few significant public benefits" appear likely to accrue from the SST and added "more productive uses of government resources are clearly available."

Of the subcommittee's 10 members, only Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, objected. He said "the same kind of thinking . . . would have kept the American government . . . from developing transcontinental railroads or President Kennedy 10 years ago from undertaking a program to reach the moon."

The SST would be designed to carry about 300 passengers at 1,800 miles per hour — far above the speed of sound. Supporters of the project have said it is necessary to keep the United States in competition with an SST being built by France and Britain. Critics have said it would become a plaything of the jet set and add to noise pollution.

The report said there was no satisfactory evidence the production phase of the SST can be financed entirely from private sources.

"If the SST program is continued, the total cost to the government is likely to reach $3 billion or more," the report said. "there is little reason to believe that the government will earn a reasonable rate of return on its investment.

"It is entirely possible that the government will recover none of this investment," the subcommittee added.

the government also noted that between $600 million and $700 million has already been spent on the SST prototype and the Nixon administration has requested an additional $290 million for fiscal 1971.

"If the program is terminated now, the cost to the government, while large, would be only a fraction of the eventual total costs of prototype development," it said.

Recycling Drive Set By Ecology Center

A recycyling drive run by the Marin Ecology Center has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the College of Marin parking lot adjacent to the administration building on College Avenue.

Newspapers cross-tied, flattened aluminum cans, tin cans crushed with the ends inside and crushed glass separated by color will be accepted, according to the center.

Program To Discuss Courtroom Security

More security in our courtrooms and how to accomplish it will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" by a panel including Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin; a former Marin district attorney, Albert E. Bagshaw, and Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. Fourth panelist is to be annonced.

Questions may be phoned during the live broadcast tomorrow. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast by tape, Sunday at 10:05 a.m.

Kappas Wins Right To Build New Piers

George Kappas is entitled to install new piers and berths for 35 houseboats that are now tied up along dilapidated piers at Gate 6½ in Richardson Bay, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and his deputy, Joseph A. Forest, told the board that Kappas has a legal right to continue the houseboat colony there because it was in use before the county's houseboat ordinance went into effect in December 1968.

It was because of this ruling by the county counsel that the county planning commission approved the 35 berths for Kappas last July 13.

The Marin Conservation League appealed the planning commission approval yesterday before the county supervisors on grounds that the houseboat colony at Gate 6½ sits in the middle of a marina green and open water proposed in the county's specific plan for Richardson Bay.

Supervisors lacked the three votes needed to reverse the planning commission. Chairman John F. McInnis was on business in San Francisco, and Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. is on vacation.

Supervisors Michael Wornum and William A. Gnoss voted to oust the houseboats from Gate 6½ and put them in Kappas' property at Gate 6, where 70 more houseboats now exist.

However, acting chairman Louis H. Baar refused to go along. He argued that Kappas already has the legal right to keep houseboats there, and new berths and improvements would be an asset. "He (Kappas) is doing exactly what we have been asking him to do for two years," said Baar. "The new installation will be an asset to the area."

"If we vote yes on this," Wornum objected, "we should also vote to reject the specific plan for Richardson Bay.

Maloney ruled that without three votes, the supervisors could not act, which means that the planning commission's approval of the houseboat colony at Gate 6½ stands.

Mary Summers and Harold E. Gregg, representing the Marin Conservation League, then urged the supervisors to continue the hearing until all five supervisors are present. But Maloney pointed out that yesterday's was the last meeting in which to act on the league's appeal. Any continuance would be possible only with consent from Kappas, said Maloney.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundeli produced a 1966 aerial photograph of Richardson Bay, showing that Kappas's Gate 6½ had only about 11 or 12 houseboats moored there at the time. Von Gundell urged the supervisors to eliminate houseboats from Gate 6½ or at least limit the number to 11 or 12.

The county counsel replied that the density of houseboats was not set until the houseboat ordinance was approved in December of 1968, and the 35 houseboats conform with provisions of he 1968 ordinance.

Houseboat residents, headed by Charles Whitlock, declared that they had spent thousands of dollars in an effort to meet county codes. If the county now forced them to move to another area, that would be harassment, the residents argued.

Under Joe McCarthy, the Yankees won eight pennants and seven world series.

Limited Bridgeway Parking Extended

The Sausalito City Council — awaiting one parking proposal from a businessmen's group and wishing to study another — agreed last night to continue its current limited parking experiment on downtown Bridgeway for another 60 days.

The decision means that six parking spaces on the street between Princess and Anchor streets, interspersed by planter boxes, will remain until the council can agree on a permanent parking plan for the area.

In a calm meeting, which contrasted sharply with recnt heated discussions on the subject of downtown parking, the council heard a proposal from the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce to reinstate 24 spaces on the two-block portion of Bridgeway.

Presented by William Remak, the plan calls for one red zone for every two parking pasces on both sides of the street. The zones, located between each set of two parking areas, would allow parking without backing in, according to Remak, and thus speed traffic flow.

He told the council the additional spaces, though less than the 32 parking places on Bridgeway before the ban, would help merchants whose businesses are suffering because of insufficient parking for customers.

Traffic consultant Gerald Wood of Wilbur Smith and Associates, hired by the Sausalito Businessmen's Association, informed the council of a traffic-pedestrian survey he had made in July.

Wood said his survey revealed that 430 vehicles an hour headed north on Bridgeway during peak traffic hours and 1,766 pedestrians crossed the downtown portion of the street each hour.

The consultant noted that virtually all of the 800 parking spaces within a half-mile of the two-block area were filled and contributed to the traffic jam. He said he would present a final report and recommendations after he had had time to study the chamer's proposal.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser voted against continuing the present limited parking experiment. After hearing reports from the chamber and members of the city staff that the plan left something to be desired, Fraser moved to return to the city's original proposal to ban all parking on that part of the street.

"I don't know how you can stay with this when businessmen and city staff agree the plan is not effective," Fraser said.

Councilman Robin Sweeny admitted the plan "has not been managed as well as it should have been." A slightly red-faced council learned last night that its ordinance setting forth parking rules in the new 20-minute spaces in the area could not be enforced because it did not include any time limit for the parking.

"I think it is nigh onto impossible at this time to properly evaluate how well the plan has worked," she said, adding the impact of the new ferryboat system has not yet been determined.

The council, over objections by Fraser that it was abdicating its responsibilities, agreed to form a committee of six to study the parking situation, then report back.

The committee will include H. Eric Borgwardt, city planning director; Norman Wohlschlaeger, city engineer; Mrs. Sweeny and three persons chosen by the business community.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

BOND SALE — Passed a resolution offering for sale $560,000 worth of bonds, approved by voters in June, for city purchase of waterfront land. Bids on the bonds will be opened Sept. 15.

BUILDING USE — Upheld a city planning commission decision to allow Frank Werber's commercial building at 660 Bridgeway to be used for any businesses now permitted in the central commercial business district zone. Previously, use was limited to seven specific kinds of businesses.

NEW SIGN—Approved an encroachment permit for the Sausalito Sweet Shop for a new overhanging sign.

NEWSPAPER RACK — Overruled the planning commission by denying an encroachment permit to Mark Thompson for a newspaper rack in the public right-of-way at 705 Bridgeway.

HEARING — Set Sept. 1 at 8 p.m. for a hearing on planning commission denial of a proposed zone change on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge. The change, requested by developers Frank Lynchand E.R. Fitzsimmons, would pave the way for apartment development in the area.

PARKING CUT — Agreed to eliminate between three and four parking spaces between 127 and 149 Crescent Avenue because parking on certain parts of the narrow street makes passage of city fire vehicles difficult.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Asked city staff to prepare a report on the amount of animal control the Marin County Humane Society provides for Sausalito, compared with other cities in the county.

PARK IMPROVEMENTS — Approved two plans, presented by the city engineer for improvements, including lawn, trees and picnic tables, for Carl Gabrielson Park and the mini-park at the foot of Humboldt Avenue.

BUS CHANGE — Granted a request by Greyhound Lines for minor route changes to make Sausalito, rather than Marin City, the connecting point between the city and other Southern Marin cities.

STORAGE AREA — Signed a lease with the Sausalito School District to allow the city to store tennis equipment in a building at Martin Luther King Shcool.

YOUTH CENTER — Agreed to pay Paul Kozak, who acted as director of the youth center when the director was on vacation, a full-time salary at $2.64 an hour and pay two youth supervisors, Charle Weckler and Mark Peckham, on a part-time basis at $1.76 an hour.

CITY HALL — Asked the Sausalito Community Appearance Board to present a plan for repainting and refurbishing of city hall at an estimated cost of $1,-300.

NOISE POLLUTION — Agreed to ask city staff to prepare a report on noise problems in Sausalito, with an eye to some type of noise ordinance.

701 Planning Session Reset For Tomorrow

A proposal that the Marin City Community Services District take over control of the 701 planning program in Marin City will be discussed by the district board at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center.

District directors and the Marin City Council, which has jurisdiction of community planning in Marin City, were scheduled to discuss the proposal at a joint session last night, but it was canceled because neither body had a quorum.

Also on the district's agenda tomorrow will be discussion about ownership of a site selected for a new firehouse between the Rosa Building and Drake Avenue. It had been assumed the land was owned by the district, but there has been a report that a portion is owned by the Marin County Housing Authority.

Nixon Asks Approval On '25 Gas Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon formally asked the Senate today to approve the 1925 Geneva agreement banning wartime use of poison gas and bacteriological weapons.

He said the agreement would not ban the use of napalm, chemical defoliation herbicides, tear gas or flame throwers.

The President sent his request to the Senate almost nine months after announcing he would seek ratification of the pact that the United States has observed since its inception but never signed.

AN INDECISION

The delay was apparently caused by indecision within the administration over what to do about tear gas, defoliants and napalm, which are used extensively in Vietnam.

The Geneva protocol prohibits use of chemical and germ agents in war and last November, the U.N. General Assembly decided this included herbicides and non-lethal irritant gases.

However, the Nixon administration pointed out that of the 85 parties which have signed the agreement, 39 governments —including France, Russia, and England — ratified the treaty with reservations.

Senate ratification requires a two-thirds vote of approval.

REVIEW IN 1969

Nixon announced Nov. 25 the National Security Council had completed an extensive review of U.S. chemical and biological warfare programs and said the United States would unilaterally renounce the use and production of biological agents.

He also said his administration would seek the necessary Senate advise and consent for the Geneva protocol, in line with stated U.S. policy of not being the first to use chemical weapons in conflict.

Ironically, it was the United States in 1925 which sought the ban on chemical and biological methods of war. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee later reported favorably on the protocol but it never was brought up for a vote.

Two More Federal Court Suits Will Test 18-Year-Old Voting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government filed suits against New Hampshire and North Carolina in lower federal courts today to provide a further test of the constitutionality of a law extending the right to vote to 18-year-olds.

The suits are also involve a ban on literacy tests and residency requirements contained in legislation lowering the voting age in all states to 18.

The government filed suits directly in the Supreme Court Monday against Arizona and Idaho. Today's actions were designed to assure court consideration at lower levels if the Supreme Court should refuse to accept the Arizona and Idaho cases.

In a separate action, the Justice Department filed a memorandum urging the Supreme Court to consolidate for a single hearing cases involving Arizona, Idaho, Texas and Oregon. It suggested briefs be filed by Sept. 10 on the merits, and briefs for argument by Oct. 5, so that the Court could hear the case during the month of October.

Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell said the suits, filed in U.S. District Courts in Concord, N.H., and Raleigh, N.C., asked that special three-judge courts be convened to hear the cases.

The courts also were asked to order the states to allow otherwise qualified illiterates to register as voters in the Nov. 3 elections.

The four states are the only ones of 14 with literacy tests that refused to comply with the new law.

residency requirement to 30 mated there were 16,412 illiterates of voting age in New Hampshire and 421,905 in North Carolina. However, only 61 counties in North Carolina are affected by the lawsuits. The rest were covered by the original 1965 Voting Rights ban on literacy tests.

The new law also shortens all residency requirement to 30 days for voting in presidential elections.

Man Jailed After Wild Auto Chase

A San Francisco motorist, arrested last Feb. 28 after a wild auto chase on Highway 101 which involved the patrol cars of three Marin municipalities, has been sentenced to 10 days in county jail by Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Judge Smith also ordered Donald Max Bales, 27, on probation for 18 months and to make restitution for damages resulting from the chase.

Bales originalls had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon for aiming his car at a Larkspur police officer, drunken driving, leaving the scene of an accident, posessing a loaded revolver in his auto and reckless driving. All but the reckless driving and leaving the scene charges were dismissed in May.

Bales told investigators he thought he was being chased by would-be robbers during his flight on Highway 101.

Bill Extends Jurisdiction On Pollution

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature has sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill extending the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Area Air Pollution Control district into Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

Final approval occurred Tuesday when the Senate voted narrow 21-11 passage to a bill by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond.

Sen. Fred Marler, R-Redding, urged defeat on ground that it was "inappropriate" for the district to extend itself as deeply into the Sacramento Valley just west of Davis. The eastern Solano County area is a rich farming area where agricultural burning occurs.

The Senate version of the Knox bill excluded the eastern portion of the county from the district's jurisdiction, but exemption was removed and the bill restored to its original shape by a two-house conference committee.

Transfer Of Pupil Depends On Tuition

The Fairfax School District learned last night transfer of a Fairfax pupil to the Mill Valley School District would be accepted by Mill Valley only if Fairfax pays tuition for the student.

The reason given by the Mill Valley district, Fairfax Supt. H. Reginald Hammond told his board, was the same Mill Valley gave in rejecting the transfer of 17 Sausalito pupils: lack of finances.

The Marin County Board of Education is considering an appeal of the Mill Valley rejection by the parents of the Sausalito students.

While the Sausalito parents said they were dissatisfied with the Sausalito district, Hammond said the reason for the Fairfax transfer application was a baby-sitting arrangment worked out by the pupil's parents.

The Fairfax board approved the application at an earlier meeting, and last night approved a no-tuition transfer agreement for a pupil in Lagunitas School District to attend a Fairfax school this year.

The board also approved an agreement with Wells Fargo Bank for the lease-purchase of portable walls for White Hill School over a four-year period at an estimated cost of $16,000, Hammond said.

Average Home Income Increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two of every five households in the nation had incomes of over $10,000 last year, the government reported today. The nation's median household income rose 8.3 per cent to $8,390.

The Commerce Department said 25 million of the 62.9 million household in the nation earned more than $10,000 last year, an increase of 3.7 million from 1968. Of those, 10.4 million had incomes over $15,000.

At the other end of the scale, the number of households earning less than $3,000 declined by 600,000 to 10.2 million or 16.2 per cent of the total.

The median income for white households was $8,760 compared with $5,290 for Negro households.

The median income is at the midpoint of the scale, with half the households earning more and half less. A household is defined as all persons, related or not, living in a single house or apartment.

The department reported earlier that median family income was $9,400 last year. The household income figure is lower because it includes some one-person households.

Remedial Reading Review Scheduled

The Shoreline Unified School District board will consider continuing participation in the county cooperative project for remedial reading instruction at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow at the district administration office in Tomales.

Also planned are consideration of hiring a French teacher for Tomales High School and a report on the teacher in-service training program.

Suspension For 10 Days To Be Asked

A Marin Sheriff's inspector will be recommended for usupension without pay for 10 days because of a series of patrol car accidents during the past 11 years.

Inspector Kenneth L. Irving, 38, of Nicasio, will appear before the county safety commission tomorrow at 9 a.m. in Room 400 of the Civic Center.

The recommendation for disciplinary action will come from Richard I. Uchida, senior personnel analyst, who is commission secretary.

Uchida said the cost of the six automobile accidents involving Irving during the past 11 years totalled $4,242.

The latest occurred March 12 no Nicasio Road near the Howard Ranch. His patrol car went off the road and severed a utility pole. Irving left his patrol car on the shoulder of the road and returned home without reporting the mishap, said Uchida. A highway patrol officer spotted the car the next morning and filed an accident report.

Irving blamed faulty steering and minimal tire treads.

Uchida said an inspection by mechanics turned up no defect that would make the car handle improperly.

Release Of POWs Urged By Reinecke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke signed and mailed a letter to the North Vietnamese today urging them to release American prisoners of war to "show the world you are concerned with life."

The letter was written in Vietnamese by a San Diego resident born in the Asian country. A reprint of the letter was carried by The San Diego Union in a full-page plea to Hanoi.

Water Board Sets Survey Of Aqueduct

The North Marin County Water District board last night appproved an agreement with financial consultants Stone and Youngberg of San Francisco for a preliminary survey of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct Project.

First phase of the survey will cost $10,000, to be split among the Sonoma Water Authority, Marin Municipal Water District and North Marin County Water District board under a joint powers agreement.

The proposed Sonoma-Marin aqueduct has been planned to run from the Russian River through Sebastopol, Cotati, Rohnert Park, Petaluma and Novato to Mill Valley to bring new water supplies into the area.

The board also approved annexation of the 109-acre Tomales Bay farm property or Herbert Angress located north of Marshall, and authorized Eugene S. Churchill, manager, to negotiate for purchase of a 2.4-acre site for a five-million gallon enclosed steel reservoir to serve the lower zone (below 100 feet elevation) of Novato.

Sandblasting May Be Bay Area Threat

Sandblasting operations on the Golden Gate Bridge pose an "environmental threat" to the Bay Area, San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn said yesterday.

The sandblasting dumps almost three tons of red lead paint in the bay and into the air each week, the supervisor said in a letter to the general manager of the bridge district, Dale W. Luehring.

Mendelsohn suggested that some sort of giant vacuum cleaner be provided to prevent the blasted paint from escaping into the bay and air. Luehring could not be reached to comment on the matter.

He also wrote that he had asked the state Fish and Game Department and San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board to investigate the "dangerous red lead fallout."

Mendelsohn noted that the sandblasting — to propare for an application of a long-lasting zinc silicate compound — was to continue on the bridge until 1980.

Eisenhower Aide Named By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today named John N. Irwin II, an assistant secretary of defense during the Eisenhower administration and a New York lawyer, as undersecretary of state.

Irwin, 56, succeeds Elliot L. Richardson in the No. 2 position in the State Department. Richardson was appointed earlier this summer to succeed Robert H. Finch as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Irwin, a Republican, will receive a salary of $42,500. His nomination must be approved by the Senate.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Disorders Of Nervous System Having Unexplained Increase

Nervous system disorders have become more common. Very little was written about them in the past, possibly because the medical profession was more interested in organic ailments. Or perhaps nervousness was not considered an abnormality. It could be that the symptoms produced by nervous feelings or weak nerves were attributed to other conditions.

Dozens of symptoms of emotional origin resemble those caused by a diseased organ. For example, nausea and vomiting may stem from an attack of appendicitis, peptic ulcer or an inflamed gallbadder. But the manifestations also may follow an unpleasant experience. I have known many persons with sensitive nerves to have a trying day followed by insomnia and vomiting the greater part of the next day. Others develop headache or diarrhea.

BUT THERE ARE many more subtle manifestations of an unstable nervous system. These are more easily described than explained and usually involve behavior. People who are eccentric, fickle, difficult, hostile, dictatorial and unpleasant fall into this category.

The same can be said of those with a selfish desire for sympathy and the attention of others. Stuttering and tics also are of nervous origin. Antisocial character disorders including sexual perversions should be added to the list.

NERVOUSNESS CAN cause distress that varies from slight to disabling. So long as the distress does not preoccupy the thoughts and actions of the individual, they are considered normal. Depression and anxiety are the best examples. Every one of us has had these emotions; but when they persist, disrupt productive living or start for no reason, they are abnormal.

We do not know why nervous disorders are on the increase. No longer are they confined to the better ranks in life. They now are extending into the poorer classes. One authority blames too much freedom and too much wealth. In this regard, the welfare state may bring on more unhappiness than good.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

FIRST AID FOR CHOKING

S.R. writes: What is the best first aid for a person who is choking on food?

REPLY

Encourage coughing. Other measures include a finger down the throat to induce vomiting, or reclining with the head lower than the pelvin. Slapping the victim on the back is usually recommended but it has drawbacks. With the first slap, the individual might gasp and force the bolus of food further into the lungs.

40 STEPS A DAY

A reader writes: Is it safe for a person suffering from coronary insufficiency to go up and down 40 steps every day?

REPLY

Yes, unless the activity induces chest pain or shortness of breath. Many individuals with angina pectoris, of necessity, have to climb stairs; they take it easy and stop for a moment or two at each landing.

AGE AND EAR SURGERY

E.A. writes: Is a man of 70 too old to have an ear operation for otosclerosis? He developed the condition many years ago.

REPLY

The man is not too old, but ear tests would be needed to determine whether the operation will improve his hearing.

No Results Reached In County Talks

Marin County's Sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers emerged from a bargaining session today with County Administrator Alan Bruce and reported they are still deadlocked on new salaries and benefits.

"They (the county team) came up with a proposal quite a bit lower than our request," said Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, which is bargaining for the 210 safety employees. Sheriff's deputies are holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise, and county firemen, 10 per cent.

Prevo, Sheriff's Sgt. Wade Powell, and Robert Testa of the county fire department met with Bruce, Senior Personnel Aanlyst Richard I. Uchida, and Deputy County Counsel George Silvestri Jr.

Prevo said the county team headed by Bruce came up with a counter proposal which will be presented to individual members of the safety employees in the form of secret ballots. Bruce declined to discuss his proposal.

Another Bomb Hoax Clears BBC Studio

LONDON (UPI) — The British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) ordered the audience out of the studio and sent its disc jockey to another broadcasting station today because of an anonymous bomb threat.

It was the latest in a series of bomb hoaxes that have kept police busy since a bomb apparently intended for a crowded movie theater exploded in a car Sunday and seriously injured a young couple.

Linda Says She Told Her Husband

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Linda Kasabian admitted today that she told her husband about the Tate-LaBianca murders a few days after they occurred but that neither of them made any attempt to contact police,

Under cross examination by Irving Kanarek, the attorney for hippie cult leader Charles Manson, Mrs. Kasabian said that she did not really know how to "go to the police" and tell the story.

"You mean you didn't have the courage to tell the police?" Kanarek asked.

"I don't know."

Kanarek asked her what she told her husband Robert about the slayings a year ago this month.

"I told him Charley flipped and had a whole bunch of people killed," she said. "I said I saw a number of people killed myself."

Kanarek asked the witness whether her husband had not suggested they should contact authorities.

"His reaction was that you got to hurry up and get your little girl out of there," she said. "He didn't see the reality of it."

Army To Aid Rifle Shoot With $70,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army, saying it is acceding to the wishes of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and some members of Congress, will provide more than $70,000 in personnel and equipment for the 1970 World Shooting Championships.

The championship match will be held this year at Black Canyon, Ariz., near Phoenix Oct. 14-26. It is the second time the contest, featuring the world's top marksmen, has been held in this country.

The Army said it would supply 68 officers and enlisted men to "command, control and operate equipment." It also said it would supply a radio communications system, 22 field telephones, four general purpose tents, two first aid stations and two ambulances with qualified medical personnel, four small arms repair vans and four armorers. The Army will pay $62,000 for these services, and the Navy and Air Force will pay an additional $10,000.

Zsa Zsa's Jewels Worth $700,000 Taken By Gunmen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Zsa Zsa Gabor, star of the Broadway show Forty Carats, was robbed of jewelry estimated to be worth $700,000 by two gunmen in an elevator of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel early today, police said.

The actress was not harmed. "I got in the elevator and it was all over in two seconds," she was quoted as saying. "I wasn't going to argue with a gun so I gave them the jewelry and then went upstairs and called the police."

The actress was returning to her suite in the Waldorf Towers with her maid at about 12:45 a.m. when the robbery took place, a press secretary said. Police said the bandits took two 48-caret rings and a set of diamond earrings.

At the stationhouse where Miss Gabor went after reporting the robbery, police said it was their understanding the gems were not insured.

Angry Pole Fires At German Envoys

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 76-year-old native of Poland who said he was upset because of Nazi killings of Poles fired four shots in the West German consulate Tuesday. No one was hit and the man was captured by two menbers of the consulate.

Police said Leon Zelewaski, Bridgeport, Conn., a retired employe of a paper company, fired the shots from a .38 caliber pistol in an alleged attempt to kill Vice Consuls Axel Schwirtz and Werner Keil. All four shots hit a wall, and one was said to have missed Schwirtz' head by just an inch.

The consulate officials disarmed Zelewaski who was charged with attempted murder and possession of a dangerous weapons.

NEW COACH — Rev. John Heaney (above) will take over head varsity football coaching duties at Marin Catholic High School this season with former all-pro guard Bruno Banducci of the San Francisco 49ers as his assistant.

Marin Catholic High School will have a new varsity football coaching staff this year consisting of a reverend and a former all-pro San Francisco 49er guard.

Athletic Director Gary Hughes revealed yesterday that Cliff Vattuone, who guided the Wildcats to a record of three wins, four losses and two ties in his first campaign as head coach last year, has decided to step down from the job. He will switch positions with last year's junior varsity coach, Rev. John Heaney.

Father Heaney, whose record with the Jayvees was eight wins against a single loss, will be assisted by Bruno Banducci, a member of the all-time 49er team who played pro from 1946-53 after starring at Stanford.

In announcing his resignation, Vattuone stated that he was stepping down so that he can concentrate on teaching mathematics and history.

"I want to devote more time to my classroom work," he said.

This will be Heaney's first head coaching job, although he has had prior experience on the varsity level. He was an assistant at Sacred Heart High School in San Francisco for two years, and coached the jayvees for two years before that.

Heaney did not make any promises for the 1970 season, but did indicate that his plan is to bring Marin Catholic back into the Marin County Athletic League within the next few years.

"The kids are determined to put Marin Catholic back on the football map," he said. "In a year or two we should be able to compete in the MCAL."

The Wildcats dropped out of the league three years ago and have played football as an independent school since then.

According to Heaney, Banducci will be of great value as a line coach.

This will be Banducci's first year as a coach. Formerly a resident of Menlo Park, he has bought a home in Marin County and intends to make coaching and teaching in Marin a career.

Namath Gives It The Garbo Act

By JOE CARNICELLI

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—Joe Namath reported to the New York Jets training camp Tuesday, but whether he'll be able to play football remains a question.

Namath, the Jets' tempestuous quarterback, arrived at the team's Hofstra University training site in the early afternoon and after some Greta Garbo type theatrics, said his football career may be decided in the next two weeks.

"Physically, I don't think I'll be able to play," said Namath. "I haven't thrown a ball since December. There are other things more important to me than football now. They say football is No. 1 at this time of year. That's ridiculous. It's not my main concern and it's always been my main concern and that's one problem I have.

"I don't know whether I want to go through it all again. Losing is a horrible experience. Scoring only six points against Kansas City was being humiliated. I don't know if I can go through that anymore. I don't know if I want to be sick. Losing leaves a bad taste. You get a bad feeling. You get the chills."

Namath said his attitude toward football has changed greatly since the Jets dropped the 13-6 decision to the Chiefs in the AFL playoff last season.

"Physically and mentally, my attitude has gotten worse," said Namath. "I now look at the game in a different respect. It used to be my whole life. It used to be everything I lived for. Logically and realistically, it's not now. On the football field it is. You give 110 per cent and everybody strives for one thing—to win. I really don't know if I can play this year—I'll know in the next couple of weeks."

Namath missed 11 days of training and two pre-season exhibition games, citing "personal problems" as his reason. His absence, however, caused middle linebacker Al Atkinson, who co-captains the Jets with Namath, to walk out of camp. Atkinson reported back to camp Monday after injuries to defensive end Gary Philbin and linebacker Mike Stromberg.

"I read what Al said," said Namath, "But I'm not going to go grabbing anything out of the papers. I'm going to talk to Al. We'll talk it out. If a guy like Al feels the way he does about how I acted, then maybe I should have done things differently."

Weeb Eubank, coach of the Jets, said he would have to see Namath's condition before determining how long or if he will play Sunday against the New York Giants in New Haven, Conn.

"We'll have to use some common sense," said Ewbank. "We're not going to throw a guy to the wolves. He always has trouble with his legs early in the season and he always has trouble setting up early. We'll have to see his physical condition and make a decision late in the week. Right now, I wouldn't think of pushing him. It's all contingent on Joe's legs, his physical shape and what the doctor says. There'll be no crash program for him."

Namath refused to answer reporters' questions after entering the Jets' training quarters, going directly to his room. He unpacked, picked up a new pair of white football shoes and left for a team meeting.

Five uniformed police helped Namath squirm through a crowd of 1,000 spectators at the afternoon workout. He threw lightly for about five minutes before practice and was an observer through most of the 90-minute session.

JIM GILMARTIN

Hazeltine Miserable In Comeback Attempt

Word from New York is that ex-49er Matt Hazeltine may be having second thoughts about his comeback with the N.Y. Giants at age 37.

A close friend of the former Tamalpais High School star told me: "I talked to Matt after the San Diego game the other night and he's just plain miserable. He's second string — something he's not used to — and doesn't get to play much. He played only briefly against San Diego and hurt his leg.

"But this comeback is just something he had to try. You know, he looks great and felt great when he reported to training camp, but it's rough trying to make the grade at the age of 37 when you're up against kids 15 years younger. I don't think Matt would be disappointed if the Giants release him. At least he tried — and found out it's much tougher than he thought."

Matt retired after the 1968 season after 14 sterling years with the 49ers.

MARTIN BACCAGLIO of Novato appears to be a lead-pipe cinch to win a starting job as defensive end with the team's training camp in Wilmington, Ohio.

Assistant coach Chuch Studley already has tabbed Martin a leading candidate as a starting member of the front four, observing:

"There are several basic differences between the 1969 and 1970 defensive lines. The overall quickness and speed is much better, the capacity to learn and adjust is immeasurably better and the enthusiasm and aggressiveness reminds me a great deal of a college team rather than the pros. It appears to be a young, quick, intelligent and aggressive front four."

Yep, He's All Those Things

Those of us who know Martin Baccaglio can readily understand how he perfectly fits into that picture. He's all those things rolled into one great guy.

SPEAKING OF talented Novatans, baseballer John Dolinsek slumped sharply last week but his .310 batting average for the Columbus, Ga. Astros continues to lead the Class AA Southern League.

Reports on other Marin pros: Tom Corder of Novato is batting .236 and Dewey Forry of San Rafael is at .263 for the Ogden, Utha Dodgers of the Pioneer Rookie League; Ken Johnson of Larkspur is batting .251 at Kinston, N.C.; and pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato has a 3-3 record for the Greenwood, S.C. Braves in the Class A West Carolinas League.

AFTER READING Fish and Game warden columnist Al Giddings' dissertation on mini-skirts in yesterday's I-J I may change the name of his column to "Fun and Games." And I always thought Big Al was an OUTDOOR sport.

MARIN MAY have two starting offensive guards for the Washington State Cougars within the next three seasons, according to word out of Pullman, Wash.

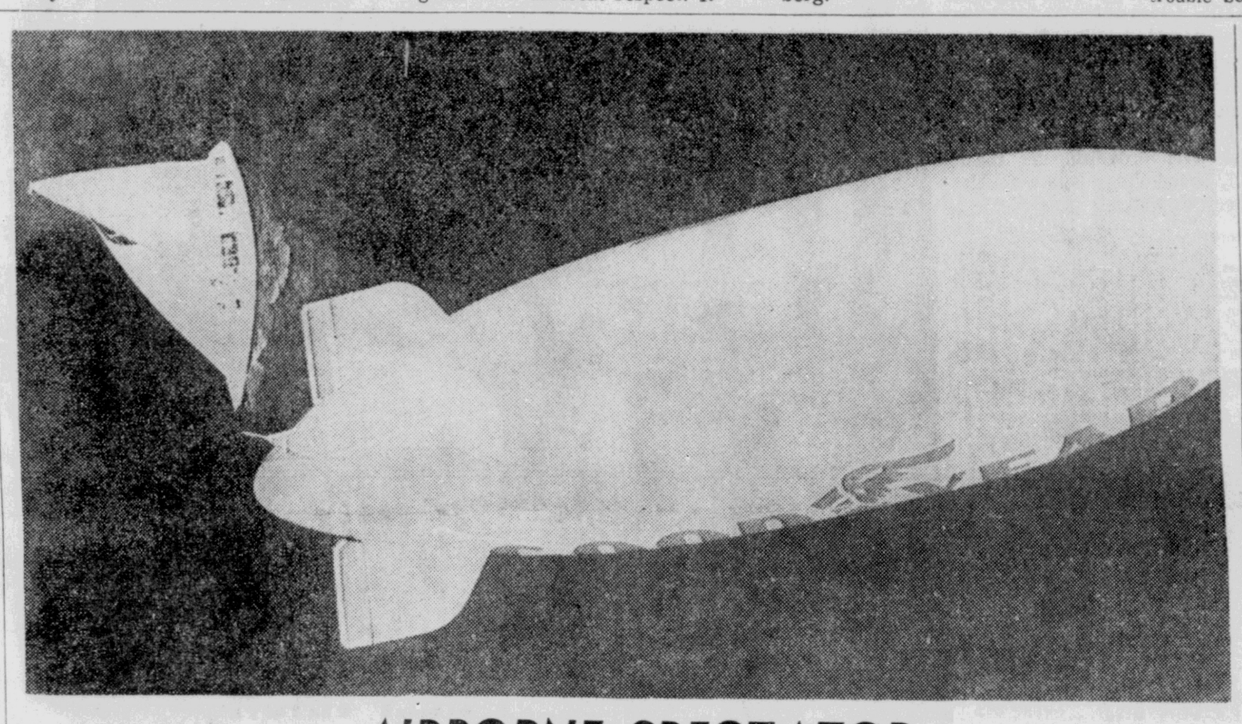
Lando, a 6-2, 235-pounder, was a starting tackle for the undefeated frosh team last season, but will be tried out at guard ". . . to give him more of a chance to play," according to Coach Jim Sweeney.

And Kasprzak, 6-2 and 205 pounds, appears fully recovered from the knee injury that kept him out of spring practice. "He should be well this fall," said Sweeney, "and will provide competition for a starting guard position."



AIRBORNE SPECTATOR

The giant Goodyear blimp was photographed from almost directly above yesterday as she followed the exploits of the American yacht Valiant, which defeated the favored Intrepid on the first day of competition to choose a defender for the America's Cup races beginning Sept. 15. (Story on page 39).

Florida Sun Proves Tonic For Injury-Riddled 49ers

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Florida sunshine is proving beneficial to a group of hobbling San Francisco 49er football players.

Four veterans who have seen little or nor action so far this season resumed practice Tuesday and three of them could see action Saturday night in an exhibition game against the Miami Dolphins.

Only guard Kevin Hardy, knocked unconscious 10 days ago during a blocking drill, probably won't play. He resumed one-on-one drills for the first time Tuesday.

LIMITED ACTION

Others who probably will see limited action are fullback Ken Willard, tackle Cas Banaszek and defensive end Bill Belk. Willard has begun to run on his sore foot.

"He may go Saturday," said coach Dick Nolan. "We'll have to see how much his foot swells."

A crowd of 75,000 is expected in the Orange Bowl to watch two former Heisman Trophy candidates—Bob Griese of Miami and Steve Spurrier of San Francisco—direct their teams from the quarterback slot. Spurrier was born in Miami and became an All American and Heisman winner at the University of Florida.

Nolan said he may start Spurrier in a head-to-head battle with Griese and use John Brodie in the second half.

Assistant 49er Coach Mike Giddings revealed he received an invitation from a coaching friend to have the Prospectors play an exhibition in the Orient next year.

Art Johnson, assistant to the president of the 49ers, said the possibility of such a trip was "possible but not very probable."

Garibaldi Leads PCL–By Default

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Garibaldi of Phoenix leads PCL pitchers in latest figures, but he got a big assist from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers bought season-long PCL earned run king Charlie Hough of Spokane to bolster their bullpen squad so Garibaldi took over by default with a 2.58 earned run mark. Garibaldi is also the league workhorse with 17 complete games and 223 innings pitched.

Jerry Stephenson of Spokane and Dennis Bennett of Hawaii have won 15 games each to share the lead in that department in games through last Sunday.

Giant Rook Roughed Up By Pirates

A week ago the 20-year-old hurler pitched 6 1-3 scoreless innings of relief against the Cubs to pick up his first major league victory. He wasn't so fortunate Tuesday night in the Pirates' new Riverfront Stadium.

Carrithers entered the game in the seventh inning with Pittsburgh leading 3-2 and exited four batters later with the Giants trailing 6-2 which, incidentally, was the final score.

FOURTH APPEARANCE

The young pitcher, making only his fourth big league appearance, walked Dave Cash and Roberto Clemente singled. Matty Sanguillen singled home Cash and was thrown out in a rundown.

Then Bob Robertson belted a two-run homer off Carrithers. Robertson also tripled home a run in the Pirates' three-run third inning off San Francisco starter Skip Pitlock, now 3-4.

The loss snapped a four-game win streak of the Giants and lest them with a 5-4 record on the current road trip.

TOUR ENDS

San Francisco closes out its 10-game tour tonight at Pittsburgh against Luke Walter (10-3) Juan Marichal, looking sharper with each outing, will try to improve on his 6-9 record.

The Giants have an off day Thursday before opening a nine-game homestand Friday

Hitless A's In Trouble

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI)—All of a sudden the Oakland A's are in trouble.

Five days ago there were riding high and seemingly had a fine chance to overhaul the slumping Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

Today, after dropping a 3-1 decision to the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night, they are in desperate need of some hitting help.

Since last Friday they have dropped five of six games, three to such star pitchers as Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Mickey Lolich, all lefthanders. In the stretch, they have managed only 23 hits.

Lolich topped them on just five singles Tuesday night and got all the help he needed from Dalton Jones and Mickey Stanley as Chuck Dobson went down to his first defeat since the All Star break.

Lolich had his curve under control, and that made the difference.

"When my curve is working I'm a pretty good pitcher," said Lolich. "When it isn't, I'm in trouble."

EIGHT WHIFFS

Lincoln struck out eight A's—Reggie Jackson three times—and walker three as he snapped a personal losing streak of two and gained his 11th triumph compared to 14 losses.

The A's loaded the bases with one out in the eighth and did not score. In the ninth, they finally broke through for their only run but only because Detroit third baseman Don Wert made an error.

Wert threw away Felipe

Millionaire Coach Returns To Baseball

PITTSBURGH — Happy Herman Franks now is baseball's only millionaire coach once again. He used to be baseball's only millionaire manager. Next to making money, Franks loves baseball best. He just can't stay away from the game. He jumped at Alvin Dark's invitation to return to the game after Dark was appointed manager of the Giants in 1961.

Franks left the Giants at the end of the 1958 season during which old Seal Stadium fans gave him quite a riding for an inability as third base coach to stop Orlando Cepeda and other exuberant rookies of that team from running through his traffic stops.

NO THIRD base coach could have stopped the rampant rookies from being thrown out at the plate without tackling them. But Franks deeply resented the suggestion that Seals Stadium fans ran him out of San Francisco.

"Nobody ever ran me out of any place," roared Franks. "I'm going back to Salt Lake City to take care of my business that has a future in it."

INDEED, FRANKS' business did have a future — a most profitable one. He built mobile homes and sold them as fast as they came off his assembly line which in a few years was manned by 150 men.

So Franks became a millionaire. Just before Dark's call came, Franks had promised his wife, Ami, and their three children a trip to Europe. Franks kept his promise while accepting Dark's offer to become his chief coach. He reported late for spring training that year.

FROM 1961-64 Dark ran the Giants as they had never been run before. Dark never visited Horace Stoneham. The president of the club didn't like that. Stoneham bounced Dark at the end of the 1964 season and put Franks in as manager.

Franks ran the Giants from 1965-68 as a sideline to his mobile home business. He gave the team his full attention, of course, on the field. But off it, he clipped coupons. It became frustrating and monotonous to finish No. 2 three years in a row. At the outset of the 1968 season Franks said he'd step aside if he didn't finish on top. He kept his word after a fourth No. 2 finish. Stoneham didn't try to persuade him to stay.

ONCE AGAIN he returned to the serene surroundings of Salt Lake City. Even the business of making money in mobile homes began to bore him. That took some doing, considering Franks' love of money. He sold the business for a handsome profit, of course.

When Leo Durocher's call came the other day, Franks was planning a fishing trip to Great Slave Lake in Canada. He was catching limits in the mountain streams around Salt Lake. He even made a trip to the Jackson Hole country to catch limits there.

BUT SOMEBODY told him that eight-pound trout were thrown back by Great Slave Lake sportsmen because they were too small. However, Franks may never get a chance to check out that fishing tale. He's back in baseball now. Durocher's invitation to join the Cubs as a coach was one Franks knew couldn't be put off for any delayed acceptance as was Dark's.

The Cubs are in a pennant race. So Franks cancelled his plane reservations for Canada and got a ticket for Chicago.

Oregon Gets Olympic Year Trackfest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SEATTLE — The NCAA's executive committee yesterday chose the Uinversity of Oregon as the site for the NCAA track meet in the Olympic year of 1972. The University of Washington will host the 1971 meet. Also announced were the regional and final tournament locations for 1972 NCAA basketball. Alou's smash for a two-base error. Alou went to third on a bunt single by Tommy Davis and scored on Sal Bando's fielder's choice grounder.

BOUNCE BACK

"We've been down this road twice before this season," said A's manager John McNamara, referring to the team's sudden lack of hitting. "We'll just have to bounce back again, which we showed we could do last week."

Diego Segui, a pitcher who has had his problems of late, goes for the A's tonight as they try to fight their way back from a six-game deficit, eight on the loss side. Mike Kilkenney pitches for the Tigers, who have a four game winning streak.

Dobson had won eight in a row since the All Star Game but he didn't have much going for him Tuesday night. The Tigers reached him for eight hits in eight innings but some of the couts were solid smashes to the fences.

A double by Jones and a single by Stanley produced Detroit's first run in the third. Jones hit his fourth homer for the second run in the seventh and Wert drove in the third tally in the eighth with a double after two walks.

Five Marin Girls In National Swim

Four girls from the Marin Aquatic Club and Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin will be this county's represenatives in the AAU Senior National long course swimming championships beginning tomorrow at the Los Angeles Swim Stadium.

Jo Hislop and Denise Ham of the MAC will swim individual events and combine with Kathy Hislop and Ann Engel in the 400-meter freestyle relay.

The senior nationals ranks as one of the most prestigious swimming meets in the world. No event except the Olympics has lower qualifying times. Among the national champions and record holders who will compete are Dave Edgar of Florida, the worlds fastest swimmer, Mark Spitz of Indiana and fabulous Debbie Meyer of Arden Hills (Sacramento).

BUSY GIRL

Miss Bachrach will swim in four events, the most of any Marin entry: The 100 and 200 butterfly, and the 200 and 400 individual medleys.

Miss Ham will swim in both fly events also, plus the 200 I.M. Miss Hislop's event will be the 100 freestyle.

The Swim Stadium, located near the USC campus, is considered by many to be the fastest pool in the country. The depth of the pool, its non-turbulent racing lanes, the gutter construction and maintenance of water level are all fators that contribute to the reputation.

This year the meet will include consolation finals, in which the second eight finishers will receive points. MAC coach Don Schwartz predicts that if his girls can equal their best times, they will score points for the club.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Water Skiers: Your Driver Is Your Life

A word of advice to water skiers: Pick the driver of your tow boat carefully. Your life may be in his hands. It's a very important consideration because of the phenomenal growth of the sport (there are better than 100,000 new devotees every year). Since there are so many novices in the game, it seems to have more than its share of accidents.

Now, it must be admitted that water skiing accidents are very seldom fatal, or even serious. But there is such a rash of minor injuries every weekend across the country that it attracts attention.

ALTHOUGH THE skier is always the victim, after examining reports of some of the accidents I find that the boat driver often is more to blame.

For instance, here are a couple of recent examples. A skier fell in shallow water and broke her collarbone. In another case a skier hit a piece of driftwood, fell and struck his head on another piece. He went to the hospital.

Now a skier can't go into shallow water or through a mass of floating driftwood unless the boat takes him there. So skiers take note. If you have a choice about someone to drive the boat which will tow you, select a person who is a water skier himself. He'll know the dangers.

THE SKIER will have taken some instruction on dry land in order to get the feel of the skis on his feet and the pull of the rope. This helps his balance. But it is just as essential that the boat driver take a little instruction beforehand on the manipulation of the boat and an understanding of the skiers' signals.

That there are many areas of uncertainty about water skiing is evident from the questions I've been asked this year:

Q. Where are the laws covering water skiing rules and regulations?

A. They are in the Boating Act of each state. All are getting more stringent each year. Read yours carefully.

A. Are there severe penalties?

A. Very much so. Careless or reckless operation of a ski-tow boat is regarded very seriously everywhere. Fines range up to $2,000 with six months in jail. If a fatality results, the charge is manslaughter in some states.

Q. Can I fasten the tow rope to one place on the transom of the boat?

A. It's not a good idea. The best thing is a bridle with the tow line tied to a pully or a ring which slides along the bridle. This makes for better steering of the boat.

Q. Is it all right to use plain rope as a tow rope?

A. Yes. The only reason the new fangled plastics are so popular is that they float. It's easier to see the rope and pick it up.

Q. Can I pull a skier with a 7½ hp motor?

A. It can be done, with a very light flat bottom boat and a very light water skier, say 100 pounds. Generally 10 hp is the least power that's recommended.

Q. Is it possible to ski in rough water?

A. Yes. But it's more dangerous and not for novices.

Q. What causes the most accidents?

A. The Safety officials ay it's stunting without proper instruction or experience. Hitting docks or boats, or falling in shallow water causes the most serious accidents.

Q. Who invented water skis?

A. A patent was issued Oct. 25, 1927 to Fred Waller, the man who later invented Cinerama.

Q. Is a life jacket or life belt compulsory when water skiing?

A. No. But wearing one is a very good idea, because in the event of a fall the skier may be knocked unconscious.

Q. Is it advisable to wear ear plugs when water skiing?

A. Medical authorities say no. They may be forced into the ear in the event of a fall.

Q. How about a bathing cap?

A. Bathing caps are good. Statistics show that more men suffer ruptured ear drums in bad falls than women . . . because more of the latter wear bathing caps.

Q. Does the boat have to go faster in slalom skiing?

A. Not necessarily. It depends on the area of the ski and weight of the skier. But in tournament slalom, the boat makes the first run at 28 mph, the last at 34 mph.

Q. How late in the year can you safely water ski?

A. Until winter . . . if you wear a skin diver's wet suit. It will keep you warm even if you fall in freezing water. A lot of the professionals extend their practice season this way.

Q. What are the skier's emergency signals?

A. A raised arm means Stop! Drawing the hand across the throat in a cutting motion is a more urgent demand to "cut the motor." These are the two main emergency skiers' signals.

Yachts Resume Trials

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—The final U.S. America's Cup Trials, suddenly but not unexpectedly a three-yacht contest rather than a walkaway for Intrepid, sent Weatherly against Intrepid and Valiant vs Heritage today in the second day's races.

Valiant and Heritage both had been soundly trounced as Intrepid won nine of 10 races in the observation trials in July and both scrambled to make major changes in sails, mast or rudder. It paid off Tuesday as Valiant, skippered by Bill McCullough of Riverside, Conn. scored a 42-second victory over skipper Bill Ficker of Newport Beach, Calif., and his Intrepid.

Heritage won as expected against Weatherly, which after all started the year as Heritage's trial horse, but the margin of victory of the golden mahogany craft of St. Petersburgh, Fla. was an impressive six minutes 19 secodns.

The races were sailed in light air with winds at about eight knots, and even then the yachts had to wait 90 minutes past scheduled starting time to get enough wind for racing.

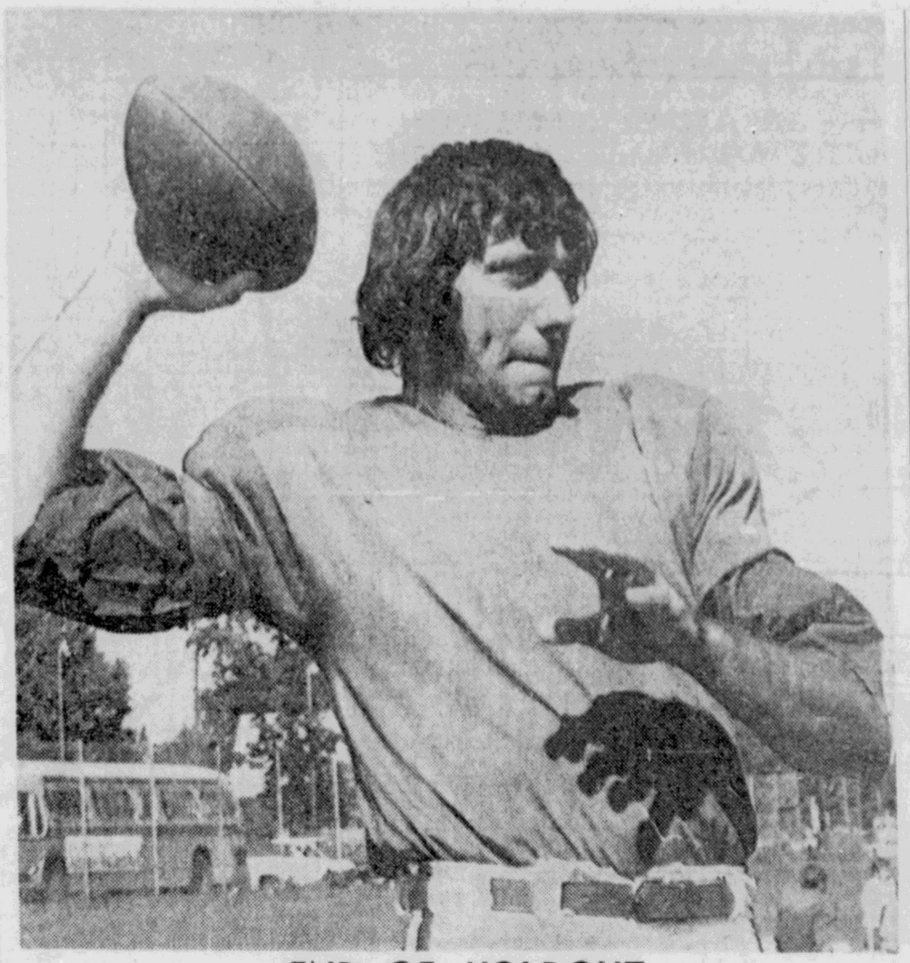
Ficker said he was not downcast about the defeat, noting that he had said many times that both Valiant and Heritage have improved very much over their July performances. McCullough, who had been quietly confident as Valiant, a new 12 meter built this year got better and better in practice, said only that "it will be a real battle all the way now."

Intrepid was the 1967 Cup winner against Dame Pattie of Australia, and Weatherly, the 1962 Cup winner against Gretel I of Australia, is only in this series to provide the second pairing.

The two foreign challengers, Gretel II of Australia and the France also were expected to sail today in final practice for Friday's start of their best-of-seven series for the right to challenge the U.S. for the Cup in the big races starting Sept. 15.

Softball Results

Foust Chevron and the Doves played to a 4-4 tie last night in San Rafael adult softball league action at Albert Park. In other games, Fairfax Shell defeated Suburban Auto, 6-1, Cain's Tires downed the Bar, 10-1, and in a contest at San Rafael High School, W.E. Joost outslugged the Brothers Three, 15-13.



END OF HOLDOUT

Joe Namath, the New York Jets' controversial quarterback, tossed a football yesterday during his first workout of the year, after reporting to the Jets' training camp at Hofstra University two weeks late. Nearly 1,000 fans including 300 newsmen were on hand to greet him.

Raiders To Test Rookies

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Alvin Wyatt, Ed Hayes, Ray Chester, Don Highsmith, Tony Cline and Gerald Irons aren't exactly household names with the limping Oakland Raiders.

But this group of rookies will see a lot of action against the Los Angeles Rams Saturday night because a handful of their veteran teammates, plus rookie running back Ted Koy, are hobbled with various injuries.

Offensive guard Jim Harvey appeared the most seriously hurt with a knee injury. All were suffered in the Raiders' 30-19 win over Philadelphia on artificial turf Monday night.

"I hurt the same knee last year on Astroturf," said Harvey. "I'll vote for grass every time. Alfalfa, even a good field of oats. . .anything but that artificial stuff."

Pulling guard Gene Upshaw sprained both ankles against the Eagles, defensive back Willie Brown may have suffered a slight concussion when he was knocked out and Koy jammed his knee.

Defensive backs Wyatt and Hayes, linebackers Irons and Cline, tight end Chester and running back Highsmith all saw action aginst the Eagles.

The Raiders will have only two days of serious scrimmages this week before flying to Los Angeles Friday for the night exhibition match against the Rams who looked like their awesome selves Saturday in beating Dallas 17-10.

Lefthander Ken Stabler, who has thrown six touchdown passes in five quarters, will again split the Raiders quarterbacking chores with Daryle Lamonica.

Oakland coach John Madden has been enthused about the play of Stabler this season and it looks like he will stay around as Lamonica's backup man.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 19, the 231st day of 1970 with 134 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1915 two Americans were killed when a German U-boat torpedoed the British liner "Arabi" in the Atlantic.

In 1955 the worst flood to hit the northeastern states killed 200 persons while destroying or damaging 20,000 homes.

In 1960 U-2 spy plane pilot Francis Gary Powers was convicted by a Russian court and sentenced to 10 years in prison. He was released 18 months later in exchange for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.

In 1966 a 44-day U. S. airline strike ended after having cost $1.5 billion.

ABAG To Study Agency Formation

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A proposed $120,000 study of how to form a regional development agency in the Bay Area will be considered by the Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hotel Claremont.

The study would focus on Sonoma and Santa Clara counties, according to the proposal by the San Francisco planning firm of Eckbo, Dean, Austin and Williams.

The proposed agency would buy and develop land to implement ABAG's regional plan, which envisions clusters of development to preserve open space.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

True Bridge Expert Described As Compassionate For Partner

Everybody knows that a boy scout is trustworthy, loyal, friendly and so forth, but who knows what a bridge expert is? The word, in case you are looking for it, is compassionate. If you are a true bridge expert you watch out for your partner to make sure the poor devil doesn't make a mistake. If you're doubtful about all this, I have a hand from the recent world championship to prove it.

NOT COMPASSIONATE

At one table, where Mike Lawrence, of the victorious American team was declarer, West cashed the ace of hearts and then shifted to the jack of clubs. Simple, but not very compassionate.

Declarer played low from the dummy, and East played low without deep thought. South won with the singleton queen of clubs and had no further trouble with the hand. He could ruff two hearts in the dummy, losing only one trump, one heart and one diamond.

DIDN'T THINK

From his own hand and the dummy, East could see that his partner had only the ace-king of hearts, and nothing better than jacks in diamonds and clubs. Surely he had the ace of spades for his opening bid. Therefore East could make sure of one trick in each suit by taking his ace of clubs at once. But East didn't think.

BETTER SWITCH

At the other table of this match, Bobby Goldman and Billy Eisenberg held the West and East hands. Goldman took a high heart to begin with, and then he shifted to a club. But Goldman, a true expert, is compassionate. He led the five of clubs rather than the jack.

If East held the ace-queen of clubs, he would be able to win with the queen. If East held only the ace, he would be forced to win the trick at once. And that is just what happened. The defenders got on trick in each suit because West was too compassionate to give his partner a problem.

Do your partners say the same thing about you?

Two Airlines Ask Helicopter Routes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Two feeder airlines want to take over routes that San Francisco-Oakland Helicopters, Inc., wants to abandon.

Valley Airlines, Inc., asked the State Public Utilities Commission Monday for permission to fly between San Jose and San Francisco. Golden Pacific Airlines, Inc., asked to fly between San Jose, Palo Alto and San Francisco.

The helicopter firm had said the routes were not economical, but is continuing its service to and from Marin.

RCA Shares Suffer In TV Market Slump

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 1,500 shares of RCA, some bought as far back as 1933. Although I do not need the money, I would like your opinion on whether to hold or sell. — A.M.

A. RCA has been hard hit this year by the slump in demand for TV receivers — approximately 20 per cent of company sales come from this course. In the first six months, net dropped 40 per cent on a 4 per cent decline in sales. A strike at 12 manufacturing plants was cited as being an important factor in the sharply lower second-quarter earnings. RCA's National Broadcasting subsidiary reported reduced commitments by major advertisers, and company's government-related business remained slow. Partially offsetting these negative influences, however, were computer, food processing, global communication and service operations which continued strong. In 1969, nonelectronic business accounted for 40 per cent of sales and 44 per cent of earnings; in addition a real estate company and a food processor have been acquired thus far this year. RCA's program of diversification, which has added an important measure of stability to the company, will probably provide the springboard for earnings recovery. Although near-term, the shares will continue to reflect the sluggishness of the TV set market, holdings, over a period of years should grow at least as fast as the economy.

Q. Can you recommend three AAA-rated bonds that are exempt from New York state and federal taxes? — R.M.

A. Interest on municipal bonds is generally exempt from income tax in the state where issued and is also exempt from federal income tax. All general obligations of the State of New York are rated AAA by Standard & Poor (NYC issues are rated BBB). An offering made by the state late in July reached the public at yields of 5.1 per cent and 6.1 per cent depending on maturity dates, which ranged from 1976 to 1994. Taxable equivalent yields for a person in a 50 per cent bracket would be approximately double the coupon rate. A bond dealer can give you more details on what is available from this "Blue List."

Oven Timer Cost Up

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Robertshaw Controls Co. is raising prices on timing systems for gas and electric ranges by 9 per cent and on oven controls for gas ranges by 6 per cent, effective Sept. 1 and Aug. 1, respectively. Increased production costs necessitated the increase, the company said.

News Pushes Stock Prices Higher Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Encouraging economic news Wednesday provided major support for the stock market for the second day in a row as turnover climbed to nearly 10 million shares.

Of the 1,549 issues crossing the tape, advances outscored declines, 797 to 458.

Closing prices included: Am T & T 44 3-4 up 5-8; Chrysler 18 5-8 off 1-8; Dupont 120 1-2 up 1 7-8; Ford 47; Gen Motors 68 3-8 up 1-2; IBM 239 3-4.

The market was buoyed initially by a favorable economic forecast by the Commerce Department.

In a mid-year review, the department predicted the slumping U.S. economy will rebound strongly during the last part of this year and at least the first part of next year, bolstered by a new wave of consumer spending.

Analysts also suggested that the list benefited from carryover demand from Tuesday, when Wall Street responded favorably to the Federal Reserve Board's cut in bank reserve requirements on certain types of deposits, and to a comment by White House economist Paul W. McCracken that the nation can look forward to a moderate upturn in the economy for the rest of the year.

Among the day's most active issues were Continental Oil, Plessey, Westinghouse, Jersey Standard, Gulf Oil and Texaco. Standard Oil of Ohio also attracted demand. A Sohio subsidiary is linked with Reserve Oil & Gas in a joint mineral exploration program in Canada's Northwest Territories.

Bankruptcy Filed

DALLAS (UPI) — Nine former officials and employees of G F Industries, Inc., have filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the company, alleging it owes them $51,000 in salary and expense accounts. The company recently sold about $671,000 worth of assets. It is engaged in machine tool manufacture and oil and gas operations.

Gulf Oil Expands

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gulf Oil Corp. has announced formation of a new division to direct the company's rapidly growing worldwide chemicals business. The division, Gulf Oil Chemicals Co., will have responsibility for worldwide chemicals policy direction, planning and achieving efficiency in production, distribution and marketing.

FAIRCHILD SEMICONDUCTOR, San Rafael has announced a major milestone in production with the shipping of its one-billionth silicon diode — a tiny electronic device used in equipment ranging from shirt pocket transistor radios to advanced aerospace computers and Apollo antenna control systems.

One billion diodes placed end to end would just about circle the world one and one-half times at the equator.

Product marketing manager Ray Gouldberry reports that Fairchild shipments of diodes have roughly doubled each year since the company started producing them in 1959. Shipments during 1970 are estimated at 360 million units.

Other Fairchild products besides silicon diodes include a specialized diode used in votage controls, photo devices, remote controls, various transistors and integrated circuits and combinations.

The San Rafael plant serves as headquarters for diode operations. Other plants are located in Mountain View, Palo Alto, New Mexico, Maine, Mexico City, Hong Kong, Korea, Singapore, Australia and West Germany.

MOZART AND ANNETTE KAUFMAN set up their new antiques department in the San Anselmo dry goods store bearing their name this week and even before they could get price tags on the merchandise many of the items were purchased.

The Kaufmans spent six weeks in England and Europe earlier this year, prowling through old garrets, cellars, ironmongers' warehouses and other side-alley sources of supply, turning up hundreds of hard-to-find pieces that many professional decorators would give their most prized bibelots to acquire.

Sonoma State President Due Constructive Backing

Earl W. Jones, the new acting president of Sonoma State College, is facing a hard row to hoe.

His predecessor, Ambrose R. Nichols, Jr., was personally quite popular. He was well like by all who knew him, including those who strongly disapproved of some of his decisions.

In fact, Nichols' popularity with activists among faculty and students sprang from what some regarded as Nichol's haste to "give in" to each new demand rather than face a show-down.

Jones previously was on the faculty and in the administration at San Francisco State for more than 15 years. He was witness and sometimes participant in the events which showed that militant activists can succeed in closing down and almost ruining a college headed by a series of weak administrators.

In succeeding a personally popular president whose administration was marked by acts of appeasement when confronted by demands and threats, Jones comes to bat with one strike already called.

WITHOUT WAITING for him to make a single move or decision, a group of two dozen students who in the past have exercised some leadership on campus gathered to denounce his appoitnment and predict bad times ahead for Sonoma State.

From its ivory tower at the corner of Fifth and Mission in San Francisco the "Voice of the West" editorialized a bit in its news columns to label Jones a "conservative" and protray him as the choice of the farthest right wing of the State College Board of Trustees.

IN THE SENSE that many have expressed preconceived negative opinions about Jones, he comes to his job with a second strike already called.

On the other hand, State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke has said, "Mr. Jones has demonstrated great skill and administrative grasp of academic issues at San Francisco State College. I am confident Sonoma State will benefit from his many insights and his ability."

AND JONES HIMSELF has observed, "Sonoma State is ideally situated to provide a highly constructive education experience for its students and service to an important surrounding area . . ."

Let us hope that activist faculty and students at Sonoma State get off the hostility kick and show some constructive interests in accomplishing what the new acting president has indicated is his goal.

An Early Fall?

We are a bit cynical about weather signs. Our tendency is to dismiss nature's signals as indications of the immediate past more than as premonitions of the future. However, like the chartists of Wall Street who project today's market actions into tomorrow's predictions, we concede that there are trends in nature which might possibly have some follow-through.

So when a neighbor walking by on an evening stroll said the signs indicated an early fall this year, we did not dismiss the idea.

"The leaves are starting to turn brown," he said. "It's a sure sign of an early fall."

But we also recall what a wise farmer once taught us. "Nature seems to balance the weather out." We would interpret this to mean that since we had a cooler than usual summer, we will have a warm autumn.

So, we will see what we will see.

Environmentalists Mourn Bills Killed In Senate Committee

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Somewhat apprehensively we looked out our window this morning to see if the sun had come up. It had, and in a heavy brown haze.

The heavy brown haze resulted from a lumberyard fire, and the apprehension resulted from the action of the Senate Transportation Committee in killing two bills the environmentalists said we had to have — or else.

Sen. Randolph Collier, committee chairman, will take the heat for the loss of these two highly-touted bills, but we suspect the committee pretty well reflected the views of the Senate.

The perennial cry of the loser here is that his bill would have made it if only it had got by some committee or other, and the home folks are supposed to believe it, even if nobody else does.

The two measures were ACA 38 by John Foran of San Francisco and AB 79 by Pete Schabarum of Covina. Both dealt with serious subjects.

ACA 38 would have put it up to California voters to decide whether cities and counties could choose, after approval by their local voters, to use their share of the state's seven-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax on anything other than building and maintaining their streets and roads.

This would make a pot of $268 million that ACA 38 would allow to be tapped for public transportation and automotive smog research.

Nobody supposed cities or counties were going into the smog business in competition with the Air Resources Board, already supported by motorist taxes not constitutionally dedicated to highways.

And as to public transportation systems, a number of senators were solicited for their vote on the theory nothing would happen because no city or county in its right mind would abandon its streets or roads for that purpose.

In other words, a bill that would accomplish little more than to establish a precedent of diverting gasoline taxes to other than highway uses, would nonetheless make points with the environmentalists.

AB 79 would have phased the lead content out of gasoline over the next seven years. Pete Schabarum had done his homework and made a strong three-hour presentation.

He complained that he was shorted because he got 50 hours of discussion on his bill in various Assembly committees and on the floor, but then the Senate, known as the House of Lords, knows the Assembly as the Cave of the Winds.

Assemblyman Schabarum's bill is aimed in the right direction, and we expect to see it back again.

But some of the senators were undoubtedly concerned that cutting the lead starting now might result in gasoline formulas that would produce more, rather than less, of the damaging smog that smarts the eyes and irritates the lungs.

The lead, testimony developed, is a cheap way of getting the anti-knock characteristics that keep California's 12 million cars from pinging their engines to pieces.

If you reduce the lead, you may have to increase the eye-smarting substances to get the same anti-knock effect, at least at a lot of refineries at the present time.

Technology will probably take care of things in the long run. Detroit is starting to build engines to operate on lower octane fuel, and the refinery industry, dancing to Detroit's tune, has started to convert to different processes requiring different equipment.

The value of Schabarum's bill is in bringing this all out in public so that the industry and the technologist that work for it can feel a little of the heat that legislators get.

Boys Hunt Spot To Ride Mini-Bikes

My friends and I are 14 and 15 and live in Los Ranchitos and Santa Venetia. Some of us have mini-bikes and mini-trails. We don't have licenses and we're not allowed to ride on the streets. We all have to ride on the trails. We started riding on the fire trails and we were all satisfied with riding up there. The police kicked us off and now there is a $600 fine if we're caught up there. We started using the Civic Center, as they said it was okay, but now they are building an auditorium so we were told to stop riding there. Now we're riding on the trail by the railroad, but the railroad company put up signs saying, "Stay off."

There are no places for us to go. Our bikes are safe. We have spark-arresters so we can't start a fire. What I am trying to do is find a hill or some place where my friends and I can ride. Can somebody help us. Thank you.

Average Citizen Entitled To Speak

I would like to reply to an article in the I-J, written on Aug. 11 by C. P. McCarthy.

In opening I would like to comment on the statement made by Mr. O'Connell that I was Mr. Nelder's co-chairman during his campaign.

I am quite flattered and surprised to have this title given to me simply because I voted for Mr. Nelder and believed in his campaign. I hadn't realized it would be that easy to be named a co-chairman. I am obviously new to the intrigues of politics.

It may come as a comlete to Mr. O'Connell to find out people do have a mind of their own. Unlike Mr. O'Connell, I can speak for myself and write my own material.

As far as "goading" the mayor into making a motion, I certainly am entitled to bring up a subject that has split this town for years. I spoke out publicly on this issue (full-time administrator) at the "Whose Town" congress last October before I even had met Mr. Nelder. Mr. O'Connell may check on this if he would care to know the truth.

I would like to know the reason for Mr. O'Connell's violent reaction to a motion to hire a full time administrator. What gives him the right to attack the integrity of a citizen and taxpayer of the town of Fairfax? Also a lifelong resident of Marin County. Is the average citizen still entitled to free speech, even if he doesn't agree with another citizen and person serving in a public of fice?

Mr. O'Connell certainly takes every opportunity to use his title of city councilman to expound at length on his own opinions. He should learn to accept opinions other than his own more graciously.

Fuzzy Thinking At Plan Session

Last night, Aug. 13, I attended a "public work study session" of the joint meeting of the Novato Planning Commission and Downtown Planning Committee which was working on the "oDwntown Plan" for Novato.

All Novato property owners should seriously consider attending some of these meetings, if only to be aware of the fuzzy thinking being handed out by the professional planning consultants who drafted the plan. Two examples: 1st — Because they forecast a need by 1990 for 300,000 square feet of office space, they say it is necessary to zone for 900,000 square feet of office space now. (My question is, what are two-thirds of the landowner victims supposed to do, starve?) 2nd: Mr. Cooke, of Sedway and Cooke, the consultants, seemes to think the law of supply and demand has been repealed. He told the assembled group that the more land you zone commercial, the higher the price gets, because owners think it is worth more than it is. Apparently he never heard of "market value", which is the only valid guide to price, and quickly corrects an owner's misconception . . .

Please, Novato taxpayers, come to these meetings. The next meeting is Aug. 20, 8 p.m., place to be announced.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THE QUICK-TEMPERED Clarence Day, author of "Life With Father," once was taken ill at a summer resort, and Mrs. Day, despite his bitter protestations, summoned the local doctor. Later she demanded, "Clarence, did you follow what that doctor had to say to you?" "If I had," snorted Day, "you'd probably be treating me now for a broken neck — because I threw him down two flights of stairs."

AN EBULLIENT drunkard, weaving happily down a Chicago street years ago, saw an old-fashioned fire engine, drawn by three dappled greys, and belching smoke, clanging by — and promptly set out in pursuit. He kept up the chase for three blocks, cheered on by delighted onlookers, but finally gave up, shook his fist at the vanishing fire engine, and bellowed, "To hell with you and your damn chestnuts!"

THE DRUMMONDS

With McGovern-Hatfield Move How Does U.S. Avert More Wars?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Reaction to the Vietnamese war is producing some queer and dangerous ideas.

Many in Congress want to cut back the President's war-making powers and much of the public now shows it wants to cut the President's peace-making powers.

A recent Louis Harris Survey finds that most Americans — young and adult — want to cut Vietnamese war spending more than anything else (76 per cent) and that the next thing they want to cut most is foreign aid (42 per cent).

THE FIRST PART of this response is understandable: The pervasive feeling is that the United States has borne the brunt of the fighting in Vietnam long enough and that South Vietnam should take up the burden of its own defense.

But do Americans want to get out of the peace as well as out of the war?

But that will be the effect of a U.S. policy which says to the smaller nations facing aggression and subversion: "You must do more to defend yourselves militarily, and we are going to do less to help you economically."

This menaces the sound Nixon Doctrine that while the United States will normally rely less on its own military force to keep the peace, it will help other countries defend their independence through economic and military aid.

THE HARRIS SURVEY shows that many Americans support only half the Nixon Doctrine — to keep out of war. But they want to do less and less to keep war from breaking out.

Such a state of mind is headed straight into head-in-sand isolationism, because if the Nixon Doctrine is cut in half by a divided public, it becomes nothing more than a wishful objective without any means of fulfilling it.

Here is another example of how the thinking of the anit-Vietnam extremists produces proposals which undercut the ability of the United States to deter future wars.

The McGovern-Hatfield amendment, forcing the President to inform Hanoi that all American forces would quit Vietnam by June 30 next year, has an odd provision on how prevent future Vietnams. It provides that the United States must give no military assistance to Cambodia or Laos unless Congress declares war.

WHAT CONCEIVABLE purpose is served to make it necessary for the United States to go to war in order to provide economic aid and arms to a nation fighting for its life? We would thiink that the extreme Senate doves would be working to reduce the prospect of declaring war rather than increasing it.

The Nixon Doctrine is toward less involvement. It turns away from using U.S. combat forces abroad unless our vital security interests are at stake.

THE McGOVERN-HATFIELD amendment points exactly in the opposite direction. It requires a deeper involvement even while doing less. It demands that Congress declare war in order to assist a friendly and aggressed country by means short of war—economic aid and arms.

If the McGovern-Hatfield policy became general law, we couldn't provide fighter planes to Israel without going to war. This means that we would either have to deprive Israel of the means to defend herself or we would have to declare war on somebody to do this.

This doesn't make sense. It makes nonsense. This is what we mean when we say that the revolt against the Vietnamese war is producing some very distorted and inconsistent ieas. We better see where they would take us before we let them gain more credence.

Their effect would be to carry the United States onto the shoals of a new isolationism.

There would be no peace there.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Kennedy May Have Given O'Donnell Demo Rational

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — One of the unpleasant characteristics of a politician, in the eyes of many Americans, is a tendency to tell each audience just what it wants to hear.

In that sense, then, it is time to suggest that John F. Kennedy was very much a politician when he talked to Kenneth O'Donnell in a hotel bathroom during the 1960 Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

According to recently published exerpts from O'Donnell's forthcoming book, Kennedy told O'Donnell in that secluded setting why he was inviting Lyndon B. Johnson to be his vice-presidental running mate. To O'Donnell, the choice seemed to smack of "cynical, old-style politics we were trying to get away from."

KENNEDY EXPLAINED, according to the O'Donnell account, that he did not expect Johnson to help the ticket in the South. But the selection would, said Kennedy, eliminate Johnson from his powerful and potentially troublesome post as Senate Democratic leader.

It is very easy to believe that politician Kennedy was providing O'Donnell, and other members of the emerging "Irish Mafia", with a rationale which they could accept for the Johnson candidacy. It is not at all necessary to challenge the accuracy of O'Donnell's version of the conversation.

There is, of course, very good reason to think that Kennedy did have very strong hopes that Johnson would help the ticket in the South. The results of the election speak for areas. In fact, it may well be Kennedy could not have won without the support of Texas and other southern states.

IT IS CLEAR that Johnson did help the ticket in those areas. In fact, if may well be written in the history books that Johnson's leisurely train trip through the South ("What did Dick Nixon ever do for Culpepper?") was the last truly pivotal excursion in the long and colorful history of whistle-stop campaigning.

O'Donnell's other disclosure, that Kennedy was planning to withdraw from Vietnam, need not be challenged either. As a matter of fact, it is very difficult to challenge, since it has been supported by the respected Senate Democratic Leader-Mike Mansfield, of Montana.

The idea of a Kennedy withdrawal must, however, be put carefully in proper historic context. According to O'Donnell's account, President Kennedy called Mansfield in 1963 to let Mansfield know of his intention to withdraw from Vietnam after the 1964 election.

AT THAT TIME most of Washington was "planning" on the withdrawal of the small 16,000 troop advisory mission by 1965. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was himself predicting such a withdrawal in his rosy forecasts.

The Diem government (later to be overthrown) was still in power in Vietnam and the major U.S. troop commitment was still in the future. (After the 1964 election Johnson was accused of following the blueprint of his campaign opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, when he began the Vietnam escalation.)

Johnson's own self-torture over Vietnam has been well described by his brother, Sam Houston Johnson, in a recent book. It is really not so surprising to learn that Kennedy was seriously mulling over a complete withdrawal.

There is, however, a sad sort of irony in O'Donnell's revelations. He is trying to explain away two decisions which he views as flaws in the Kennedy presidency.

College Finally Lets Out A Roar Over The Creek Project

The College of Marin, which has remained relatively silent during the month-long squabble between Marin County and the Army Corps of Engineers and the contractor for the Corte Madera Creek project, last week let out a roar.

Source of the college's frustration is the temporary loss of a water line used for fighting fires and providing potable water to the College Center. The "fire loop" water line was damaged last week when a section of wall in the creek bed, running through the heart of the campus, crumbled away exposing and breaking the water pipe.

The college reacted to the news by jumping into the raging free-for-all over the merits of the contractor's operating procedures. It issued a five-page report to the county flood control office listing grievances with the project contractor, J B and C Co., of Arizona.

CHARGING THE CONTRACTOR with repeatedly trespassing on college property, the report notes the parking lot near Olney Hall has been used by concrete trucks and other construction vehicles for entrance to the construction site.

Dale Fleming, college planning director, asked the county to advise the Army, which oversees construction, of the violations. Adding the construction company also had piled gravel on a portion of the college parking lot adjacent the data processing building.

This same parking lot, the college maintains, is being used by the contractor for parking employees autos and the contractor's heavy trucks.

THE REPORT ADDS that forms are being stacked outside the construction area on campus property and a considerable amount of college water was used for curing concrete poured by the contractor. The contractor has agreed to repair or cease the damage the report states.

However, the report continues, a significant number of college improvements appear to be threatened by possible damage from the construction work.

A separation in the asphalt walkway to the Data processing building has appeared. The building is adjacent to the excavation.

"EROSION THAT occurred as a result of the breaks in the water lines has undercut the supports for the pedestrian bridge on one end while cracks in the soil banks are apparent at the other end," the report says.

Evidence of cracking is also found around a sanitary man hole near the college center, the document adds.

Faced with the start of the fall semester in about a month, the college concluded it was willing to do "anything reasonable to assist the contractor."

"We are willing to consider encroachments or other deviations from the contract documents that might help the contractor as long as they will not damage college property or interrupt the college operation," the report concluded. "We must, however, be provided the proper protection of college improvements, be assured of safety for students and staff, and continue the instructional program."

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

No One Remembers Brown Act, As New Bill Shows

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The furor over Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield's bill to forbid busing school children without parental consent indicates how far afield public school integration has run since Brown vs. Board of Education in 1954.

The bill (AB551) by the Downey Republican passed the state Senate 21 to 12, after clearing the Assembly by a lopsided 48-17 vote.

It consists of just 32 words to be added to the California Education Code: "No governing board of a school district shall require any student or pupil to be transported for any reason without written permission of the parent or guardian."

SEN. MERVYN M. DYMALLY, D-Los Angeles, called it a racist bill. Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, said it was "a flagrant racist attempt . . . to bring Dixie politics into California . . . a throwback of 100 years."

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, said it wasn't racist at all, pointing out that as passed it makes no mention of race. However, as introduced it would have banned busing without parental consent "for purpose of integration." That language was changed when it was questioned on constitutional grounds.

The heat over the measure shows pretty plainly that almost everyone has forgotten the issue that caused the U.S. Supreme Court to rule on May 17, 1954:

"WE CONCLUDE that in the field of public education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. Therefore, we hold that the plaintiff and others similarly situated for whom the actions have been brought are, by reason of the segregation complained of, deprived of equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the 14th Amendment."

The plaintiff was Linda Brown, a Negro child. Her father brought suit against the Topeka, Kans., Board of Education because Linda was required to take a bus across town to an all-Negro school although there was a school within four blocks of her home. He wanted Linda to attend the neighborhood school.

The fight over AB 551 found defenders of the neighborhood school lined up for the bill, with the opposition coming from those who claimed the neighborhood school concept creates and preserves segregation.

THIS HAS BEEN the stance in much of the conflict over busing of school children. Educators who contend that the only way to upgrade the education of black children is to sit them in the classroom beside white children have attacked the neighborhood school concept and urged "educational parks" to replace it for intergrated education in the 1970s.

Somewhat overlooked has been the fact that parents, black and white, have often shown their devotion to the neighborhood school when the racial issue was not involved. Some school districts have at times bused children away from their neighborhood schools to keep class sizes down to an arbitrary maximum figure. Almost without exception, this has brought opposition from parents of the children who were bused.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD school issue in Brown vs. Board of Education has been forgotten. The ruling of a lower court in one of the many cases that followed that decision probably has not even been read by most people.

In Bell vs. Gary (1963), a federal district court judge held: "Requiring certain students to leave their neighborhoods and friends and be transferred to another school miles away, while other students, similarly situated, remained in the neighborhood schools.

Another Vote For Tax Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan picked up another vote for his deadlocked $1 billion tax revision plan today as he neared a final Senate showdown on his top priority program of the legislative session.

The added vote was assured when Republican State Chairman Dennis E. Carpenter won a Senate seat Tuesday in a special Orange County election.

But the governor still was no closer to victory than he was three weeks ago when a lone Republican — Sen. Clark L. Bradley of San Jose—and a dozen rigid Democrats blocked passage of the embattled bill on the Senate floor.

FINAL TRY

Reagan and the measure's legislative sponsor, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, planned a final attempt to pry loose the property tax relief plan Thursday night or Friday. The Legislatuer hopes to adjourn this weekend.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, planned to return Thursday from an Asian trip to be on hand to vote for the governor's program.

Reagan's package would provide substantial homeowners property tax relief—$105 for an average $20,000 home—and finance it by raising other taxes. The sales tax, for instance, would be increased from 5 to 6 cents on the dollar. Withholding of the state income tax also would be adopted.

27 VOTES NEEDED

The bill requires 27 votes for passage. Even with Carpenter's vote it would still need one more, and the 13 Senate opponents showed no sign at a meeting Tuesday of weakening their adament stand.

One Democrat who voted with the governor the first time now is in a hospital and not expected to return before adjournment. Sen. Tom Carrell, D-San Fernando, is recuperating from what his office described as "congested lungs."

The administration pinned its hopes on a potential "courtesy vote" for Carrell, cast by one of the bill's opponents. But there were no indications this was going to happen.

"The whole concept of 'courtesy' is one that was invented this session. It's part of Bagley's psychological warfare," said Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles, one of the opponents. "They're not going to get the bill unless Tom (Carrell) comes back in an ambulance."

Bagley told a reporter, "You can't bring in a man who is ill and jeopardize his health." Reagan's press secretary,

FUTURE DORMITORIES — Townhouse-style dormitories of 400 units are expected to partially relieve the critical need for low cost housing for Sonoma State College students in 1972. The living quarters, which will include a swimming pool and cafeteria, will be located on the northwest corner of the campus. Separate entrances off a common courtyard will provide privacy.

SONOMA HOUSING

Plans May Offset Future Shortage

By BONNIE BARD

(Last of three articles)

New living units — ranging from townhouse-style dormitories to geometric dome structures — are in the proposed future to offset the critical housing shortage for Sonoma State College students.

While they may have little meaning for students now searching for living quarters, the various plans may begin to solve the problem.

First on tap are the dormitories that have been delayed annually for lack of funds. Dr. Warren R. Tappin Jr., associate dean of students, said plans set the opening in early 1972 for the first 400 units.

Cost per student will average $122 per month and include room, meals and recreational facilities.

Dr. Tappin is enthusiastic about the townhouse design because it permits students privacy as well as the communal living arrangement so many are seeking.

"Dormitories will add to the college atmosphere," Dr. Tappin said, adding he feels students should get more out of college than simply attending classes. Sonoma State is now largely a commuter school with most students driving daily from points in Sonoma and Marin counties.

Tappin said he felt that parents would also appreciate dormitory living opportunities for their teen-aged children since some supervision will be maintained and a smoother transition from parental control to adult freedom provided.

Developers in the area, who opposed dormitories as unfair competition to apartment complexes, have a pessimistic outlook toward the dorms.

"I doubt that students will live in them," real estate agent James W. Rogers said. "The students just don't want supervision. The college will have to force some students to live there."

Developer Paul Golis also wonders if students will rush for admittance to the dormitories, despite the lure of lower rent.

"The modern attitude of kids is ridiculous," he said. "They have a built-in idea about housing that's far and above the importance of what college should be."

"We don't have old houses to dwell upon and repair, so the students must compromise their demands and go on from there," Golis said. "Students should accept dorms as a place to go to sleep, study quietly and wash up."

Tappin feels the dorms will be successful simply because of the attractive design. With early California architecture, red roofs and redwood siding, the dorms will deviate from standard styling to provide as much privacy as possible.

Units have been designed to house one, two, four and nine students. The unit for two will include two bedrooms and a bath; four students will share two double bedrooms, a living room and a bathroom.

The unit for nine students will include four double bedrooms, a single bedroom, living room and two bathrooms.

Each of the 200 housing units will have a common lounge and kitchen facilities. All apartments will have a private entrance off a central courtyard. A swimming pool and parking for 300 cars is planned.

Total cost of the project has been estimated at near $4 million.

Realtors report that lending institutions have realized the potential housing market around the college and are now loosening the reins slightly on money.

A group of ambitious students recently formed a group called Student Projects, Inc. and are working on plans for unique housing units to meet the unique demands of students.

Alden Hanson, one of the leaders, said, "We realized how bad things were and got a package together."

"They're pretty revolutionary ideas and we must 'sell' them first to the Sonoma County Building Department."

Hanson said three different types of structures are being considered. They include rain-

Goals, Land Values Delay Plans For Community Park In Novato

By WAYNE RATLIFF

Plans for a community park in Novato were delayed indefinitely last night by bond election technicalities and disagreement at a city council meeting on park goals and relative values of land for the park.

The delay could result in failure to obtain either of the properties considered for the park, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The meeting was marked by citizen complaints of unresponsiveness on the part of the parks and recreation commission to public desires.

A proposed ordinance setting a special $850,000 park bond election Sept. 29 failed to pass after Brown told the council he could certify only 935 of 977 registered voters' signatures needed on a petition to hold the election.

Brown told the council that passage of the ordinance at last night's meeting was necessary to hold the election in advance of November's general election.

Edward Adams, parks and recreation director, presented arguments in favor of purchasing the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue for a community park in preference to the nearby Garlick property.

His arguments were met with point-by-point rebuttal by Councilman George C. Quesada and objections from several citizens in the audience.

"Unfortunately," Adams said, "comparisons are going to be made between the Garlick and O'Hair properties on the basis of price and the number of acres."

The $600,000 price contemplated for purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property is the same price at which the 452-acre Garlick property was offered.

Adams said that the O'Hair site was better located because it was closer to town and to the San Marin High School, which was expected to make a joint use agreement for a swimming pool planned for the park.

Costs of sewer and water facilities, road work and other development would be much higher for the Garlick property and it would be easier to fit desired recreation facilities on the O'Hair land, according to Adams.

He said that the Garlick land was suitable for a regional park, but that the county's Stafford Lake property three-fourths of a mile past the Garlick site was planned for the same uses for which the Garlick land was suitable.

Adams also said that the O'Hair property was suitable for the type of development called for in the city's master plan for parks, and that policing and maintenance of the property would be much less difficult than for the larger Garlick property.

Quesada said that the distance between the two proper-

ABM Expansion Wins In Senate

A Nixon Missile Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted today for expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) system—a clear-cut legislative victory for President Nixon. The vote was 53 to 45.

The administration victory was assured when ABM opponents failed in their second and final attempt to confine deployment of the defense weapon to two sites authorized last year in North Dakota and Montana.

The vote, on an amendment by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., gave the administration what it felt was an important bargaining wedge in the Soviet-American arms control talks. It will enable the administration to build two new safeguard sites to protect strategic missiles and bombers in Missouri and Wyoming.

PROTECTION

Safeguard is designed to protect Minuteman missiles and B52 bomber bases from a possible surprise Soviet strike that would paralyze the U.S. land-based nuclear arsenal.

The Brooke amendment would have prevented deployment of ABM radars, computers and missile-interceptors at the new sites proposed for Whiteman AFB, Mo., and Warren AFB, Wyo.

A tougher amendment that would have sliced the $322 million for Whiteman and Warren was defeated 52 to 47 last week.

LAIRD'S WARNING

Just before the vote, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird warned the Senate that adoption of the Brooke amendment would pose a threat to U.S. bomber bases.

Laird said the proposal would raise the ultimate cost of the ABM and delay completion of the defense system by 15 months.

His letter was read by Chairman John Stennis of the Senate Armed Services Com-

Angela Davis On FBI List

Angela Davis, the elusive black militant charged with murder and kidnapping in the bloodletting at the Marin County Hall of Justice, was put on 10 most wanted list yesterday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The avowed Communist was only the third woman ever to make the list, and the FBI warned that she should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. (See picture page 8.)

An intensive nationwide search for Miss Davis has been launched amid rumors that she may flee to Cuba via Mexico. Her car was found last night in front of a Black Panther Party member's Los Angeles home, but she was not found.

Meanwhile, Tom Hayden, a defendant in the Chicago Seven trial, predicted yesterday that there will be more kidnapping attempts like the one that rocked Marin on Aug. 7. "We've had our first kidnapping attempt. There will be a second, there will be a third," Hayden told about 200 students at the National Student Association in St. Paul, Minn.

He called the attempt, in which Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three of his abductors were killed, "a very, very important thing. It's changed the entire relationship between the courts and political prisoners, between the oppressors and oppressed people," Hayden said.

According to United Press International, Hayden said that Black Panther leader Huey Newton was released from prison on bail because U.S. officials, including President Richard M. Nixon, were afraid some of them may be taken hostage like officials in Central and South America.

"Everybody knows that it was a political campaign at first, and the rising threat of more than a political campaign that has gotten the man Newton out of prison and onto the street," Hayden said. "You expect that to restore people's faith in the judicial system!"

Miss Davis, fired earlier this year as a University of California at Los Angeles instructor after she claimed she was a Communist, disappeared after having been seen on Saturday in Birmingham, Ala.

Marin authorities said that she purchased all four of the weapons used in the shooting. California law holds persons who aid or abet a crime as

Marin Transit Line Faces Safety Counts

Prosecution of Marin County Transit Systems for violations of state safety regulations will be sought through the Marin County district attorney' office, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Supervising Inspector Ralph M. Walker, commander of the highway patrol in the Bay Area, told the Independent-Journal that reinspection of the Marin City-based company's buses on Monday again found "a general lack of maintenance."

Walker had warned the company on June 16 that the highway patrol would seek legal action against the company unless it corrected its violations of safety regulations. The company's president, Theophus Barron Jr., promised compliance by the end of last week, and Walker had agreed to withhold action until this week.

Walker had also warned that the highway patrol would recommend that the California Public Utilities Commission revoke the company's charter party certificate. Walker said today, however, that this step would not be considered until after the district attorney's office had decided what action to take against the company.

The violations, according to the Highway patrol, involve air brakes, emergency warning devices, fire extinguishers, general interior condition, chafed air hoses and worn steering links.

The company last week signed a tentative agreement with a Petaluma bus company for maintenance of its buses. The agreement also provided for leasing additional buses

Groups File Suit Against Sex Laws

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal court suit filed Tuesday asked that a broad range of laws governing sexual behavior between consenting adults be declared unconstitutional.

The suit was filed by an organization of homosexuals, two groups advocating greater sexual freedom and six individuals. It asked that a three-judge panel be formed to consider the matter.

"The growing militancy, first of blacks and other minorities, has been taken up by homosexuals," attorney Earl G. Stokes said when he filed the suit.

The organizations are the Society for Individual Rights (SIR), the Sexual Freedom League, Inc., and the Modern Sex Institute.

Residency In State Voting Law Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Superior Judge Robert W. Merrill yesterday upheld the constitutionality of California's one-year residency requirement for voter registration.

The court action was brought here by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of Peter and Nancy Keane who moved to San Francisco from Texas last Nov. 28 and who want to vote in the Nov. 3 general election.

ACLU attorney Paul N. Halvonik argued that the right to vote in state and federal elections is protected by the U.S. Constitution. He said the U.S. Supreme Court now demands that the state must show a "compelling interest" before it can restrict voting rights.

"The voting franchise is the most precious right we have, and the law infringes on that right," he said.

Deputy City attorney Burk Delzenthal said the state can demand that a person reside in the state one year. "We are seeking assurance that our ballot boxes are being protected," he said.

Delzenthal said the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the one-year residency requirement in 1906.

Festival To Feature Artists, Craftsmen

More than 150 artists and craftsmen, representing most of the fine arts in the Bay Area, will exhibit their works and skills at the 10th annual Sausalito Arts Festival, scheduled for Labor Day Weekend.

The festival, which each year draws thousands of persons during its three-day run, is sponsored by the Sausalito Arts Center, 630 Nevada Street and held in the center and surrounding outdoor areas.

According to Robert Ellison, center director, the 1970 "Festival of the Sun" will present the fullest spectrum of creative activites ever held in the art festival context.

This year's event will be arranged and handled by the Garden of Delight, a Sausalito-based production company which Ellison heads. The festival will take place September 5-7, with each day's programs scheduled from 10 a.m. to midnight.

In addition to displays by a variety of individual artists, including painters, potters and sculptors, the festival will fature demonstrations in crafts such as glass blowing, photography, serigraphy and ceramics.

A nearby baseball field will be the site of a wide variety of performing arts and musical events, Ellison said. Already scheduled are performances by Ali Akbar School of Indian Dance, the Thompson Brothers, a country and western group, the Marin Dance Co-op, a Chilean falm music and dance company and puppetry by Mary Wynn Ekstrom.

The evening program will include harpsichordist Margret Fabritzo in clasically-based and electronic music and Carlos Carvajal and the dancers from the San Francisco Ballet.

Also at night the Ant Farm, a group of Sausalito environmentalists and the Garden of Delights will enact a history of the human race, complete with a sky show using colored spotlights, balloons and smoke machines.

Ann Halprin and the dancers' workshop will perform their latest production, ceremony of us and the entertainment will include Roman Ballidine and his harem dancers and the Contra Costa Symphony and Chamber Orchestra.

Reservation will be needed for some events, according to Ellison, who said further information on the festival can be obtained from the Arts Center.

He said proceeds from general admission tickets to the event will go toward operation of the center and for scholarships.

Application Plan Stalled By Neighbors

Objections by neighbors have stalled an application by Ralph C. Noah for a reduced front yard setback on property at 6 Rolling Hills Road, Tiburon.

Development Administrator Phil V. Scott said the Tiburon Board of Adjustments Monday continued Noah's application to Sept. 21 after several nearby residents complained about the design of a house Noah built on his property.

Although the application before the board was for a parking deck to be built within 20 feet of the front property line where a 30-foot setback is required, discussion mostly centered on the design of the house.

Scott said the neighbors mainly objected to the structure's height. Thirty feet is allowed, but they feel that the height exceeds that figure, Scott said.

In other action, the board approved David Lawson's application to build a house at 2326 Mar East Street to within three feet of the front property line and four feet of the side yard line, where 15 feet and eight feet, respectively, aer required.

The board also continued to Sept. 21 an application by Winston A. Jones to build an addition at 20 Apollo Road to within four feet of the side property line where an eight-foot setback is required.

61 Courses Approved For Adults

The Novato Unified School District Board has approved a list of 61 courses in 10 subjects areas to be offered in the 1970-71 adult evening high school beginning Sept. 14, Edward Dolan, district information officer, reported yesterday.

Subject areas included are Americanization, business education, English, foreigh language, homemaking, industrial arts, mathematics, safety education, social science and decorative, fine and practical arts.

The board Monday night also approved subject to minor revision, a contract with A.R.A. Slater School and College Services of San Francisco for operation of the school lunch program; renewed for two years a California Dental Service contract; and renewed the lease of the North Marin High School building at $670 per month for one year with an option to renew an additional year at the same rent.

The next board meeting was set for Aug. 31 at 8 p.m. in place of the regular meeting Sept. 7.

Saigon Aids In Red Drive Halt

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops with South Vietnamese aerial support halted a Viet Cong unit nine miles from Phnom Penh Tuesday night. The U.S. Command today reported the loss of two American F4 Phantom jets and a troop carrying helicopter over Vietnam.

Allied forces killed 29 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in two clashes near artillery bases along the Laotian border early today.

A unit of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade killed 15 Communist troops and took one prisoner in fighting a half mile west of Artillery Base Barnett 10 miles from Laos. One American was killed and eight wounded.

South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division troops killed 14 Communists two miles south of Artillery Base O'Reilly, 10 miles south of Barnett about the same time.

Both outposts have been under heavy North Vietnamese pressure because they overlook key Communist infiltration routes from Laos into South Vietnam's northern provinces.

Military sources said Allied forces killed 72 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong around O'Reilly Tuesday.

In a delayed report, the U. S. Command said Communist ground fire shot down two U. S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter bombers Monday night 12 miles southwest of Da Nang. Two men aboard one of the $2.4 million planes were killed and two others were missing.

Communist ground fire shot down a U.S. UH1 Huey helicopter on the northern coast of South Vietnam near Hoi An, 357 miles north-northeast of Saigon Tuesday. The crash killed four Americans.

Cambodian military spokesmen said the fighting broke out an hour after dark when government forces met the Viet Cong at Trek Tamek, ine miles north of the capital. The Cambodians called in help from South Vietnamese AC47 "Spooky" gunships firing 20mm cannon and Cambodian gunboats firing mortars from the Mekong River, which runs through Trek Tamek.

After the Cambodian forces broke up the Viet Cong force, the AC47s—a military version of the twin-engine DC3 equipped with rapid-firing cannon—raked the jungle with gunfire until nearly midnight, the spokesmen said.

Casualties were not announced.

It was the second outbreak of fighting near Trek Tanek in 10 days. The village is on what military experts say is a Communist infiltration route to Phnom Penh.

It was not the closest Communist penetration to the capital. Cambodian forces have broken up Viet Cong infiltration missions as close as four miles from Phnom Penh in the past few weeks.

The Cambodian command has cited the results of fighting near the capital as proof government security forces are fully capable of defending it.

Action in other parts of Cambodia was light and scattered, with Communist forces bombarding the besieged city of Kompong Thom with 15 rounds of mortar fire Tuesday night. The city is 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Viet Dove Is Rejected In Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—Wyoming voters rejected an antiwar candidate Tuesday in a closely watched primary and set up a U.S. Senate fight this fall between incumbent Democrat Gale McGee and Republican congressman John S. Wold.

McGee and Wold, both supporters of President Nixon's Indochina policies, scored easy victories to advance in a Senate race that is a rematch of the 1964 election.

LIGHT VOTE

Wyoming voters, turning out in lighter numbers than expected, also set up a race for the state's only congressional seat between former Congressman Teno Roncalio, a Cheyenne Democrat, and Republican Harry Roberts, state superintendent of public instruction.

McGee's primary opponent was antiwar candidate D. P. "Mike" Svilar, a state senator who had pledged to work for immediate withdrawal of American troops in Vietnam. Wold's opponent was Laramie businessman Art Linde.

LATEST COUNT

MsGee led his opponent 27,884 votes to 7,427 with 402 of 468 precincts reporting. Wold was ahead of Linde, 32,179 to 4,679.

"The vote, at this point at least, indicates that the overwhelming majority of the people of our state put the interests of the United States' leadership in foreign affairs ahead of narrow partisan politics," McGee said.

A former university professor who is considered a liberal in traditionally conservative Wyoming, McGee came under repeated attack during the campaign as a result of his pro-Vietnam policies.

McGee frequently has been the only voice supporting war policies on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Aid To Education Upheld By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By refusing to back the Nixon administration's spending curbs, defecting Republicans slowly are undermining a prime GOP campaign issue—excessive spending by a Democratic controlled congress.

Twice in less than two months ignoring President Nixon's orders to cut spending, Congress has overturned his vetoes.

In both cases, Republicans deserting the administration have provided enough votes to muster the two-thirds majority needed to over-ride.

The Senate, following the example set by the House, Tuesday comfortably over-rode Nixon's veto of the $4.4 billion aid to education appropriations bill. The 77-to-16 vote automatically made the measure law.

Joining with all voting Democrats, 23 Republican senators cast ballots against the administration's position. Sixteen Republicans vote to sustain the veto.

In June the Senate over-rode Nixon's veto of the hospital construction bill, 76-to-19, with 23 Republicans defecting.

The Senate's action on the aid to education bill gave Nixon a split on his vetoes so far. The Presidents' vetoes of the fiscal 1970 Health, Education, and Welfare bill and the fiscal 1971 housing and independent offices appropriations bills were sustained.

President Pays A Walking Visit To Old Neighborhood

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon paid a walking visit to his old Manhattan neighborhood Tuesday, enjoying the abundance of well-wishers and the lack of the usual antiwar demonstrators.

Nixon came to brief the editors and executives of the New York Daily News. There also was a bit of nostalgia in his visit when he took an impromptu stroll from the Hotel Pierre to his former apartment residence at 810 Fifth Avenue with his daughter Tricia, 24.

The President not only stopped but seemed to seek out long-haired youths, young men and women, for brief chats.

The crowds which trailed him were friendly and enthusiastic. The visit, kept secret until Tuesday morning, was free of the militant antiwar demonstrations he and his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, faced on previous New York trips.

There were a few antiwr signs. Some placards with obscene slogans and some calls of "we want peace." But Nixon felt free and safe to walk the streets, and he said so.

He told reporters:

"I think the climate is some better—yes, its better. It's the hope that people have.

"I think whether it's the Middle East, Vietnam or the rest — that we are moving — even though they must disagree in various ways. That we are moving toward a period when we can have a peaceful world.

The President spent two hours discussing foreign and domestic policy with the editors and executives of the nation's largest circulation daily.

Tricia Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tricia Nixon is back at the White House after several days in the company of her favorite boy friend, New York socialite Edward Finch Cox.

A Smokeless Jet Engine Bill Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill giving airlines an additional year to convert to relatively smokeless jet engines last night cleared the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and went to the Assembly floor for a vote.

A 1969 state law required that jet emissions be virtually smokeless by Jan. 1, 1971. The new measure, SB 904 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, would postpone the deadline to Dec. 31, 1971, to give the airlines the time they say is needed to convert their engines.

McCarthy's bill originally would have given the airlines an additional two years, but this was halved by the Assembly Transportation Committee after the airline industry reported one year extra would be enough to bring most of their jets into compliance with the 1969 law.

Assembly approval of the bill would send it back to the Senate for concurrence in the amendment.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Florida Unrest

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Brickbats and gasoline bombs were thrown in this city's northwest section early today.

In neighboring Pompano Beach, where trouble started Saturday night, Mayor Frank Rozler ordered an investigation of the police department and agreed to withdraw police from the troubled Northwest area.

Two small white boys-ages 11 and 8-were treated for minor injuries at Broward General Hospital. The car in which they were riding was hit by rocks.

There were reports of shotgun blasts and several firebombings in the black district.

Uruguay Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Organization of American States (OAS) was asked today to stand behind Uruguay in that nation's refusal to give in to leftist terrorists who have murdered one U.S. official and threatened the lives of two other diplomats.

The inter-American organization has already condemned terrorist kidnappings as "crimes against humanity," but it had not before today been asked to sanction any one country's hard line stand against such acts. Uruguay asked for such an endorsement and the OAS council planned a mid-morning meeting to consider the request.

Uruguay's resolution made no suggestions as to any collective action on the part of the OAS, leaving it up to the nations to decide individually how to meet such acts.

To View Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — Rulers of East European Communist conntries will meet in Moscow in the next few days to discuss the effect of the historic Soviet-West German treaty on the European situation, East European sources said today.

They will renew the Moscow-sponsored call for an all European security conference, the sources said.

The Communist party leaders and premiers of the Soviet Unios, Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania were expected to welcome the Soviet-West German pact as a major contribution to European peace and call for further European and world detente.

Wyoming Fires

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Forest fires, their flames fanned into giant peaks by winds gusting to 50 miles per hour, raged out of control in three separate areas of northern Wyoming today. More than 6,000 acres of timber and grasslands have been charred.

The largest of the fires, which turned the sky a "blood red," destroyed more than 5,000 heavily timbered acres of the Big Horn National Forest near the Montana state line Tuesday night.

The other fires blazed on the Wind River Indian Reservation, where two men lost their lives when a converted bomber with fire-fighting chemicals crashed; and in the Shoshone National Forest, scene of a major fire last week.

Cholera Threat

International health officials are confident the current wave of cholera in Asia and the Soviet Union will stop short of U.S. shores. Western Europe also is considered safe but Africa poses a problem.

"Standards of hygiene in Europe are such that there can be no question of an epidemic spreading westward," a spokesman said at World Health Organization WHO headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

In Africa, however, health standards are much lower and any spreading of the disease would be difficult to stem.

Reports Egypt may have imported cholera from Asian travelers has caused deep concern.

Union Found Guilty Of Secondary Boycott

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 has been found guilty of engaging in a secondary boycott aimed at preventing the movement of newsprint to the Independent-Journal, which the union struck Jan. 7.

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner ruled Monday that the typographical union and two teamsters union locals had engaged in unfair labor practices since Jan. 19 in connection with picketing at a San Francisco pier where newsprint bound for the I-J was stored.

Trial examiner Allen Sinsheimer ordered the typographical union to cease encouraging picketing at Pier 46A in San Francisco and to cease encouraging the trucking company which brought the newsprint to the I-J to stop doing business with the I-J.

The union was also ordered to stop threatening, coercing or restraining anyone from doing business with the I-J.

Teamsters Local 287 was ordered to stop encouraging employees of the trucking firm to refuse to pick up or deliver goods destined for the I-J.

In addition, Teamsters Local 85 was ordered to stop threatening, coercing or restraining the Star Terminal Co., which operates the pier, from doing business in connection with newsprint distribution.

The three unions were ordered to post notices to their members notifying them that the unions will follow the NLRB ruling.

The unions must also notify the NLRB within 20 days what steps they have taken to comply with the order.

U.S. Finds Israeli Charges Of Violations Inconclusive

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

U.S. diplomats today tried to ease the Egyptian missile crisis and get Arab-Israeli peace talks started. The Suez Canal cease-fire held fast but Israeli warplanes struck into southern Lebanon.

The United States declared today that it had no conclusive evidence to support Israeli charges that Egypt and Russia violated the standstill agreement in the period immediately following the cease-fire in the Suez Canal Zone.

The State Department said there was "some evidence" from the Israelis that the forward movement of anti-aircraft missiles which had been in progress immediately prior to the cease-fire continued beyond the cease-fire deadline but added that "our evidence of this is not conclusive."

A department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said this applied to alleged violations on April 8. He said that the United States was still examining additional charges made by the Israelis that there were Egyptian violations of the standstill agreement on Aug. 13, 14 and 16.

Yitzhak Rabin, Israel's ambassador to the United States, returned to Tel Aviv from Washington to report to Premier Golda Meir on the U.S. attitude toward Israeli charges that Egypt was violating the 12-day-old cease-fire by moving missiles in the Suez area.

Rabin carried word from Washington that the United States does not believe the matter serious enough to delay peace talks under U.N. auspice any longer.

Washington dispatches said U.S. reconnaissance has not been able to draw firm conclusions about whether Soviet-built antiaircraft rockets had been moved closer to the canal in violation of the truce at Israel has charged. The United States contends that developments since the cease-fire have not put Israel at a military disadvantage.

Rabin, in remarks to newsmen at Tel Aviv, sought to allay reports that the missile matter had caused a crisis in relations between Israel and the United States.

"It is not wise to speak of a crisis in confidence between us and Washington," Rabin said. "It would be unwise to damage our relations because America is the only real friend we have in the world.

"But there are differences of opinion and these have to be discussed. The present U.S. attitude to our charges of cease-fire violations is not its final conclusion. I do not believe there is any basic change in the U.S. attitude."

Egypt, Jordan and the Soviet Union attacked Israel for not agreeing to get peace talks started.

The big four power sought today to put their weight behind the Middle East peace mission of Swedish mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to get Arab-Israeli negotiations started.

Representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and United States were meeting at the Park Avenue residence of French Ambassador Jacques Kosciusko-Morizet in their 41st session to provide guidelines for a settlement.

Informed sources said little could be expected to today's effort. The big four Middle East talks have been unable to produce concrete agreement since they began in April, 1969.

The Jarring mission has been unsuccessful in getting Israel to begin negotiations because Israel contends Egypt violated the 12-day old cease-fire agreement by moving missiles close to the Suez Canal.

Guilty Verdict In Co-Ed Slaying

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A jury of six men and six women, after deliberating since last Friday, Wednesday found John Norman Collins guilty of first-degree murder in the slaying of Karen Sue Beineman, an 18-year-old co-ed.

The verdict carried an automatic sentence of life imprisonment for the Eastern Michigan University senior.

Collins faces another murder charge in the sex slaying of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, near Salinas, Calif., in June, 1969. Monterey County, Calif., District Attorney Ed Barnes said Wednesday he would begin extradition proceedings against Collins within 10 days. He said he would wait until Collins is sentenced Aug. 28.

Caribbean Jetliner Hijacked To Havana

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)—A Trans Caribbean Airways DC8 jetliner with 149 persons aboard was hijacked today on a flight from Newark, N.J. to Puerto Rico and ordered to fly to Cuba.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) in New York reported the plane landed in Havana at 5:19 a.m. EDT. The aircraft was scheduled to continue its flight to San Juan from Havana, but there was no indication when it would be allowed to leave Cuba.

Priority List On Parks Set In Belvedere

Five priorities for the development of parks, lanes and beaches in Belvedere were formulated last night by the city's parks and recreation commission and forwarded to the city council.

Secty. Wendy Buchen said the commission established the priorities from recommendations contained in a long-range parks master plan recently prepared for the city by a consultant.

Two sets of priorities were drawn up, one for work which must be done before certain facilities can be used and the other for upgrading and improving facilities now in use.

The first group contains three items:

1. Securing title to a pedestrian lane running from West Shore Road to Pelican Road. Belvedere Land Co. has promised to deed the land to the city for a lane, and the commission recommended that the transfer be completed.

2. Development of Lagoon Road Park, which could be used both as a recreation area and as a holding pond for flood waters during winter months. Mrs. Buchen said the pond would be a temporary measure until permanent flood control measures can be accomplished.

3. Improvement of access steps to Belvedere Cove Beach.

The second group of priorities contains two items:

1. Renovation of the entrance to the city along San Rafael Avenue, including planting of trees and the improvement of a pedestrian walkway.

2. Improvement of Belvedere Cove Beach.

ties is less than 500 feet and that flat usable portions of the Garlick propery are only two minutes farther from Central Novato than the O'Hair property by car and that the Garlick offer included a trade for propety immediately adjacent to San Marin High for a swimming pool.

Quesada said there was more flat, developable land on the Garlick property and that the O'Hair property would be more difficult to police since half the land consists of 40 per cent or more slope.

He said that sewer and water facilities would cost only slightly more and that costs could be delayed by use of only minimal water facilities and chemical toilets.

Councilman Joseph D. Gargiulo said that he favored the Garlick property, and Councilman Douglas M. Merrill said, "I don't know who's right."

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain said that the Garlick property has "a great deal of potential," but that he favors the O'Hair property because opposing the recommendations of the parks and recreation commission would confuse the public an possibly prevent purchase of either property.

Beverly Ehreth of 792 St. Francis Avenue said that she felt the council "should take a close look at the differences in the philosophy" of the park master plan and current sentiment.

Calling the oak forest on the north slope of the Garlick property "an ecological gem," she said, "I do feel that we have an obligation to preserve some areas as they are . . . to me it's extraordinarily important."

Robert D. Anderson of 53 Orchard Way said, "If it takes having to go back and analyze our master plan, let's do it . . . there should be a redefinition of the responsibilities of the parks and recreation commission — whether they serve the city council or whether they should listen to residents."

Anderson said that public discussion at the commission meeting was pro-Garlick, but that the commissioners virtually ignored it and kept the same opinions they came in with.

Merrill said the question of a re-evaluation of the park master plan should be raised by the commission and that it should hold hearings to determine whether the plan still reflects community feelings and attitudes.

However, no agreement on whether to pursue purchase of park land or on procedures to be followed was reached.

equally guilty with the actual participants.

Unconfirmed reports also circulated that Miss Davis drove the rented escape van to the vicinity of the Civic Center the day before the shooting.

Police also reportedly are seeking Franklin D. Alexander, 28, at whose home Miss Davis' car was found last night. One of the weapons used in the shoot-out previously was found in his apartment, but returned to him under a court order.

Police also reported that several witnesses said a woman matching Miss Davis's description arrived at Los Angeles International Airport yesterday aboard a flight from New York City. However, officers said the clothing descriptions varied greatly, and tended to discount the reports.

One other woman is currently on the most wanted list, Marie Arrington, sought since May of last year when she escaped from a Florida prison while awaiting execution for murder.

The first woman to be listed was Ruth Eisemann-Schier, later arrested for the kidnapping of a Florida heiress.

In Marin, meanwhile, the only surviving convict from the shoot-out may be one of the first San Quentin inmates to see court held within the prison's confines.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he will seek to have at least the preliminary stages of legal proceedings held in the prison against Ruchell Magee, 31.

Named To Council

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today named former Ventura assistant District Attorney Herbert L. Ashby, 40, to the California Council on Criminal Justice.

Young Rivas Takes Stand To Tell Story

Ronald Rivas, 21, returned to the witness stand today in his trial on a charge that he shot his father to death in the family home at 59 Raposa Vista, Novato, on the night of July 17, 1969.

It was his third trip in two days to the witness box, and perhaps his most crucial one. Today, Rivas's defense attorneys, Robert Carrow and Robert Bell, planned to have him recount his memories of the evening on which his father, Fidel I. Rivas, died. The morning session of the trial was unable to start until 11 a.m. due to interference from other court business.

Young Rivas took the stand unexpectedly yesterday morning, when the attorneys' supply of other defense witnesses temporarily ran out. In both the morning and afternoon sessions of the trial, Rivas described family troubles going back to the early 1960s.

Interrupting Rivas's testimony, the atterneys put a family friend, Jerry Orth of San Rafael, on the stand late yesterday to describe his discussions of family problems with the mother, Mrs. Marjorie Rivas.

Beginning in a small, low voice, he answered Carrow's questions about his early childhood in San Antonio, Tex., where he lived before coming to California when he was 13.

Frequently bowing his head for long periods before answering, young Rivas recalled his brother's and sisters' distress at seeing their father running around with another woman and her children while the Rivas family was in want for food, money and clothes for school. He also said the family was in constant fear of his father's repeated violence toward Mrs. Rivas and of his temper outbursts toward the children.

Saying he tried to be close with his father, young Rivas recalled, "he pushed me away," and later recalled that the elder Rivas often called him effeminate and used scornful nicknames for the son and the son's friends.

Senate Doves Rewrite Plan To End War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate doves today rewrote their "amendment to end the war," extending the proposed deadline for getting out of Vietnam by six months — until the end of next year.

The revised amendment to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill was introduced by Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., and Charles Goodell, R-N. Y.

The new McGovern-Goodell amendment would cut off funds for maintaining or introducing U.S. troops "in or over Indochina" after Dec. 31, 1971 unless Congress voted to extend the deadline.

The measure would permit expenditures, however, "for purposes specifically authorized by the Congress, for the release of prisoners and for the arrangement of asylum for Indochinese who might be physically endangered by the withdrawal of U.S. forces."

Sponsors, estimating they now have upwards of 30 sure votes for the measure, said they hoped the revision would attract support from other senators who were reluctant to accept the original withdrawal deadline of next June 30.

The sponsors of the end-the-war move in the Senate were angrily assailed Monday by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield termed Agnew's strong criticism as uncalled for. He said:

"I do not question the vice president's patriotism or dedication. He should not question ours."

McGovern said the later withdrawal deadline did not alter the central purpose of the amendment — a definite timetable for the withdrawal of all American forces.

"We continue and reaffirm our conviction that unless such action is taken we must accept the dismal prospect of many more years of brutal and futile warfare," he said.

mittee in final debate before the Senate vote on the issue.

"The Department of Defense cannot support, and is opposed, to the Brooke amendment," Laird said. "It is the view of the department that adoption of the amendment would both increase the cost and reduce the effectiveness of the Safeguard defense of Minuteman (offensive missiles)."

He then said the measure would eliminate protection to a substantial number of strategic bomber bases.

A similar amendment sponsored by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. was rejected last Wednesday. But unlike the Brooke amendment, it would have cut $322 million earmarked for new Safeguard installations at Whiteman AFB, Mo., and Warren AFB, Wyo.

The Brooke amendment would allow the entire $1.3 billion requested by the administration, freeing the extra $322 million to be used for more radars and computers at Grand Forks and Malmstrom.

Brooke contended his proposal would create a "defense in depth" of the Minuteman fields at Malmstrom and Grand Forks.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has led the fight for Safeguard, said the number of Minuteman silos protected by Brooke's proposal would be less than a third of those guarded if the system were expanded to Whiteman and Warren.

As with the Cooper-Hart amendment, the key argument was the effect of the proposal on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

REAGAN

Paul Beck, also said it "would be appalling, almost" to not cast a "courtesy vote" for "a poor guy who is sick."

But another of the dissidents, Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, said, "I don't have any feeling of responsibility because they had plenty of time to take up the bill before Sen. Carrell got ill."

Administration forces were waiting until Carpenter's election before calling another vote. The state party chairman told newsmen today, "I'll vote for the bill. Tax reform is essential, and I'm tired of the Democrats playing political games with it."

The Newport Beach attorney previously had declined to publicly commit himself to voting for the measure, although he had said he endorsed it "right down the line."

Carpenter was expected to be sworn into office Thursday or Friday, and backers planned a showdown soon afterward.

Reagan was expected to confer today and Thursday with Senators, including opponents, in an attempt to secure the extra vote. The governor also was considering issuing a special appeal for public support.

The deadlocked bill represents half the governor's tax revision package. The other half required only a simple majority vote and passed the Senate last month. It now is in the Assembly awaiting concurrence in Senate amendments.

Suspected Woman Arsonist Booked

A 24-year-old Novato woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of setting a fire that did $24,000 damage to a rented house at 1253 Yukon Way on Aug. 4, Novato police reported.

Grace Patricia Halloran, of 10 Gustafson Court, reportedly told firemen she discovered the fire when she awoke in the middle of the night and she awoke a young man and woman who occupied the house with her.

A gasoline can was found in the kitchen near where the fire started, police reported.

Miss Halloran was held on $5,000 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Early Monday morning, the first of about 45 vehicles will begin the 3,600-mile, six-day journey to the finish line at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Calif.

bow-shaped duplexes of 1,000 square feet each; geodesic dome structures; and another plan with a variety of styles now being drawn by six different architects.

He said there is nothing wrong with the plans that would constitute code violations, but the only problem is that the building department has never encountered them before.

"There will be very low cost units," he said. "The two bedrooms will rent for $80 per month and two persons can get by in them for $40 each."

The students are currently negotiating for purchase of land in the foothills of the Sonoma Mountains east of the campus.

Although the group is operating on limited funds, Hanson said, "We've got a pretty comprehensive plan and hope to do a pilot project next month and then have a full-size project going in three months."

"We feel we've got the answer because we're students and know what students want," he said. "We're also planning for high school students and even getting into the junior high school level to see where they're at. Most problems come up when people don't look ahead."

from the Petaluma company, North Bay Charter Service.

Walker, however, said that the newly leased busses were "not in too good a shape either."

Conviction of volating the regulations would be a misdemeanor, he said.

Marin Transit Systems has been operating a feeder service to the Tiburon ferry since November, a service subsidized by the county at a total of $30,000 through Sept. 15.

In addition, the company has won a promise of a $51,000 subsidy from the county to expand service to San Rafael and Novato.

One condition of the promised subsidy was that the company comply with all highway patrol safety regulations.

Barron had written Walker on July 13 that the company was "confident of our ability to adhere to the code in providing safe and efficient service to the public."

Sculptor Benny Bufano Dies At 72

THE MASTER'S EYE — Benny Bufano, the colorful sculptor of huge and often controversial granite and steel statues, examines a model for a mammoth sculpture he wanted to build on Alcatraz before the Indians moved there. Bufano, 72, was found dead in his studio yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Benny Bufano, considered by many the greatest sculptor since Rodin, is dead at the age of 72.

The body of the pint-sized Italian born artist famed for his works of heroic proportions was found in his studio Tuesday by friends who were worried because they had not heard from him. The coroners' office tentatively blamed a heart attack and said he had been dead for 36 hours.

An objective view of Bufano the artist was often clouded by the complex picture of Bufano the man.

He was a confidant of the city's leaders and claimed friendships with major figures throughout the world. Stories about him were legendary although it was often difficult to separate fact from Bufano's fertile fancy.

A life-long pacifist, he said he had chopped off the first joint of his trigger finger and sent it to President Woodrow Wilson to protest World War I. Also, he said, he designed the buffalo on one side of the old nickel and posed for the Indian head profile on the other side.

The resemblance was there, but the coin's designer of record insisted Bufano merely swept out his studio.

He was born in the Southern Italian village of San Felee and came to the United States in 1900. He was married in 1925 and divorced here six years later. His wife said he was "not designed for domestic life."

He was involved in frequent legal battles over both his personal life and works and was perpetually broke until a group of friends finally took over his finances. They have also gathered more than 500 of his works in storage.

His friend Henry Miller called him "the poorest and richest artist in all America. He is also the purest. He will outlive our civilization and probably be better known and better understood, both as a man and as an artist, 5000 years hence."

His works are part of the landscape in many open areas in Northern California as well as on display in major museums and the United Nations, where he donated a 3-5 foot copper hand with a mosaic in the palm depicting the world's children.

His most massive piece, an 85-foot mosaic of stainless steel and redwood, is perched atop a 250-foot promontory on the rugged Northern California coast and is visible 150 miles out to sea.

A 30-foot tall "peace" statue condemned by many critics stands at the approaches to San Francisco International Airport. An 18-foot work of St. Francis of Assisi languished in a Paris warehouse for 28 years before coming here. It is now outside the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union offices.

Yet British critic Roger Fry called the latter work "the most significant piece of sculpture done within the past 500 years."

Bufano's round animal figures, possibly his best known works, are found in the hundreds. His creation of the Press Club mascot cat, for instance, brought him free lodging there.

A mosaic depicting St. Francis with the children of the world adorns the wall of Moars Cafeteria and earned him free meals there.

But most of Bufano's life was spent without cash or permanent lodging. If he obtained any money, he usually would use it for the raw materials of massive uncommissioned works.

"I want to be poor," he once explained. "I'll be damned if I'm going to waste my life decorating the homes of the rich."

He sustained himself on cheese, sour dough bread and wine for years until he rendered the work for Moar's.

In 1944, he was appointed to the San Francisco Art Commission. His controversial actions and stormy fights with fellow members resulted in only one term of service.

But before his term was up he succeeded in commissioning Leopold Stokowski and Igor Stravinsky to present 50-cent concerts at a city-subsidized series.

In 1963, while suing the city for $65,000 over ownership of two of his pieces of sculpture, he was warned by Superior Court Judge Charles S. Peery to use more temperate language.

"It's difficult for me to sit here like a vegetable and listen to all those lies," Bufano apologized, "and I apologize to your honor for you to have to sit and listen to them, too."

Finance Committee Concurs With BCDC Alternates Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill partially restoring the power of San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission members to appoint alternates has been endorsed by the Senate Finance Committee

The bill, AB 1771 by Assemblyman John F. Dunlap, D-Vallejo, went to the Senate floor for action that would send it back to the Assembly for concurrence in the radically amended bill.

Dunlap originally proposed that each commissioner appoint an alternate, subject to confirmation by the person or body appointing the commissioner. This power was in the 1965 law that created the commission, but stricken by the 1969 law that made it permanent.

The Senate Governmental Organization Committee amended Dunlap's bill to limit the power to appoint alternates to alternates with the same qualifications required for the regular commissioner. Thus city councilmen and county supervisors could only appoint fellow councilmen and supervisors as their alternates.

Government officials supported the original Dunlap measure on the ground they could not find time to attend every meeting. The amendment incorporated the provisions of a bill by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

Earthquake Jolts Region In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A strong earthquake jolted south central Alaska Tuesday, but no injuries or property damage was reported.

A seismograph at the Environmental Services Administration in Palmer said the jolt registered 6 on the Richter Scale and centered 150 miles east of Anchorage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered at 8.25 on the same scale.

Committee Kills Bill To Halt Littering

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill making it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10 to $500 to fail to maintain property free of accumulations of litter has been killed by the Assembly Criminal Procedures Committee.

Committee members objected that the bill, SB 1195 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, was designed to make it easier to convict litterers instead of attacking the problem of litter itself.

The bill declared that property owners have "the duty to maintain such property, including the adjoining sidewalks, free from accumulations of waste matter."

Petaluman Treated For Accident Injury

Robert Higgins, 31, of 425 Sierra Avenue, Cotati, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for a head cut suffered in an accident at 2 a.m. today.

Police said his car struck two parked autos in the 400 block of Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma.

Transportation Bill Wins Senate Approval

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill creating a nine-county Metropolitan Transportation Commission in the Bay Area, including Marin, yesterday won Sentate approval.

The measure, by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, went back to the lower house for concurrence in minor amendments. Foran predicted swift approval by the Assembly, which would send the bill to the governor for his signature into law.

Under Foran's bill, AB 363, the commission would have binding authority over local transportation plans, including those drawn by the Golden Gate Bridge District. It will be financed by transfer of $530,000 a year in federal and state planning grants now going to the Association of Bay Area Governments.

A similar Foran measure last year passed the Assembly Transportation Committee, but got no further.

The 19-member commission would have one representative each from Marin and Sonoma counties, to be selected by the boards of supervisors.

The commission would have power to review all applications for state and federal grants. The commission would "forward only those applications that are compatible" with the regional transportation plan it is to draw by 1974.

Panel Kills Power Plant Review Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would have subjected electric power plant sites to a review of their environmental effects was killed yesterday by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

The measure, AB 818 by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, died on a 2-2 vote, one short of the majority needed to clear the committee. The committee's fifth member, Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, was absent. Marks indicated during a previous hearing on the measure that he opposed it, thus his return from a voyage to Hawaii apparently would not have saved the measure.

Briggs had worked for months trying to win approval by conservationists, regional air pollution control officials and the power companies, but never succeeded. Opposing his measure yesterday were representatives of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District and the Southern California Edison Co.

The district objected that the bill could cut into its jurisdiction over power plants, while the utility objected that it could "leave in doubt the finality of the California Public Utility Commission's decisions."

Deadline Set In Factory Pollution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bay Area Air Pollution District Tuesday gave an Antioch factory until May to complete a new system for disposing of lead and other wastes.

The plant is owned by E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company and manufactures tetra-ethyl lead for gasoline companies.

Ross Austin, a duPont attorney, said an explosion in June disrupted a disposal system that pumped waste 6,000 feet below ground.

Long Search Seen To Pick School Chief

The search for a superintendent for the Reed School District will continue after Labor Day following a citizens' screening committee report last night that none of the 28 candidates for the job was suitable.

Dr. Charles Epstein, screening committee chairman, told the trustees that six of the 28 candidates were selected for interviews. Only two of these were able to meet for interviews and neither was satisfactory, according to Epstein.

"I would suggest," said Epstein, "that after the Labor Day holiday is over, Reed announce the position and begin the screening procedure."

The superintendent position became vacant when Robert B. Gaw resigned in June.

The Reed School District board also:

ORIENTATION — Announced the preschool teacher orientation program would be held Aug. 31-Sept. 4.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Bryce Moore, a teacher at Reed School, for personal reasons.

Reed Trustees Delay Decision On District Transfer Question

Reed School District trustees sidestepped the thorny question of interdistrict transfers last night as repercussions of Sausalito School District's problems continued to be felt in other Southern Marin districts.

The Reed board instructed Interim Supt. Stanley Friese to prepare a revised policy on interdistrict transfers for review at its Sept. 2 meeting.

"The board does not encourage interdistrict transfers," said Friese. "In normal times, this would go largely unnoticed, but now with the possibility of so many applications for transfer, we need to take a closer look at our policy."

Friese suggested that the revised policy be based on availability of transportation, classroom space in Reed district schools and the emotional well-being of the individual students.

Two requests for transfer out of the Reed district were approved last night, while two others into the district from Sausalito were postponed until a revised policy can be adopted The Reed trustees seemed determined to judge each application on its individual merits, rather than making a sweeping policy at this time.

The interdistrict transfer matter appeared to have died after surprisingly brief discussion, until Willis C. Bohn, 121 Leland Way, Tiburon, asked just before the meeting adjourned if this policy revision was being considered because of a large influx of transfer applications from other districts.

"We do not have an influx of transfers," board chairman Gordon Wright replied flatly.

Bohn suggested that he thought there seemed to be a number of parents in Sausalito "desirous of transferring out of Sausalito into Mill Valley."

"Firstly," replied Trustee James Richwagen, "we have an existing policy which discourages interdistrict transfers, and secondly, I would hate to have a policy that would introduce chaos into the district."

The revised policy to be prepared by Friese is also expected to contain a provision that all expenses involved in such transfers be paid by the school district losing the students to the district receiving the students.

Although only two of the four interdistrict transfers considered by the Reed trustees last night came from parents of Sausalito School District pupils, the Independent-Journal was told that there may be as many as 50 Sausalito students applying for transfer to the Reed district if the door is opened to them. The Sausalito School District board is expected to continue its consideration of the problem at its Aug. 31 meeting.

Interdistrict transfers are normally accomplished only with the approval of the two school districts involved. However, if there is a disagreement, the county board of education has the power to intervene, according to Friese.

New BCDC Function Dies In Senate Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation that would have put the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission in the sewage business has been killed by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The measure, AB 1310 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, was opposed by commission officials, the Port of Oakland, Leslie Salt Co., and the League of California Cities. All but the commission itself opposed it on the ground that they did not want BCDC to gain any new powers.

Knox's bill would have required BCDC to plan construction of a regional sewage system. The State Water Resources Control Board already has completed preliminary planning for such a system, and is about to prepare detailed plans.

BCDC never voted to oppose the measure, but several of its members urged its defeat. The commission's effectiveness would be diluted if it were to get into another field, they argued.

The League of California Cities also objected that the Knox bill was another attempt to make BCDC a regional governmental agency.

Clausen Urges Extending Limit

NORTHBEND, Ore (UPI) — Legislation is pending to extend U.S. territorial waters to 50 miles or to the continental shelf, Rep. Donald D. Clausen, R-Calif., told a meeting of fishermen Tuesday.

Under the present 1966 law, this nation controls waters within 12 miles of its shores.

U.S. Fishermen assert the present limit is being violated by Russian boats that are larger, faster and better equipped than theirs.

Clausen spoke at a meeting attended by 600 fishermen from Oregon, California, Washington and Alaska to discuss the intrusion problem. The session was called by Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore.

U.S. Launches Second Satellite For Britain

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The United States launched a second Skynet communications satellite for Great Britain today to open hundreds of new military radio channels between the British Isles and the Far East.

The American - built spacecraft was headed toward a stationary orbital outpost 22,300 miles above the Indian Ocean where it will join a sister satellite orbited last November.

The new Skynet, weighing 535 pounds and costing $5.5 million, left earth at 8:11 a. m. EDT on the 80th Delta rocket launched by the U. S. space agency in 10 years. Britain will reimburse the agency $4.6 million for launch costs.

Skynet rode a plume of fire toward an initial egg-shaped orbit. On Friday, a small rocket motor aboard the spacecraft will kick it into a 22,300-mile high circular path and then small jets will nudge it toward its final parking place.

The first Skynet, reported performing "exceptionally well," is now relaying voice, teletype and facsimile communications between the Royal Annications.

Terminals also will be installed on the assault ships HMs Fearless and HMs Intrepid, and smaller mobile stations are being built for air transport to eastern trouble spots.

Each Skynet satellite is able to relay one television transmission, or 600 telephone conversatins or 6,000 teletype messages simultaneously. In addition, the satellites have an usual second radio pathway to relay communications between low power mobile terminals.

The Skynet satellites are similar to two satellites built for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). All four spacecraft were built by Philo-Ford Corp., Newport Beach, Calif., and all are designed to work with the American military satellite communictions network.

The space agency also planned to orbit a pair of bullfrogs in a research satellite from Wallops Island, Va., today, but that shot has been postponed until Friday.

LACKLAND AFB, Tex. (UPI)—The commander of this Air Force base, Maj. Gen. John S. Samuel, said Tuesday his public information officer used poor judgement in ordering 15 airmen to clip Samuel's photograph out of 10,000 copies of the base newspaper.

The information officer, Lt. Col. John Hartig, had insisted the photograph be deleted Aug. 7 because it was considered to have been inappropriately cropped for publication in the paper, the Tailspinner. Only head and shoulders appeared in the picture of the general receiving the Legion of Merit award.

The man responsible for cropping the photograph, assistant editor Jim D. Palmer, was dismissed from the paper, and the resulting squabble reached all the way to Washington.

The paper's editor, Sgt. John E. Polich, wrote to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., protesting Palmer's firing, and Proxmire wrote to Samuels asking that the matter be investigated.

Polich said his superior on the newspaper ordered Palmer to include the photograph, although the deadline was near and there was little space available. Then when the photo was cut down from 8-by-10 to six inches and two and a half inches, Polich said M-Sgt. Michael A. Kenny, who had ordered Sgt. Palmer to run the picture, stormed into the office "in a rage" and dismissed Palmer.

The disc used in playing shuffleboard is six inches in diameter.

'SOMETHING DIFFERENT'

San Anselmo Teen-Ager Builds Hovercraft From Magazine Idea

An article in a national science magazine earlier this year, in giving instructions for building a hovercraft, informed its readers that construction of the craft was easy and wouldn't cost much money.

A 15-year-old San Anselmo boy thought it might be "something different" to do.

Six months and $200 later, Craig Madison of 9 Dutch Valley Lane had himself a hovercraft.

Madison's vehicle — which is probably the only hovercraft in Marin County and bears the name "UFO-XI" is powered by a three horse power lawnmower engine and is capable, according to the magazine, of traveling on land or water at a top speed of 30 miles per hour.

Madison has made up to 25 miles per hour, but hasn't tried it on water yet. The gas tank isn't too big, he explained, and "we want to make sure we have enough gas if we take it out on a lake."

"We also want to make sure it will float," he added.

He should find out during the Labor Day weekend when the craft is tried on Lake Tahoe.

Madison didn't know if it is legal to drive the hovercraft on city streets. It doesn't require a license because it is technically classified as an experimental vehicle, he said.

He said the California Highway Patrol and the Federal Aviation Administration are trying to figure out under whose jurisdiction hovercrafts fall.

It might even be the navy's jurisdiction, he said.

Madison said he's restricted use of it to a playground near his home, although it was on the street when he took it to the playground.

"Going down the street, which was on a hill, was like being on a sled on an icy slope," he said.

The vehicle, which is 10 feet in diameter, consists of a flat, circular piece of light wood. The motor is in the center and the driver or pilot — whichever is correct — stands over the motor. A polyethylene curtain hangs down around the perimeter of the vehicle, forming a curtain to hold in air pressure.

The motor is attached to a 30-inch propeller under the craft which creates air pressure and — contained by the curtains — lifts the hovercraft about a foot off the ground.

Direction is controlled by the driver leaning in the direction he wants to go.

Madison, who will be a junior at Drake High School in the fall, was assisted in the construction of the UFO-XI by his father, Leonard C. Madison, an electrical engineer.

Addition Of Two Members To Hospital Panels Is Now Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Addition of two directors to hospital districts' five-member boards of directors has been authorized in legislation signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 1158 by Assemblyman Tom Hom, R-San Diego, allows the increase from five to seven members upon a petition signed by a number of voters totaling at least 5 per cent of the number voting in the district in the preceding election for governor.

The Marin Hospital District board would qualify for the increase. The measure was limited to districts with at least 225 beds.

Hom introduced the measure at the urging of the California Medical Association. The association adopted a policy favoring the change, reportedly at the urging of a Marin doctor.

The petitions would have to be filed with the hospital board at least three months before a district election.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Showroom Burglary

John Lauren Mott, 18, of San Rafael, yesterday pleaded guilty to burglarizing the DeLong Chevrolet showroom in San Rafael on June 24.

Mott's plea halted a preliminary hearing before Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, who ordered Mott's appearance today in superior court, where the district attorney's office is expected to recommend a county jail sentence.

Mobile Home Plans Delayed By Commission In Petaluma

Plans for three mobile home parks were postponed last night when the Petaluma Planning Commission said it wanted to study potential tax revenue from the developments in more depth.

The McDowell Investment Co. has requested mobile home prezoning for 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard adjacent to the Candlewood Mobile Home Park and the Detero Corp. has asked prezoning on 40 acres for a mobile home park on Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway.

Plan changes were also requested for the Petaluma Mobile Home Park on North McDowell Boulevard. Formerly known as Youngstown, the property has been purchased by the Caster Mobile Homes Corp. and the commission noted that a new use permit may be required.

The commission heard a report from the planning staff that indicated that while mobile homes provide less tax dollars, they also require less city services.

Planning Director William C. McGivern noted that the subdivision population on the east side of Petaluma averaged 4.04 people per unit and more than 10 children per acre.

He said that in the few mobile home parks that permit children, the average is less than two children per acre.

The commission said it would study the report and consider the mobile home park requests again in October.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

STORM DRAIN — Objected to plans for an open storm drain for the Cherry-Magnolia area and asked the Sonoma County Water Agency to consider an underground drain. Residents complained about erosion, odors and rodent problems that might be encountered in open ditches.

SIGNS — Granted a variance to the Sanderson Ford Co. for 333 square feet of signs.

CLUSTER PLAN — Delayed a decision os a tentative map submitted for the Sun Terrace Park planned unit development on Ely Boulevard North at East Washington Street. Developers proposed 300 units on 26 acres.

SUBDIVISION — Approved a final map for Sonoma Vista Subdivision Unit Three on South McDowell Boulevard between Baywood Drive and Casa Grande Road.

Special Meeting Set

Directors of the Strawberry Recreation District will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School to issue paychecks to swim personnel.

Extension Of Brown Act Is Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation extending the state's antisecret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act, to meetings of directors of nonprofit corporations created by public agencies under joint powers agreements has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 2442 by Assemblyman Robert Moretti, D-North Hollywood, originally would have applied the act to any nonprofit organization receiving more han half of its funds from public sources, but this provision was amended out of the bill.

The Brown Act generally restricts closed meetings by public bodies to hiring or firing employees and to hearing charges against employees or officers.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Newsmen Included In Disrupt Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature has passed and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill allowing public officials to clear a meeting hall during disruptive demonstrations.

Newsmen taking part in such disruptions could also be barred.

Amendments added by the Senate to the measure by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmon, were approved 48-11.

Mulford said members of the "underground" press are examples of potential demonstrators.

"I think if the members of the press are there, they should be expected to behave," said Mulford.

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, inquired of Mulford what "participation" in a demonstration by a newsman would entail.

"Something like punching the mayor in the nose," replied Mulford, although he cited no specific examples.

PARK LAND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly was asked today to give final legislative approval to a bill requiring state and local governments to replace park land they condemn for other public use.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was passed 26-7 by the Senate Tuesday and returned to the lower house for concurrence in amendments.

It would direct that park plots converted into other use, such as for a freeway, must be replaced in the same neighborhood by the agency using it.

CONFLICT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — After senate leader Jack Schrade warned there was "no way" to finance it, the governmental organization committe Tuesday killed a bill to set up a $100,000 commission to study conflicts of interest among public officials.

The measure by Republican assembly speaker Robert T. Monagan of Tracy failed to clear the Senate panel on a split voice vote.

Commission members would be appointed by lawmakers and the governor to make a two-year study of the subject and report back to the legislature with their findings.

MARIJUANA

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday night approved legislation changing the classification of marijuana from a narcotic to a restricted dangerous drug.

The measure by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, was sent to the full Senate. Campbell emphasized the bill does not change the penalty for possessing or pushing pot.

If approved by the legislature and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the classification change would become effective July 1, 1971.

CONSUMERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday night endorsed a bill giving consumers a legal remedy to regain losses incurred through deceptive business practices.

The legislation by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, was sent to the full Senate on a split voice vote.

It provides that a consumer who feels he's been duped can file a class action lawsuit against a businessman to regain actual money losses or damages, while also requesting a court to enjoin the merchant from continuing such practices.

Final Approval Given Bill To Stop Residence Rulings

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill prohibiting cities, counties and special districts from imposing residence requirements on their employees has won final legislative approval and gone to the governor for his signature.

Th bill, SB 1114 by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, was introduced at the request of employee groups who argued that such requirements no longer were needed in the age of the automobile.

The bill, however, would not prohibit requiring employees to be able to reach their jobs within a maximum time limit.

The bill will not affect charter cities. San Rafael is the only charter city in Marin County.

Diphtheria Shots Battle Epidemic

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Between 6,000 and 10,000 persons are receiving diphtheria shots each day. A health official says the epidemic which has hit the city could last for another year "at least."

The health department reported two more cases of diphtheria Tuesday, bringing the total for the year to 52. Nine other persons are suspected of having the disease. Two persons have died from it.

Dr. Martha Lyn Green, director of the Communicable Disease Division of the San Antonio Health Department, said the fifth clinic dispensing diphtheria shots opened Tuesday. She said the 100 regular heaith department nurses and 10 to 15 volunteer nurses staffing the centers could administer the 6,000 to 10,000 shots a day.

Agency To Take BCDC Place Dies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Governmental Organization Committee has killed legislation to place nine San Francisco Bay Area counties under the umbrella of a personal planning agency.

The bill by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, was rejected on a split voice vote after opponents objected saying it would create a new level of government.

"We'll be back next year with another proposal," Knox told the panel.

The regional agency would have taken over the planning duties of the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission, although it would not have had operative powers of its own.

However, the agency would have had authority to draft and enforce an area-wide master-plan for development and use of the region's resources.

Originally, half of the 40-member agency would be elected and the other half composed of local elected officials. But Knox changed the plan to make all the members elected.

'Hayburner' Horse Tax Fails To Finish

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee has killed a bill to tax "hayburner' race horses the same as thoroughbred champions.

Opponents argued at the Tuesday hearing that small owners of horses that perpetually lose on the county fair circuits would be put out of business by the levy.

Under terms of the bill taxes on their animals would be hiked, while the levy on more expensive derby thoroughbreds would be reduced.

But proponents of the bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, said it would help discourage the owners of quality horses from moving their stables to other states.

"Kentucky has taken over horse breeding and California taxes are going to destroy racing in this state," said Neil Papiano, lobbyist for the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

Currently counties assess a property tax on race horses, based on their worth. Bagley's bill would place a $50 in lieu tax on the head of every race horse. Nonactive horses would be taxed at $20 and stallions at $200.

Go-Between Role Offered By Chamber

The Novato Chamber of Commerce last night volunteered to act as a liaison between Novato city government and the business community as a measure to improve communication between the two groups.

The move came in an informal meeting between four members of the chamber board and the council following the special council meeting to consider park and street bond elections.

The discussion, touched on feelings by some businessmen that the city was anti-development and that the planning commission often fails to consider needs of businessmen in planning requirements.

Among projects agreed to by the chamber was distribution of pamphlets to be prepared by the city to outline planning requirements for businessmen considering development in Novato.

The chamber also agreed to determine the business community's reaction to proposed shopping bus routes around Novato and from Novato to the Civic Center, Northgate Shopping Center and San Rafael.

Councilman Pay To Be Discussed

The question of salaries for city councilmen is slated for discussion at a special meeting of the Larkspur City Council at 8 p.m. today at city hall. Councilmen are now unpaid.

Adopting the final budget and setting the tax rate are also set for council consideration.

Also planned is a closed session to discuss litigation in connection with the apartment construction furor on Corte Madera Creek.

Trailer Mishap Hurts Young Boy

A 4-year-old San Rafael boy escaped serious injury yesterday when he was struck by a lawnmower protruding from a truck trailer and then run over by the trailer in a San Rafael city park.

Michael E. Giazzon of 129 Canal Street, Apt. 203, suffered a cut scalp and multiple bruises and was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The truck, owned by the City of San Rafael, was driven by a parks department groundsman, John F. Tartaklia, 24, of 29 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia. The accident occurred at 3:07 p.m. on a pathway at Gerstle Park.

Oakes' Condition Reported As Good

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Officials at ths University of California Medical Center said today the condition of Richard Oakes, Indian leader, "is good and he's progressing well."

The 28-year-old Mohawk led the Indian invasion of Alcatraz Island. He was beaten unconscious June 11 during a tavern brawl here.

Oakes, hospital spokesmen said, earlier this week, apparently signed himself out of the hospital against doctor's orders, but then decided not to leave.

Author Asks Stronger Bill Against Smog

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The author of a major anti-smog bill said today he hoped a two-house conference committee could strengthen the measure weakened in the Senate.

Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle asked Tuesday that the lower house refuse to concur in Senate amendments to the measure, which would impose a $5,000 on automakers whose products fail to meet California's smog standards beginning with 1973 models.

REJECTED CHANGES

The Assembly rejected the Senate changes, which automatically throws the measure into a six-member conference committee to resolve differences.

Meanwhile, the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee approved a bill imposing a 3 per vent state excise tax on new cars, if Congress repeals the current 7 per cent federal excise levy.

The bill by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was sent on a split voice vote to the Finance Committee. If approved, the tax would begin in 1972.

The excise levy would raise an estimated $150 million that would be earmarked to buy beaches and parks for recreational use, plus pay for smog control research.

FIRST MODELS

The committee also adopted amendments proposed by Briggs to give 1955-65 model owners first call on funds to equip cars with exhaust emission control system approved by the state Air Resources Board. Briggs said the models are major contributors to auto-caused air pollution.

The Biddle bill would subject the manufacturers to the $5,000 fine for each sale or attempted sale of an automobile that did not meet emission standards adopted by the board.

It would also direct the board, beginning with 1972 models, to develop standards and procedures for testing automobile emissions at the factory assembly line. Such testing would start no later than 1972.

The Senate also approved, 32-0, Tuesday a bill to help finance the fight against smog by setting up a special fund financed by motorists who want to pay $35 for personalized license plates.

Pupils May Register For Dixie District

All schools of the Dixie School District will be open for registration of new pupils tomorrow and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parents are asked by the district to register their children on the two dates so that class lists may be prepared for teachers by Sept. 3.

For those enrolling in kindergarten for the first time, the pupil must have attained the age of five on or before Dec. 2. To be eligible for first grade, the pupil must be at least six on or before that date.

Proof of age, verified by birth certificate, passport or other affidavit, must be furnished for those enrolling in kindergarten or first grade for the first time.

Seventh and eighth grade Terra Linda residents should register at Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way. Seventh and eighth grade residents of the Marinwood-Lucas Valley area should register at Miller Creek School.

Assembly Passes Plan To Aid Horse Racing Industry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The horse racing industry would receive an additional $8.5 million from funds bet on races under terms of a bill passed by the Assembly.

The measure by Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, would increase the take of horse breeders and owners and race track owners by 1.25 per cent. The state and horsemen presently divide the 13 per cent now taken out of the betting total.

The bill was sent back to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments on a 56-8 vote Tuesday.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, lower house sponsor of the measure, said the horse race industry "has been suffering" economically.

"At this point the industry is in the loss position," he said. "Some northern tracks are only getting two per cent on their investment."

The Burns measure does not increase the state's share of the revenue.

Bagley had sponsored a similar bill earlier in the session. However, the Bagley measure would have increased the state's share by about $2 million along with the raises for the horse racing industry.

Ford Will Build 'Modern Model T'

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—The Ford Motor Co. has plans to build what a company official calls a "modern Model T Ford for the masses" to sell for $896.

William O. Bourke, chief executive officer of Ford in Australia, said the car would be marketed only in Australia, Asia and the Pacific at first.

"It will be very basic car—it could even have a plywood body and canvas seats," he said.

Sharing Ideas For Large Group Menus

STIRRING MOUSSAKA sauce is Mrs. David Blatchford of Mill Valley, left, a member of the Marin Child Development Center's auxiliary, while president Mrs. Richard Hyde of Belvedere helps. The auxiliary perfected recipes to serve large groups when they prepared a series of luncheons this spring for professional groups which came to the Tiburon school to learn about its work with preschoolers who have learning and behavior difficulties.

CHOPPED ONIONS for 40 are dropped into the Moussaka by Mrs. Hyde, president of Marin Child Development Center's newly-formed auxiliary, while member Mrs. David Blatchford of Mill Valley, assists. The women plan an informal sherry brunch this fall to attract new members. Child-oriented fund-raising events are on the auxiliary's agenda. (Independent-Journal photos)

Working out recipes to feed 40 guests was the first job of the newly-formed auxiliary of Marin Child Development Center this spring. They gave a series of luncheons for professional groups who work with children to inform them of the Tiburon school's work with preschoolers who have learning and behavioral difficulties that lead to trouble when they start school.

Mrs. Richard Hyde, president, and Mrs. David Blatchford, a member, share their favorites with other hostesses who may be faced with large groups to entertain.

This fall they plan an informal sherry brunch for prospective members: "Anyone who wants to work hard. She will be required to attend an orientation program. The work of the auxiliary is for the school, but not at the school," they explain.

SWISS CHEESE PIE
Contributed by Peggy Blatchford

6 envelopes onion soup mix
9 tbsp. flour
12 pkgs. frozen cream spinach (thawed)
3 lbs. ground ham
3 lbs. grated Swiss cheese (12 cups)

Mix together all ingredients except 6 cups of the cheese, and put into baked pie shell. Combine 6 eggs, 4 cups milk, salt and pepper to taste. Pour over mixture in pie shell. Sprinkle with reserved swiss cheese and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

This recipe fills five two-quart baking dishes. It takes about eight pies' worth of pastry. Serves 40.

MOUSSAKA A LA PROVENCALE
Contributed by Meredith Bruce

4 Spanish onions finely chopped
6 to 8 cloves garlic finely chopped
¼ to ½ cup olive oil (or more) for frying eggplant
4 lbs. mushrooms
8 lbs. ground lamb
8 to 10 tomatoes chopped
6 tbsp. finely chopped parsley
salt and black pepper to taste
1 small can tomato paste
1 can beef broth
8 to 10 eggplants
parmesan cheese, flour

Saute onions and garlic in olive oil until transparent. Add lamb and continue cooking, stirring occasionally until brown. Add mushrooms, tomatoes, parsley, salt and pepper. Cook until onion is tender. Dilute tomato paste in beef broth and add to meat mixture. Simmer as you would a spaghetti sauce.

Slice unpeeled eggplant thinly lengthwise; dust with flour and fry on both sides in hot olive oil. Drain slices on absorbent surface and line bottom of baking dishes with them. Spread a layer of meat mixture, sprinkle with parmesan. Cover with another layer of eggplant and continue layering until dish is full, ending with eggplant. Top with topping and bake at 375 degrees about 30 minutes until top is cooked and a little brown.

Topping:

1 large carton plain yogurt
7 eggs
7 tbsp. flour

Beat eggs, blend in flour. Add yogurt and whisk to a creamy sauce. Serves 32.

6 cups sliced celery
4 cups toasted-slivered almonds
4 large cans pineapple chunks
1 quart mayonnaise
5 tbsp. curry powder
6 tbsp. soy sauce
4 to 5 heads of butter lettuce

Combine all ingredients except the lettuce. Serve salad mounded on one or two pieces of lettuce with hot croissants and ice tea. Serves 40.

RUSSIAN TEA
Contributed by Mardie Becker

1 large bottle Tang (dollar size)
1 pkg. Wylers lemonade mix
1 pkg. Wylers orange mix

1 tsp. cinnamon
1½ tsp. cloves
3 oz. instant tea

Mis 1 heaping tablespoon of the mixture in a tall glass of water and ice. Serves 40.

ONION FRENCH BREAD
Contributed by Janet Sawyer

4 loaves sour French bread
1 lb. butter
4 pkgs. dehydrated onion soup

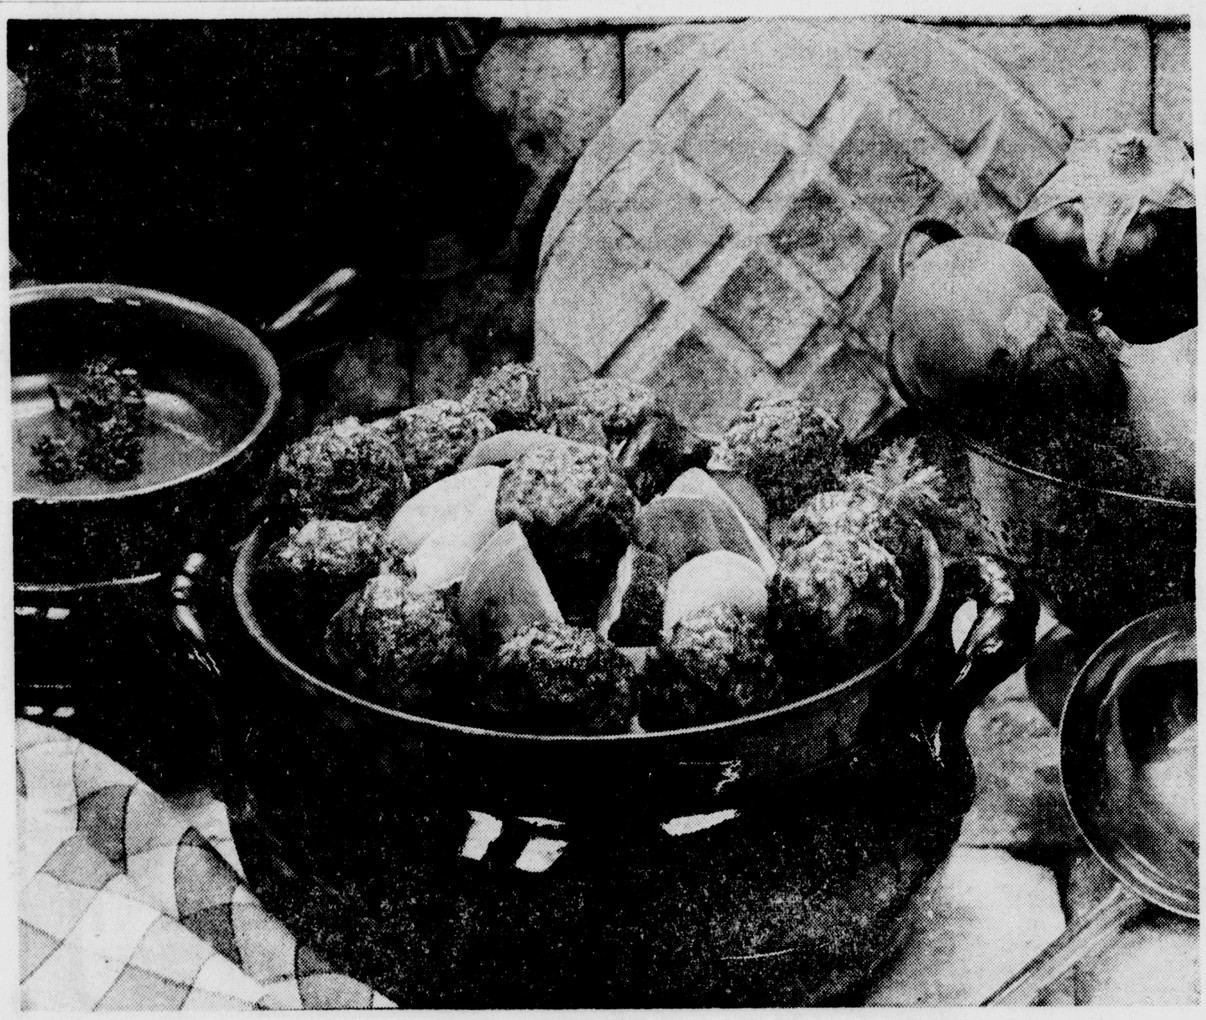
Split loaf in half lengthwise. Cream butter together with onion soup. Spread on loaf halves. Put halves together and slice in 1½ inch slices, 3/4 of the way through. Wrap in foil and heat in the oven at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves 40.

RASPBERRY TORTE
Contributed by Susan Lukens

6 pkgs. (10 oz. each) frozen raspberries or 7½ cups fresh raspberries with sugar
3¾ cups sugar
1 cup water
3 tsp. light corn syrup
12 egg whites
6 tbsp. Kirsch (optional)
6 cups whipping cream
36 ladyfingers

Puree raspberries in an electric blender; press through wire strainer to remove seeds. Combine sugar, water and corn syrup in small pan; heat to boil and continue boiling until soft-ball stage is reached (238 degrees). Beat egg whites in an electric mixer until soft peaks form; gradually beat in hot syrup and continue beating at high speed until mixture cools (10 minutes).

Add Kirsch to raspberry puree; fold into egg whites. Whip cream; fold into meringue. Line buttered sides of three nine-inch pans with removable bottoms with ladyfingers (which have been split into halves); fill pans. Cover with plastic wrap. Freeze until firm (eight hours or longer). To serve remove from pans and decorate with fresh raspberries. Serves 40.



Ground Beef And Vegetables Make Complete, French Inspired Meal

No ordinary beef stew this. Plump, juicy balls of California ground chuck and a rainbow of garden fresh vegetables make a beautiful blend to please both palate and eye. It's a special California version of Ratatouille, a freely formulated vegetable stew that originated along Frances sunny southern coast. With the addition of beef, it's a complete meal.

The heart and heft of the stew is the beef — in this case, well seasoned, beef balls quickly and easily oven baked. For the vegetables, select the freshest eggplant, onions, zucchini, green peppers and tomatoes to simmer in beef broth. And to keep those reds, greens and purples bright, don't overdo the cooking. Because it looks so pretty and tastes wonderfuly fresh and wholesome, this beef and vegetable medley is a great idea for party buffets.

California ground beef and a basic beef ball recipe are the beginning of many good things. Float beef balls in soups, or sauce them for pasta toppings. Bake them in casseroles or serve as is for hors d'oeuvres. Ground beef is as versatile as your imagination.

BEEF AND SUNSHINE STEW
California Beef Balls

1 eggplant
4 onions
2 minced cloves garlic
¼ cup cooking oil
1 (10½-ounce) can beef broth
½ teaspoon thyme
4 zucchini
5 tomatoes
2 green peppers
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Prepare Beef Balls. Cut eggplant into cubes. Peel and quarter onions. Cook eggplant, onions and garlic lightly in oil, stirring gently to prevent sticking. Add broth and thyme. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cut zucchini into ½-inch slices; add to hot vegetables. Cook 5 minutes. Peel and quarter tomatoes; seed and cut green pepper into strips. Add tomatoes and pepper to vegetables. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with browned Beef Balls. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

CALIFORNIA BEEF BALLS: Cook ⅓ cup finely chopped onion in 1 tablespoon cooking oil until transparent. Combine 1 lightly beaten egg, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add onion and 1½ pounds ground California beef chuck. Beat with fork to blend. Shape into 24 small balls. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

Tuna Croquettes Are Quick, Easy

Baked tuna croquettes are quick and easy to make. With a vegetable and salad, they make a meal.

Prepare 1 envelope (5-serving) of instant mashed potato granules as label directs. Stir in 2 teaspoons of prepared yellow mustard, 1 beaten egg and 2 (7-ounce) cans of flaked tuna fish. Shape into croquettes and roll in buttered bread crumbs. Place on a greased cookie sheet and bake in preheated 450-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 to 8 croquettes. Serve with mushroom or tomato sauce, if desired.

Lomi Quiche From Hawaii

Unbaked unsweetened pastry for crust.

½ cup sour cream
½ cup Parmesan cheese
½ cup Swiss cheese
¼ pound diced salt or smoked salmon
4 stalks of green onions (scallions) trimmed and finely cut from end to end
Salt and pepper to taste
1½ cups coffee cream
4 eggs

Line a 9-inch pie tin with pastry dough, trim and flute the edge.

Mix eggs with coffee cream, add Parmesan cheese, green onions, salmon, and salt and pepper to taste. Pour mixture over pastry in pie tin and bake in a pre-heated (400 degrees) oven for ten minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until custard is set.

Combine Swiss cheese with sour cream and spread over Quiche, smooth top evenly, place under broiler for one or two minutes until lightly browned. Serve hot.

Serves six.

More Women Should Be In Politics—Both Parties Say

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (U P I) — Republican and Democratic women leaders are making common cause in an attempt to lure more members of their sex into big-time politics.

Mrs. Elly M. Peterson, assistant chairman of the GOP National Committee, and Mrs. Geri Joseph, who formerly held the same position with the Democrats, began last spring to look for a foundation that would finance the poll they believe should be made.

Once they find an angel, they will be ready to compile questions they believe should be asked.

Women now do far more of the nuts-and-bolts work than do men. But even though they comprise more than half the national population, they generally are forgotten when party endorsements are distributed and few are to be found in high political office.

There have been Jews on the Supreme Court bench, and there is a Negro there, but no woman ever has been named to this prestigious position. None has been chosen for the President's cabinet since President Dwight D. Eisenhower named Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby to head the new Health, Education, and Welfare Department.

The 100 Senators include one woman, and the 435-member House, 10 Congresswomen.

Why such a small representation?

It is hoped the poll will provide the answers.

Harriett Cipriani, deputy vice chairman of DNC, said the Democratic Women's Division first wrote to all female candidates in the 1968 convention, those who lost as well as the winners. The questionnaire asked if it had been difficult to raise campaign money, for example; did men support them as the gentle sex has male candidates?

The effort for a professional poll was launched because party leaders believed their first attempt was too amateurish in such a complicated field. "Maybe we're urging women to run for public office and then will find out they couldn't care less," Mrs. Cipriani said. "And some simply prefer to vote for the male candidate."

If this hazard proves true, she said, "We must turn to education to change their minds.

"We're not saying women would be better than men . . . but there should be more of them in Congress."

Voting records of both parties show a dwindling of feminine interest in politics.

HELEN HELP US!

Noon Prayer Asks God For Peace At Home And Around The World

DEAR HELEN:

Not too long ago one of your young readers talked of having a special day set aside when we all would concentrate on praying for peace.

We couldn't agree more: and so "Twelve Words At Twelve" was born.

It's going strong in San Francisco and surrounding areas, where Mayor Joseph Alioto issued a proclamation, joining a group of church leaders (all faiths) in a call to Midday Prayer For Peace. We're beginning to remember to stop each day and say just 12 words asking God for peace at home and around the world — for everyone — everywhere.

Radio and television are helping get the word out. We're hoping more and more newspapers will ask for and print original "Twelve Words At Twelve," from readers.

Won't you and your readers, Helen, join our Midday Prayer for Peace campaign? If we all prayer — believing — think what could happen. — M.G.B.

DEAR READERS:

I've asked permission from "M.G.B." to print her name and address, so that her Synod may answer personally all questions on how to initiate a Twelve Words At Twelve campaign across the country.

Send a stamped, self addressed envelope to:

Martha G. Bigelow,
United Presbyterian Church
Synod of the Golden Gate,
330 Ellis Street,
San Francisco, California
94102.

We've tried almost everything else in our efforts for peace. So now: let's give prayer a chance. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all this furor about our leading brand name cereals being non-nutritional, my big question is "Why?" For very little more expense, the companies can add vitamins, minerals, etc., just as they have added them to instant breakfasts and liquid diet foods.

I see no reason why any funfood from candy to Danish pastry can't also have high nutritional value. After all, the taste isn't affected — or at least not much. — AGAINST WORTHLESS FOODS

DEAR AWF:

I'll let the food experts answer your question.

Nutritionists — cerealphites and phobes —please speak your piece. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

How can I get it across to my parents that money is to enjoy? They went through lean years when they made every penny do the work of two. I guess somehow money became god to them, but they forgot how to spend, except for necessities.

Now, when they have plenty and are ready for retirement, they still live cheap, grumble about every little bill, won't take trips because "everybody has their hands out." Their favorite phrase is, "It costs too much." So they invest their money, make more, and for what? We children have all done well, possibly because of our frugal upbringings. We didn't need inheritances. How can we get our parents to loosen up and have fun with their money? — THE KIDS (all over 35).

DEAR KIDS:

For certain types, the pleasure of money is making it, not spending it. But while they have better uses for their own dollars, they might enjoy a trip provided by their children. How about "borrowing" against that inheritance and giving your folks the perfect all-paid-for cruise as a retirement gift? — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Sleepwalkers Are Mostly Children

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 4 million Americans walk in their sleep at night, with the problem especially prevalent among young children, medical authorities report.

Experts on the subject say that sleep-walking children should be steered away carefully from any potentially hazardous situation and then gently awakened. If sleepwalking continues into adulthood, a physician should be consulted.

Water Clean-Up Is Mostly For Fish

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — When it comes to protecting water from pollution, should the welfare of fish take priority over the welfare of people?

If that sounds like a silly question, consider the thrust of federal water pollution control programs. Purely on the basis of money appropriated for fighting water pollution, the fish are way ahead.

Out of $800 million set aside for water quality, $798 million is earmarked for better treatment of waste materials going into public lakes and streams. Fish should be happy about that. So should anglers.

Of course, anything that cleans up public waterways is likely to improve drinking water that comes from those sources. But there is a huge problem that is being virtually ignored at the federal level.

ONLY $2 MILLION of the $800 million is earmarked for water treatment programs, the process of purifying river and lake water for household use. The amount is for research and training purposes.

Actually, even the $800 million is a drop in the bucket compared to the $20 billion and more cited by pollution experts as the national cost of reducing water pollution to satisfactory levels.

Yet the $800 million is four times the amount requested by the Nixon Administration. The increase was voted by Congress after conservation groups put on the pressure.

At least, the $800 million is a start on a mammoth job. But the $2 million for water treatment research could hardly even be called a beginning on a task that is also huge.

For the crisis in water pollution goes far beyond reducing harmful materials from entering waterways. It extends to the problems of making available water suitable for personal use.

Despite all efforts to curb pollution, the amount of chemicals and poisonous bacteria is increasing at a steady rate. As the quantity of lead, mercury, pesticides, arsenic, nitrates and radioactivity builds up, water treatment plants are losing ground in the purification job.

SOME 157 million Americans are served by community water supplies. And many of the facilities for handling these supplies were built 30 or 40 years ago when the task was much simpler.

According to the Public Health Service, nearly half of the 20,000 public water supply systems in this country contain defects serious enough to place them in a potentially unsafe status if the defects are not corrected in the near future.

The absence of serious epidemics from water borne diseases is evidence that public water supplies have not yet deteriorated to an unsafe point, but many are below federal standards. And there is genuine concern about what the trend will bring.

This concern is evident in the Public Health Service report on drinking water that is being released this week.

And it is evident in this week's Water Quality Symposium being held here by the Water Quality Research Council. Among the subjects to be discussed in panel sessions are: "Public Water Suppliers — Are They Doing Their Job?" and "The Relation of Drinking Water Composition to Health."

Duplications Cause Medical Cost Rise

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American college of Physicians is urging its 16,000 members throughout the country to exert local leadership in eliminating duplication of equipment, services and personnel among private hospitals.

The college's board of regents sees this duplication as one of the reasons for the rising costs of medical care in the United States.

Novato Sets Street Bond Vote Rolling

The Novato City Council last night passed two resolutions and introduced an ordinance aimed at holding a special $3.25-million street bond election during the Nov. 3 general election. (Another Novato city council story, page 1.)

Discussion of the actions was limited almost entirely to questions directed to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps to clarify his written report delivered to the council last week on proposals for Novato's street program for the next five years.

The bond issue would, according to the report, provide enough fundst o reconstruct 7.18 miles of streets in Novato.

The bond issue, to be sold in three increments two years apart, would add 36 cents per $100 assessed valuation to property tax for 10 years, 20 cents for the subsequent six years, 10 cents for four years, six cents for two years and two cents for the last two years, according to figures in the report.

Construction plans were presented in Temps' report, but he said that plans were included only as an example of what could be done and that use of the bond money would not be limited to proposed projects.

Included in the plans are construction or renovation of Novato and South Novato boulevards from Stone Drive to Sierra Vista, De Long Avenue from Redwood Boulevard (presently Highway 101) to the proposed Highway 101 bypass, Seventh Street from Grant to Vallejo avenues, Railroad Avenue from Reichert Avenue to Olive Street and all of the old portions of Feliz Road.

Improvements of Vallejo Avenue from Seventh Street to Redwood Boulevard, Fourth Street from Grant Avenue to the city limits, Tamalpais Avenue from Novato Boulevard to Center Road, Ignacio Boulevard from Montura Way to Ulloa Drive, Simmons Lane from Novato Creek to San Marin Drive, Center Road from Lu Sutton Park to Wilson Avenue and Olive Avenue from Fourth Street to Redwood Boulevard are also in the plans.

Other improvements in the plan include $232,800 worth of modifications to downtown streets to accomplish the Sedway-Cooke downtown plan's requirements; renovation of South Novato Boulevard intersections with Rowland Boulevard, Center Road and Diablo Avenue, including signal installation at the Rowland and Center Road intersections; landscaping of the San Marin Drive cut and reconstruction of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad crossing on Reichert Avenue.

The ordinance setting the special election is to be considered for adoption at next Tuesday's city council meeting.

The report also provided alternate proposlas for construction which would be possible without the bond issue.

By use of gas tax and other federal and state funds and small amounts of general city funds necessary to meet matching fund commitments, the city could construct 1.48 miles of road, according to the report.

By supplementing other agency funds with a 30-cent raise in property taxes, 3.79 miles of streets could be built in the five-year period, the report siad.

Limiting the bond issue to a size possible to repay with a maximum 30-cent tax raise, all work planned for the proposed bond issue could be accomplished, except South Novato Boulevard from Stone Drive through Sunset Parkway and portions of Simmons Lane, Seventh Street and Vallejo Avenue, according to the report.

Local Building Restriction Bill Is Killed By Senate Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to restrict sharply the power of local governments to build new facilities without a vote of the people was killed last night by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

The bill, AB 2182 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, would have required approval by a majority of the voters of most joint powers agreements to build public facilities.

Such agreements have been criticized as a way of circumventing voter approval in a general obligation bond election. Facilities built by joint powers financing generally are more costly to finance than general obligation bonds.

The California Taxpayers Association had pushed for passage of the bill in the wake of the California Supreme Court's ruling that the state's requirement for two-thirds voter approval of bonds was unconstitutional. That ruling has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association of California opposed the measure, which got about three "aye" votes in a voice ballot by the 10 committee members present.

Warrant Out In Slaying

SAIGON (UPI)—Military authorities today issued a wanted bulletin for an unidentified suspect in the murder of Red Cross volunteer Virginia Kirsch, 21, of Brookfield, Ohio.

The authorities, who said a "sizeable" reward would be paid for information leading to his capture, issued a composite drawings and a description. It said he was a 23-year-old Caucasian of medium height and build, dressed in light colored trousers, a white shirt and dark jacket. The clothes may be spood-splattered, they said.

Miss Kirsch was found stabbed to death early Sunday at Cu Chi, 16 miles northwest of Saigon. She had been at the base about a week and had arrived in Vietnam only two weeks before that.

City, County Environment Measure Signed By Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring city and county general plans to include environmental considerations has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, AB 1566 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, will require cities and counties to consider the environmental effects of all other eleents in a general plan. Transportation elements of general plans, for example, will have to consider and account for effects on environmental resources such as water, timber and farm land.

Toy Pistol Aids Japan Hijacking

HAMAMATSU, Japan (UPI) — A young man wielding a toy pistol hijacked a Japanese jetliner in flight today and forced it to land at an air base in a bizarre suicide plot. Police seized the man when he permitted a woman in labor to get off.

Authorities said the hijacker, Sachi Inagaki, 24, wanted to exchange the 74 passengers aboard the All Nippon Airways Boeing 727 for a rifle to kill himself.

No one was hurt in the incident, second hijacking in Japanese aviation history.

Planned Unit Growth Key To Future

By WAT TAKESHITA

With Marin's 210,000 population expected to double in the next 20 years, where are all the extra people going to live, and how?

Obviously, the biggest growth will be in the open spaces north of Lucas Valley, according to county Planning Director Werner von Gundell.

Van Gundell took over the top planner's job on July 14, succeeding Paul C. Zucker.

To meet the expected growth of about 100,000 in the next decade, von Gundell predicted that planning will make increasing use of the planned unit approach, with developers combining townhouses, apartments and commercial buildings.

"The trend is quite clearly toward the planned unit approach instead of the conventional subdivision sprawl," said von Gundell. "And we are encouraging that trend."

For the housing of moderate and low income groups, new ways must be explored and found, he said. "Creative thinking and a lot of effort are needed to improve the present dismal situation. Preservation of older, moderately priced units, and adding on to them is one possibility." He said the potential for this type of housing exists in older sections of San Rafael, San Anselmo, and other cities. But these can handle only a small percentage of the growth, von Gundell noted.

In high value areas like Belvedere, Mill Valley, Ross and Kentfield, the planning director foresees some influx of well-to-do families, with little room for low and moderate income residents.

The biggest growth will therefore accur in relative open areas north of Puerto Suello Hill to Novato, said von Gundell.

Even in developed areas like Santa Venetia and San Rafael Meadows, gaps will be filled in by development. For example, open land near the Civic Center will have offices and apartments, and open lots along Merrydale Road will probably draw more apartments.

Von Gundell sees these new trends in planning:

1. Stronger control over shorelines and tidelands. These are supported by recent court decisions which held that privately owned beaches which have been used by the public for five years cannot be closed indiscriminately. Within the county itself, an ordinance to protect tidelands and waterways is now in effect.

2. In the past, the emphasis was on separation of land uses, keeping homes away from apartments, commercial and industrial. "We're now beginning to realize that the separation was too strict, and the trend will be for mixing some of the uses," said von Gundell. "Of course, this does not mean we're going to put junkyards next to one-family homes." Mixing of uses means more use of the planned unit approach.

In transportation, von Gundell said it is obvious that eventually, rapid transit will be needed.

In all cases, he believes, the people should be given the widest option of choices, in transportation or living and working environment.

Specific recommendations on housing and transportation for the next 20 years are now being formulated in the balanced transportation study and a housing study made by the planning department, he said.

BELVEDERE

High income community, with were valued at $35,000 and over. Ninety-six per cent of single-family homes are on lots valued at $15,000 or more.

There is little vacant land suitable for development remaining, and projected demand for new housing is relatively low.

CORTE MADERA

Suburban homes and apartments mushroomed in the 1950's and 1960's. Not much room for further expansion.

In transportation, Corte Madera General Plan recommends transit use for the north-south Northwestern Pacific rail right-of-way. Additionally, there appears to be a need for an east-west transit corridor for the Ross Valley, which is not shown on any plan. Corte Madera should take a position on this facility.

FAIRFAX

Although there is still a limited amount of land for housing development, it is generally on steeply sloped land where development costs are high. It is also located away from public transportation and shopping facilities. The potential for housing and redevelopment in the downtown area has not been fully explored. There is a possibility here for development of housing for low and moderate-income households.

In transportation, the major problem is continued congestion in the central business district even with the four-lane improvements assumed for Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the balanced transportation study phase 1. Fairfax should examine an arterial east-west bypass (route 17) as well as a high level of transit service. Preservation of a potential transit right-of-way is an essential issue. Is it wanted, and where should it be?

LARKSPUR

There is a potential for expansion of the low and moderate-income housing supply. There is an estimated need for 330 more housing units over the next decade, just to accommodate natural increase in Larkspur's present population.

In transportation, Larkspur and Kentfield need a six-lane improvement of Drake Boulevard west of Highway 101. Transit may help the problem somewhat, but widening to six lanes may still be needed. The Larkspur and Kentfield plans also lack rights-of-way preservation for proposed transit. Preserving rail rights of way is an immediate issue.

MILL VALLEY

Little land is left for new construction, and what is available is expensive to buy and develop. The developer of Shelter Ridge has been required to include provision for units of moderate-income housing. This is an important step by the city to reverse the market trend, which excludes all but the affluent.

In the Miller Avenue-Tam Junction entry to Highway 101, traffic levels equivalent to 10 lanes were needed for traffic from allowable development and the proposed new town of Marincello. Preservation of the NWP right-of-way for transit is an especially critical issue in Mill Valley.

NOVATO

One of the most rapidly-growing parts of county. The planning area contains nearly 20,000 acres of vacant land suitable for development. Novato is the only area now where houses are being built in the under $35,000 category. If trends continue, there will be no new homes for sale under $35,000 in the Novato area by 1971.

Land costs are the lowest of any community in the urbanized eastern corridor.

In transportation, a freeway extension of Route 37 through the Ignacio-Novato area, as previously proposed by the Division of Highways, might not be needed. An alternate corridor, such as parkway type improvement of the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, might better fulfill the need for a major north-bay access route to Point Reyes National Seashore.

Novato should consider either a reduction of industrial land use proposed for the area near the county airport, or provide additional arterial or collector streets from Atherton Avenue and San Marin Drive into the proposed industrial areas. Traffic demands forecast would require six to eight lane improvements for these two arterials. The Novato plan proposes only four lane connections.

The Novato Area General Plan does propose preservation of the NWP right-of-way for potential transit use.

ROSS-KENTFIELD

One of the most expensive sections of Marin. More than 75 per cent of homes are valued at more than $35,000. Average sales price of homes runs between $44,000 and $53,000. Projected demand for additional housing over the next decade is realtively low. About 128 more units are needed to accommodate natural increase in population.

Moreover, there is almost no land still available for development of housing. What is left is so highly priced that construction of subsidized housing is not economically feasible without donations to a nonprofit housing development corporation.

In transportation, the lack of an adopted plan in Ross left the transportation phase 1 study with an assumption of four lanes on Drake so as to be consistent with San Anselmo and Kentfield plans on either side. Even with transit system testing in phase 2, Ross must face the need for additional right-of-way.

SAN ANSELMO

Little vacant land left for development. The pressure is growing to replace old homes with multi-family units.

In transportation, a high level of traffic is forecast for the link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda, which would call for a four-lane major arterial. A possible solution would be to examine, together with San Rafael, an alternative link from east of Sleepy Hollow across the ridge to the Los Ranchitos area. San Anselmo will probably need both transit and a bypass highway if congestion at the Hub is to be relieved.

Exclusive right-of-way for a potential mass transit system must be studied within San Anselmo itself. The San Anselmo master plan envisioned only feeder bus service.

SAN RAFAEL

It contains about one-third of all households in the county which receive public aid. This low and moderate-income housing has been supplied by the relatively large number of older homes. However this supply of low and moderate-income homes is diminishing. Older homes are being demolished for commercial use.

There will be a need for a minimum of about 1,500 more units in San Rafael over the next decade. Much land is still available. More than 10,000 acres, nearly half the total acreage of this planning area, is vacant and suitable for development.

In transportation, Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda, proposed for four lanes, drew eight-lane traffic levels in the balanced transportation study test. San Rafael might consider a supplementary link from Los Ranchitos across the ridge into San Anselmo to relieve the Freitas Parkway congestion.

The east-west freeway proposed in the San Rafael General Plan, adopted in 1966, would improve today's congestion levels but would need a major east-west transit corridor to supplement it.

SAUSALITO

Sausalito contains both the county's highest proportion of older units and of multi-family units. Because it is close to San Francisco, land values are extremely high. Lot values are $20,000 or more in more than 40 per cent of the single-family homes. This puts pressure on owners of many older homes to convert to apartments. With dwindling land, rising land cost, and heavy market demand, the proportion of multi-family units can be expected to increase.

The greatest problem today in housing quality is the more than 300 houseboats in the Sausalito area.

Probably hardest hit by the upsurge in values are owners of older homes built before World War II. They may have to do without routine maintenance and even move out, in order to meet tax obligations.

Another group that appears to be declining rapidly in Sausalito are families with children. Apartment owners usually won't rent to them, and single-family homes are too costly for most families.

Sausalito is in transition. It could become a community of affluent families and young singles.

In transportation, Lower Bridgeway would require four-lane improvements to offer service freer of congestion than today's conditions. Proposals for transit tube crossings of the Golden Gate, which will be evaluated jointly by the Balanced Transportation Study phase 2 and the Golden Gate Bridge District, will raise the issue of an acceptable location for such a tube to surface and for a station or ferry terminal location.

TIBURON

Because of fine view and easy commute to San Francisco by car or ferry, Tiburon has captured high income families and affluent small households. Almost 60 per cent of single-family homes are over $35,000.

There is much land (about 1,250 acres) still available for urbanization. But the land is expensive and development costs are high. If market forces alone determine who is to live here, there will undoubtedly be more high income families and affluent small households, and very little low and moderate income housing.

In transportation, the major issue is improvement of Tiburon Boulevard south of Trestle Glen. Balanced Transportation Study phase 1 indicates that four lanes would likely provide service in the future about comparable to today's two lanes. To achieve less congestion would definitely require an improved transit service.

The City of Tiburon's 1966 plan for the peninsula proposes higher density than the county's 1959 Tiburon Peninsula General Plan. If development proceeds at these higher densities, it could cause a more severe problem than indicated in the phase 1 study.

Owner Reported Gunshot Accident

The owner of a North Marin ranch where a member of a deer hunting party suffered a gunshot wound last week said yesterday that he had reported the accident to the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

The Shooting of Chester A. Bonfiglio of San Rafael, who died Thursday, took place the preceding Sunday on the ranch of Anthony F. Silveira.

On Thursday, the sheriff's office said it had received no report of the accident, and this was reported that day in the Independent-Journal. Yesterday, the sheriff's office confirmed that Silveira had made such a report, but that it was not typed up until the day after the department had denied the amking of a report.

ABAG Report Criticizes Coastal Region Planning

Study Seeks Balance In Development Of Coastline

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Bay Area's coastal region faces eventual "deterioration and degradation" because of poorly planned development, a report of the Association of Bay Area Governments asserts.

The report, said to be the first comprehensive study of the 332-mile coastline from Santa Cruz to Sonoma counties, calls for preparation of a regional plan aimed at striking a balance between demands for recreation and open space and development interests.

OCEAN FRONTAGE

Comparing the ocean frontage to the San Francisco Bay shoreline, the study said, "Both are faced with problems of degradation and irreversible modification by unplanned, uncoordinated activity."

With improved highway access and advanced construction methods, the potential for large-scale coastal development increases, the report said. At the same time, it said, demands for the region's recreational resources are spiraling.

Beach use, the report said, is growing at a faster rate than the population.

BELOW AVERAGE

The study said only 27.5 per cent of the ocean shoreline is in public hands — 12 per cent below the statewide average — and that nearly 50 per cent of the region has development potential.

It stressed the need for acquisition of public access to the shoreline over private lands.

The report suggested a series of goals to be considered in formation of a regional plan. They include:

1. Where residential development is permitted, housing opportunities for all income groups be provided.

2. Conserve agricultural areas with emphasis on those which may have favored combinations of slopes, climate and soil condition for special crops.

3. Conserve lands used for animal products needed by resideets of the region and lands used for coastside water supply and those needed for fish and marine life production.

4. Set aside selected tidal and submerged lands, marsh and other coastal habitats as fish and wildlife preserves.

5. Provide as parmanent open space all lands with slopes of 30 per cent or more.

6. Establish a task force consisting of utility representatives, public officials and citizens to study location of future power plants and transmission lines.

7. Create standards to prevent pollution of coastal waters.

8. Establish an intergovernmental coastal management system with strong local and regional representation.

The report said a Bay Area Coastal Commission should be formed to develop regional consensus on planning goals and strategies.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1970 23

Five Sustain Minor Injuries In Accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in traffic accidents in Marin County yesterday and today, including a Fairfax youth who was hurt when the car in which he was riding collided with a horse.

Joe E. Holland, 12, of 102 Dominga Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken finger and scrapes. The California Highway Patrol said he was a passenger in a car driven by Ambrose J. Dalley, 30, of 50 Woodland Road, Fairfax, which struck an Arabian stallion which sidestepped into his path on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near San Geronimo stables at 2:15 p.m.

Rider of the horse, Linda Soltav, 21, of Forest Knolls, was uninjured, officers said. Injuries to the horse were not known.

Aileene M. McIverney, 23, of 25 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, was treated for bruises after a two-car collision on Highway 101 at Highway 17 at 10:50 p.m.

Officers said her vehicle collided with one driven by Hans J. Mathon, 37, of 71 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley. Both cars went through a fence at the side of the freeway and came to rest on Francisco Boulevard.

Esterlen Washington, 39, of Eureka, was treated for a sprained back after a car driven by Mathew S. Washington, 32, also of Eureka, was struck from behind on Highway 101, a mile south of the Corte Madera exit at 10:45 a.m.

The patrol said the Washington vehicle had stopped in heavy traffic and was hit by a car driven by Mabel A. Cheda, 59, of 22 Via Cheparro, Greenbrae.

A 30-year-old Rohnert Park woman was treated at the hospital for a bruised right knee after the car in which she was riding struck another on Highway 101, north of Puerto Suello Hill.

Arlene Downs was hurt about 5:30 p.m. when a car driven by Billy M. Downs, 40, also of Rohnert Park, hit a car driven by Mildred D. Derrick, 54, of San Francisco, as the Derrick vehicle slowed to avoid a car which cut in front of it.

Frank I. Gilbert, 60, of Sacramento, was in fair condition at Marin General today with facial cuts and multiple bruises received in a one-car crash at 2:15 a.m. today on the Point Reyes - Petaluma Road east of Point Reyes Station.

Gilbert, who was pinned under the car's dashboard and rescued by the Marin County Fire Department, told officers he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The patrol said the auto left the road, turned over and struck a utility pole.

Sausalito Planners To Discuss City Plan

A proposal to amend and update the city general plan for development will be discussed by the Sausalito Planning Commission today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission will try to include other plans recently adopted by the city council — such as the central waterfront and marinship plans — in the general plan.

Civic Center Security Due Another Look

Marin County's superior and municipal judges, sheriff's officials and county administrator's office representatives were to meet today to discuss improved security for the Civic Center.

Joseph G. Wilson, superior court presiding judge, said there would be a general discussion of how to prevent more "black Fridays" such as the Aug. 7 killing of Judge Harold J. Haley in a bloody escape try by three San Quentin convicts and a young accomplice.

Yesterday, security was given a boost when the board of supervisors approved the hiring of six new deputy sheriffs — specifically for Civic Center security.

County Administrator Alan Bruce estimated the cost of the additional men at $57,774 for the remaining 10 months of fiscal 1970-71. The deputies will go on the payroll Sept. 1.

In moving approval of the additional deputies, Supervisor Louis H. Baar suggested the county investigate the possibility of obtaining state funds to support the additional men since part of the security problem at the Civic Center is caused by the policy of holding trials of San Quentin Prison inmates at the Hall of Justice.

Other security proposals already have been given to Bruce by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, including installation of an alarm system in courtrooms.

Other ideas were expected to be raised at today's session, evaluated by Bruce's office, and eventually passed on to the supervisors for action.

Ex-Hungarian Kills Two And Then Himself

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A former Hungarian freedom fighter who served a prison term for slaying his wife shot and killed his girl friend and her mother Tuesday and then fatally wounded himself in a parked car at an ice cream stand in the city's Shadyside district, police said.

Officers said George Toth, 35, shot Mrs. Linda Katarbo, 22, and her mother, Mrs. Wanda Gamble, 37, both of Pittsburgh, and then fired a bullet into his right temple.

Toth and his wife, Irene, came to the United States in 1956. He was convicted of the butcher knife slaying of his wife in 1959 and sentenced to 10-to-20 years in prison. Toth was released in August, 1968.

Cash Only Is Recommended For Buying Commuter Buses

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Golden Gate Bridge District's financial consultants have recommended that the agency's proposed $7.7 million commuter bus system be bought entirely on a cash basis.

The district's accumulated reserve for buses and its cash flow over the next 12 to 18 months are more than enough to buy the proposed 132 buses, and any other financing method ultimately would cost more and could interfere with the need for financing a long-range transit system, according to the report by J. Barth & Co. of San Francisco.

Copies of the report have been given to district officials, and its recommendations will be considered by the joint transportation and finance-auditing committee at 10:30 a.m. Aug. 27 in toll plaza offices.

The consultants' recommendation concluded that "it makes little sense, in our opinion, to create short, or especially long-term debt in the money market that prevails today unless the need to do so is critical."

The district "is in a cash position to acquire approximately 118 buses immediately and an additional three to four buses monthly thereafter if revenues to the bus account are as predicted for fiscal 1970-71," their report said.

Given the anticipated need to finance both a water transportation system and a long-range transit system, they said, "it would seem desirable to keep present overall debt to an absolute minumum. Each time debt is created, it will ultimately have the affect of limiting debt ceilings later and could adversely hinder other contemplated transportation programs."

The long-range transit system is being planned by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland. The plan is to be completed in October for public hearings and presentation to the 1971 Legislature.

District officials have estimated that the bus fleet will cost $5.6 million and that maintenance facilities will cost $2.1 million.

The consultants, headed by Vernon E. Perry of Belvedere, noted that about $5 million was in the district's bus fund at the end of last fiscal year, and that accumulation of an additional $2.45 million was estimated by Aug. 31, 1971.

Land acquisition and construction of maintenance facilities would take at least 18 months, they said, thus giving time to accumulate all the needed cash for the system.

They discounted waiting for federal matching funds, saying "there is no real advantage in gearing the district's financial plans to only putting up its half of the investment and potentially sacrificing efficiency and service while waiting for federal grant approval and distribution."

They concluded that the district "is in an excellent position, cash and time-wise, and we can find no logical reason to recommend the creation of debt for the bus system at this time. . ."

Singer Faces Drug Charges

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Stephen A. Stills, 24, a member of the rock group Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, has been charged with possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs, police revealed Tuesday.

Stills was arrested in a La Jolla motel last week with Joanna Babb, 22, of Los Angeles, who faces similar charges.

Still was released on $2,500 bail and was to appear for arraignment next Tuesday.

Police said Stills was seen crawling along the floor in the motel hallway. The manager called for an ambulance.

Police, upon seeing Stills' condition, summoned narcotics officers, who seized about two grams of cocaine and several barbiturate tablets.

Five Exonerated On Drug Counts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon disclosed today that six Air Force officers of the Strategic Air Command were arrested on drug charges in California last year. One pleaded guilty but the others were exonerated.

A Defense Department spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said undercover agents made the arrests on Nov. 24 at Castle Air Force Base, an operating facility for nuclear-armed B52 bombers.

Friedheim said 2nd Lt. Thomas McDonagh pleaded guilty in Merced County Court March 17 to charge of selling marijuana and LSD, and was given a three-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended. Three lieutenants and two sergeants were exonerated, he said.

Prevo Resigns Employee Post

Randall M. Prevo, 48, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association for more than two years, has resigned to take a higher-paying job as personnel director of Napa County.

Prevo announced yesterday he wili leave his present $1,166-per-month job on Aug. 31. The new job pays $1,213 per month.

In his new job, Prevo said he will also do administrative work as assistant to the Napa County administrator.

New Hearing Is Set On Apartments

Bel Aire residents will have another chance on Sept. 1 to protest an 18-unit apartment development proposed on Pelican Hill near Circle Drive in Tiburon.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday postponed the hearing until Sept. 1 at the request of Roger Danford, president of the Bel Aire Homeowner Asssociation, who said the group needed more time to prepare arguments.

On July 27, the county planning commission approved the plans for the 18 apartments, proposed by developer Harley Ussery.

Bel Aire residents protested that the additional units would increase flooding in the area and appealed to the supervisors.

"This has been postponed for two months," protested developer Ussery. "It's unfair to hold us up any longer."

When the postponement was granted, Ussery stormed out of the meeting room, grumbling, "Boy, what a joke!"

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

PARK FEES — Set an admission fee of 50 cents per car for county parks at Paradise Beach, McNears Beach (when the swimming season is over) and tSafford Lake (when it opens to the public in about a year.)

McNEARS BEACH — Agreed to buy one-half interest in 31 acres just north of McNears Beach for $80,000, but the other owner is holding out.

JUVENILE HALL — Approved architect Eugene A. Crawfords' plan for site and drainage work for a new girls' dormitory to be built on the athletic field at juvenile hall and set Sept. 1 to award bids. Crawford estimated site work would cost $36,370.

CAMPERS — Asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draft ordinances to control the use of campers and trailers as residences and the use of one-family homes by groups of individuals.

HISTORICAL — Appointed the Marin County Historical Society as the county's advisory committee to make recommendations on preservation of historical monuments and sites.

PLANNING — Asked the County counsel to rewrite some of the county's ordinances on planned unit development to clarify the authority of the planning commission and the board of supervisors.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session for an hour to give directions to County Administrator Alan Bruce concerning deadlocked talks with safety employees on new salaries for this fiscal year.

MERGER — At the suggestion of Supervisor Louis H. Baar, directed Bales and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to "discreetly" explore the possibility of merging the County Supervisors Association and the League of California Cities.

MARINCELLO — Scheduled for 9 a.m. Sept. 8 a presentation by Gulf Oil Corp. on the company's plans for Marincello development.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Marjorie Buckley as social workers union representative on the Family and Children's Advisory Committee and Donald R. Frost, public works director, as neutral member of a review committee to oversee design and construction of Stinson Beach-Bolinas sewerage works.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Approved an internal budget adjustment deleting the budgeted position of human rights commission coordinator and creating a director of human rights with a $1,000-a-month salary.

FIRE DISTRICT — At the request of the Kentfield Fire District board, increased the size of the board from three members to five and appointed Raymond J. Mullen of 21 Oak Knoll Road and Hubert Trembley of 14 McAllister Avenue to the new seats.

APPEAL — Set for Sept. 1 a public hearing on an appeal of Robert D. Marshall Jr. from a planning commission decision denying approval of a tentative map of the proposed Laird's Landing subdivision.

YOUTH — Passed a resolution recommending appointment of youth members to "appropriate" advisory boards and commissions.

$1.5 Million Hall Of Justice Claim

The general contractor on the $11.7 million Hall of Justice filed a $1.5 million claim with the County of Marin yesterday arising from a long delay in completion of the structure.

In a letter to the board, attorneys for the contractor, Robert E. McKee Inc. of El Paso, Tex., claimed $130,078 as balance of the contract price due McKee and $1,417,312 in damages.

The letter was received in the supervisors' office yesterday and was not discussed at yesterday's board meeting.

McKee claimed increased construction costs resulted from a delay in completion of the project and the letter blamed the delay on "acts or omissions of the owner," which is the county.

The letter said these acts or omissions included errors in the drawings and specifications of the building; delays in processing requests by McKee for clarifications, proposals and change orders; late delivery of county-furnished materials; delays in county selection of colors; interference and delays caused by separate contractors and delas in site preparation.

The first county offices began moving into the Hall of Justice last October — a full year behind the scheduled completion date.

McKee claims the delay cost the company $1,417,213.

The attorney's letter was written Friday. On the same day, the county wrote a letter to McKee demanding work on the building be completed.

The $130,078 was withheld from McKee's $9.25 million contract to cover items which were not completed to the satisfaction of the county and the architect, according to Mario Balestrieri, deputy director of public works.

Balestrieri said the county has a four-page list of items which have not been satisfactorily completed. The list includes concrete repairs where the repair doesn't match adjoining surfaces; stained ceilings in two places due to a leak from a fan unit, and tarnished plumbing fixtures and other hardware.

Passengers Hurt On Cable Car Ride

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six passengers hanging from the side of a cable car Tuesday were brushed against an illegally parked automobile and injured.

The accident happened at Jackson and Hyde streets when the cable car rounded a curve and passed too close to the car, police said.

All those injured were standing on the ancient vehicle's running board.

Dorothy Slattery, 45, of Rocky River, Ohio, suffered serious leg injuries. Her daughter, Mary Jo, 12, suffered a fractured ankle; and Mrs. Slattery's husband, J.J. Slattery, 44, suffered minor injuries.

The others, all with minor injuries, were Elizabeth Padnar, 23, Joliet, Ill.; James Green, 25, San Francisco; and William Nobsek, 24, San Francisco.

Tires Stolen

Two tires, valued at $116, were removed from a car owned by Joan Francis Ziegler of 160 Prince Royal Passage while it was parked at the 5639 Paradise Drive home of Kenneth Frank Toscanini prior to 9:07 a.m. yesterday, Corte Madera police reported.

Closing Festival Was A 'Bargain'

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Gov. Dewey Bartlett said it cost the state $22,500 to close the Turner Falls rock festival before it began. The governor says it was a bargain.

"This was far less than it would have been if we had tried to provide services for the 30,000 persons," Bartlett said Tuesday. "But far more important is the fact we maintained respect for law enforcement."

He also said it was good field training for National Guard troops who patrolled the area to keep festival goers away from the park.

Supersonic Jet Fund Dumping Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of a potential $3 billion throwaway, a joint Senate-House panel today strongly recommended the federal government stop financing development of the supersonic transport (SST) plane.

The joint economic subcommittee said "no further financial support of the supersonic transport development program is justified at this time."

In a report based on hearings held in May, the subcommittee concluded "few significant public benefits" appear likely to accrue from the SST and added "more productive uses of government resources are clearly available."

Of the subcommittee's 10 members, only Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, objected. He said "the same kind of thinking . . . would have kept the American government . . . from developing transcontinental railroads or President Kennedy 10 years ago from undertaking a program to reach the moon."

The SST would be designed to carry about 300 passengers at 1,800 miles per hour — far above the speed of sound. Supporters of the project have said it is necessary to keep the United States in competition with an SST being built by France and Britain. Critics have said it would become a plaything of the jet set and add to noise pollution.

The report said there was no satisfactory evidence the production phase of the SST can be financed entirely from private sources.

"If the SST program is continued, the total cost to the government is likely to reach $3 billion or more," the report said. "there is little reason to believe that the government will earn a reasonable rate of return on its investment.

"It is entirely possible that the government will recover none of this investment," the subcommittee added.

The government also noted that between $800 million and $700 million has already been spent on the SST prototype and the Nixon administration has requested an additional $290 million for fiscal 1971.

"If the program is terminated now, the cost to the government, while large, would be only a fraction of the eventual total costs of prototype development," it said.

Recycling Drive Set By Ecology Center

A recycling drive run by the Marin Ecology Center has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the College of Marin parking lot adjacent to the administration building on College Avenue.

Newspapers cross-tied, flattened aluminum cans, tin cans crushed with the ends inside and crushed glass separated by color will be accepted, according to the center.

Program To Discuss Courtroom Security

More security in our courtrooms and how to accomplish it will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" by a panel including Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin; a former Marin district attorney, Albert E. Bagshaw, and Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. Fourth panelist is to be announced.

Questions may be phoned during the live broadcast tomorrow. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast by tape, Sunday at 10:05 a.m.

Kappas Wins Right To Build New Piers

George Kappas is entitled to install new piers and berths for 35 houseboats that are now tied up along dilapidated piers at Gate 6½ in Richardson Bay, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and his deputy, Joseph A. Forest, told the board that Kappas has a legal right to continue the houseboat colony there because it was in use before the county's houseboat ordinance went into effect in December 1968.

It was because of this ruling by the county counsel that the county planning commission approved the 35 berths for Kappas last July 13.

The Marin Conservation League appealed the planning commission approval yesterday before the county supervisors on grounds that the houseboat colony at Gate 6½ sits in the middle of a marina green and open water proposed in the county's specific plan for Richardson Bay.

Supervisors lacked the three votes needed to reverse the planning commission. Chairman John F. McInnis was on business in San Francisco, and Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. is on vacation.

Supervisors Michael Wornum and William A. Gnoss voted to oust the houseboats from Gate 6½ and put them in Kappas' property at Gate 6, where 70 more houseboats now exist.

However, acting chairman Louis H. Baar refused to go along. He argued that Kappas already has the legal right to keep houseboats there, and new berths and improvements would be an asset. "He (Kappas) is doing exactly what we have been asking him to do for two years," said Baar. "The new installation will be an asset to the area."

"If we vote yes on this," Wornum objected, "we should also vote to reject the specific plan for Richardson Bay.

Maloney ruled that without three votes, the supervisors could not act, which means that the planning commission's approval of the houseboat colony at Gate 6½ stands.

Mary Summers and Harold E. Gregg, representing the Marin Conservation League, then urged the supervisors to continue the hearing until all five supervisors are present. But Maloney pointed out that yesterday's was the last meeting in which to act on the league's appeal. Any continuance would be possible only with consent from Kappas, said Maloney.

"We oppose such a continuance," declared Hugh G. Lawrence, attorney for Kappas.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell produced a 1966 aerial photograph of Richardson Bay, showing that Kappas's Gate 6½ had only about 11 or 12 houseboats moored there at the time. Von Gundell urged the supervisors to eliminate houseboats from Gate 6½ or at least limit the number to 11 or 12.

The county counsel replied that the density of houseboats was not set until the houseboat ordinance was approved in December of 1968, and the 35 houseboats conform with provisions of he 1968 ordinance.

Houseboat residents, headed by Charles Whitlock, declared that they had spent thousands of dollars in an effort to meet county codes. If the county now forced them to move to another area, that would be harassment, the residents argued.

Under Joe McCarthy, the Yankees won eight pennants and seven world series.

Limited Bridgeway Parking Extended

The Sausalito City Council — awaiting one parking proposal from a businessmen's group and wishing to study another — agreed last night to continue its current limited parking experiment on downtown Bridgeway for another 60 days.

The decision means that six parking spaces on the street between Princess and Anchor streets, interspersed by planter boxes, will remain until the council can agree on a permanent parking plan for the area.

In a calm meeting, which contrasted sharply with recnt heated discussions on the subject of downtown parking, the council heard a proposal from the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce to reinstate 24 spaces on the two-block portion of Bridgeway.

Presented by William Remak, the plan calls for one red zone for every two parking pasces on both sides of the street. The zones, located between each set of two parking areas, would allow parking without backing in, according to Remak, and thus speed traffic flow.

He told the council the additional spaces, though less than the 32 parking places on Bridgeway before the ban, would help merchants whose businesses are suffering because of insufficient parking for customers.

Traffic consultant Gerald Wood of Wilbur Smith and Associates, hired by the Sausalito Businessmen's Association, informed the council of a traffic-pedestrian survey he had made in July.

Wood said his survey revealed that 430 vehicles an hour headed north on Bridgeway during peak traffic hours and 1,766 pedestrians crossed the downtown portion of the street each hour.

The consultant noted that virtually all of the 800 parking spaces within a half-mile of the two-block area were filled and contributed to the traffic jam. He said he would present a final report and recommendations after he had had time to study the chamer's proposal.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser voted against continuing the present limited parking experiment. After hearing reports from the chamber and members of the city staff that the plan left something to be desired, Fraser moved to return to the city's original proposal to ban all parking on that part of the street.

"I don't know how you can stay with this when businessmen and city staff agree the plan is not effective," Fraser said.

Councilman Robin Sweeny admitted the plan "has not been managed as well as it should have been." A slightly red-faced council learned last night that its ordinance setting forth parking rules in the new 20-minute spaces in the area could not be enforced because it did not include any time limit for the parking.

"I think it is nigh onto impossible at this time to properly evaluate how well the plan has worked," she said, adding the impact of the new ferryboat system has not yet been determined.

The council, over objections by Fraser that it was abdicating its responsibilities, agreed to form a committee of six to study the parking situation, then report back.

The committee will include H. Eric Borgwardt, city planning director; Norman Wohlschlaeger, city engineer; Mrs. Sweeny and three persons chosen by the business community.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

BOND SALE — Passed a resolution offering for sale $560,000 worth of bonds, approved by voters in June, for city purchase of waterfront land. Bids on the bonds will be opened Sept. 15.

BUILDING USE — Upheld a city planning commission decision to allow Frank Werber's commercial building at 660 Bridgeway to be used for any businesses now permitted in the central commercial business district zone. Previously, use was limited to seven specific kinds of businesses.

NEW SIGN—Approved an encroachment permit for the Sausalito Sweet Shop for a new overhanging sign.

NEWSPAPER RACK — Overruled the planning commission by denying an encroachment permit to Mark Thompson for a newspaper rack in the public right-of-way at 705 Bridgeway.

HEARING — Set Sept. 1 at 8 p.m. for a hearing on planning commission denial of a proposed zone change on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge. The change, requested by developers Frank Lynchand E.R. Fitzsimmons, would pave the way for apartment development in the area.

PARKING CUT — Agreed to eliminate between three and four parking spaces between 127 and 149 Crescent Avenue because parking on certain parts of the narrow street makes passage of city fire vehicles difficult.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Asked city staff to prepare a report on the amount of animal control the Marin County Humane Society provides for Sausalito, compared with other cities in the county

PARK IMPROVEMENTS — Approved two plans, presented by the city engineer for improvements, including lawn, trees and picnic tables, for Carl Gabrielson Park and the mini-park at the foot of Humboldt Avenue.

BUS CHANGE — Granted a request by Greyhound Lines for minor route changes to make Sausalito, rather than Marin City, the connecting point between the city and other Southern Marin cities.

STORAGE AREA — Signed a lease with the Sausalito School District to allow the city to store tennis equipment in a building at Martin Luther King Shcool.

YOUTH CENTER — Agreed to pay Paul Kozak, who acted as director of the youth center when the director was on vacation, a full-time salary at $2.64 an hour and pay two youth supervisors, Charle Weckler and Mark Peckham, on a part-time basis at $1.76 an hour.

CITY HALL — Asked the Sausalito Community Appearance Board to present a plan for repainting and refurbishing of city hall at an estimated cost of $1,300.

NOISE POLLUTION — Agreed to ask city staff to prepare a report on noise problems in Sausalito, with an eye to some type of noise ordinance.

701 Planning Session Reset For Tomorrow

A proposal that the Marin City Community Services District take over control of the 701 planning program in Marin City will be discussed by the district board at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center.

District directors and the Marin City Council, which has jurisdiction of community planning in Marin City, were scheduled to discuss the proposal at a joint session last night, but it was canceled because neither body had a quorum.

Also on the district's agenda tomorrow will be discussion about ownership of a site selected for a new firehouse between the Rosa Building and Drake Avenue. It had been assumed the land was owned by the district, but there has been a report that a portion is owned by the Marin County Housing Authority.

Nixon Asks Approval On '25 Gas Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon formally asked the Senate today to approve the 1925 Geneva agreement banning wartime use of poison gas and bacteriological weapons.

He said the agreement would not ban the use of napalm, chemical defoliation herbicides, tear gas or flame throwers.

The President sent his request to the Senate almost nine months after announcing he would seek ratification of the pact that the United States has observed since its inception but never signed.

AN INDECISION

The delay was apparently caused by indecision within the administration over what to do about tear gas, defoliants and napalm, which are used extensively in Vietnam.

The Geneva protocol prohibits use of chemical and germ agents in war and last November, the U.N. General Assembly decided this included herbicides and non-lethal irritant gases.

However, the Nixon administration pointed out that of the 85 parties which have signed the agreement, 39 governments —including France, Russia, and England — ratified the treaty with reservations.

Senate ratification requires a two-thirds vote of approval.

REVIEW IN 1969

Nixon announced Nov. 25 the National Security Council had completed an extensive review of U.S. chemical and biological warfare programs and said the United States would unilaterally renounce the use and production of biological agents.

He also said his administration would seek the necessary Senate advise and consent for the Geneva protocol, in line with stated U.S. policy of not being the first to use chemical weapons in conflict.

Ironically, it was the United States in 1925 which sought the ban on chemical and biological methods of war. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee later reported favorably on the protocol but it never was brought up for a vote.

Two More Federal Court Suits Will Test 18-Year-Old Voting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government filed suits against New Hampshire and North Carolina in lower federal courts today to provide a further test of the constitutionality of a law extending the right to vote to 18-year-olds.

The suits are also involve a ban on literacy tests and residency requirements contained in legislation lowering the voting age in all states to 18.

The government filed suits directly in the Supreme Court Monday against Arizona and Idaho. Today's actions were designed to assure court consideration at lower levels if the Supreme Court should refuse to accept the Arizona and Idaho cases.

In a separate action, the Justice Department filed a memorandum urging the Supreme Court to consolidate for a single hearing cases involving Arizona, Idaho, Texas and Oregon. It suggested briefs be filed by Sept. 10 on the merits, and briefs for argument by Oct. 5, so that the Court could hear the case during the month of October.

Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell said the suits, filed in U.S. District Courts in Concord, N.H., and Raleigh, N.C., asked that special three-judge courts be convened to hear the cases.

The courts also were asked to order the states to allow otherwise qualified illiterates to register as voters in the Nov. 3 elections.

The four states are the only ones of 14 with literacy tests that refused to comply with the new law.

residency requirement to 30 mated there were 16,412 illiterates of voting age in New Hampshire and 421,905 in North Carolina. However, only 61 counties in North Carolina are affected by the lawsuits. The rest were covered by the original 1965 Voting Rights ban on literacy tests.

The new law also shortens all residency requirement to 30 days for voting in presidential elections.

Man Jailed After Wild Auto Chase

A San Francisco motorist, arrested last Feb. 28 after a wild auto chase on Highway 101 which involved the patrol cars of three Marin municipalities, has been sentenced to 10 days in county jail by Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Judge Smith also ordered Donald Max Bales, 27, on probation for 18 months and to make restitution for damages resulting from the chase.

Bales originally had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon for aiming his car at a Larkspur police officer, drunken driving, leaving the scene of an accident, posessing a loaded revolver in his auto and reckless driving. All but the reckless driving and leaving the scene charges were dismissed in May.

Bales told investigators he thought he was being chased by would-be robbers during his flight on Highway 101.

Bill Extends Jurisdiction On Pollution

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature has sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan a bill extending the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Area Air Pollution Control district into Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

Final approval occurred Tuesday when the Senate voted narrow 21-11 passage to a bill by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond.

Sen. Fred Marler, R-Redding, urged defeat on ground that it was "inappropriate" for the district to extend itself as deeply into the Sacramento Valley just west of Davis. The eastern Solano County area is a rich farming area where agricultural burning occurs.

The Senate version of the Knox bill excluded the eastern portion of the county from the district's jurisdiction, but exemption was removed and the bill restored to its original shape by a two-house conference committee.

Transfer Of Pupil Depends On Tuition

The Fairfax School District learned last night transfer of a Fairfax pupil to the Mill Valley School District would be accepted by Mill Valley only if Fairfax pays tuition for the student.

The reason given by the Mill Valley district, Fairfax Supt. H. Reginald Hammond told his board, was the same Mill Valley gave in rejecting the transfer of 17 Sausalito pupils: lack of finances.

The Marin County Board of Education is considering an appeal of the Mill Valley rejection by the parents of the Sausalito students.

While the Sausalito parents said they were dissatisfied with the Sausalito district, Hammond said the reason for the Fairfax transfer application was a baby-sitting arrangment worked out by the pupil's parents.

The Fairfax board approved the application at an earlier meeting, and last night approved a no-tuition transfer agreement for a pupil in Lagunitas School District to attend a Fairfax school this year.

The board also approved an agreement with Wells Fargo Bank for the lease-purchase of portable walls for White Hill School over a four-year period at an estimated cost of $16,000, Hammond said.

Average Home Income Increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two of every five households in the nation had incomes of over $10,000 last year, the government reported today. The nation's median household income rose 8.3 per cent to $8,390.

The Commerce Department said 25 million of the 62.9 million household in the nation earned more than $10,000 last year, an increase of 3.7 million from 1968. Of those, 10.4 million had incomes over $15,000.

At the other end of the scale, the number of households earning less than $3,000 declined by 600,000 to 10.2 million or 16.2 per cent of the total.

The median income for white households was $8,760 compared with $5,290 for Negro households.

The median income is at the midpoint of the scale, with half the households earning more and half less. A household is defined as all persons, related or not, living in a single house or apartment.

The department reported earlier that median family income was $9,400 last year. The household income figure is lower because it includes some one-person households.

Remedial Reading Review Scheduled

The Shoreline Unified School District board will consider continuing participation in the county cooperative project for remedial reading instruction at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow at the district administration office in Tomales.

Also planned are consideration of hiring a French teacher for Tomales High School and a report on the teacher in-service training program.

Suspension For 10 Days To Be Asked

A Marin Sheriff's inspector will be recommended for usupension without pay for 10 days because of a series of patrol car accidents during the past 11 years.

Inspector Kenneth L. Irving, 38, of Nicasio, will appear before the county safety commission tomorrow at 9 a.m. in Room 400 of the Civic Center.

The recommendation for disciplinary action will come from Richard I. Uchida, senior personnel analyst, who is commission secretary.

Uchida said the cost of the six automobile accidents involving Irving during the past 11 years totalled $4,242.

The latest occurred March 12 no Nicasio Road near the Howard Ranch. His patrol car went off the road and severed a utility pole. Irving left his patrol car on the shoulder of the road and returned home without reporting the mishap, said Uchida. A highway patrol officer spotted the car the next morning and filed an accident report.

Irving blamed faulty steering and minimal tire treads.

Uchida said an inspection by mechanics turned up no defect that would make the car handle improperly.

Release Of POWs Urged By Reinecke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke signed and mailed a letter to the North Vietnamese today urging them to release American prisoners of war to "show the world you are concerned with life."

The letter was written in Vietnamese by a San Diego resident born in the Asian country. A reprint of the letter was carried by The San Diego Union in a full-page plea to Hanoi.

Water Board Sets Survey Of Aqueduct

The North Marin County Water District board last night approved an agreement with financial consultants Stone and Youngberg of San Francisco for a preliminary survey of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct Project.

First phase of the survey will cost $10,000, to be split among the Sonoma Water Authority, Marin Municipal Water District and North Marin County Water District board under a joint powers agreement.

The proposed Sonoma-Marin aqueduct has been planned to run from the Russian River through Sebastopol, Cotati, Rohnert Park, Petaluma and Novato to Mill Valley to bring new water supplies into the area.

The board also approved annexation of the 109-acre Tomales Bay farm property or Herbert Angress located north of Marshall, and authorized Eugene S. Churchill, manager, to negotiate for purchase of a 2.4-acre site for a five-million gallon enclosed steel reservoir to serve the lower zone (below 100 feet elevation) of Novato.

Sandblasting May Be Bay Area Threat

Sandblasting operations on the Golden Gate Bridge pose an "environmental threat" to the Bay Area, San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn said yesterday.

The sandblasting dumps almost three tons of red lead paint in the bay and into the air each week, the supervisor said in a letter to the general manager of the bridge district, Dale W. Luehring.

Mendelsohn suggested that some sort of giant vacuum cleaner be provided to prevent the blasted paint from escaping into the bay and air. Luehring could not be reached to comment on the matter.

He also wrote that he had asked the state Fish and Game Department and San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board to investigate the "dangerous red lead fallout."

Mendelsohn noted that the sandblasting — to propare for an application of a long-lasting zinc silicate compound — was to continue on the bridge until 1980.

Eisenhower Aide Named By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today named John N. Irwin II, an assistant secretary of defense during the Eisenhower administration and a New York lawyer, as undersecretary of state.

Irwin, 56, succeeds Elliot L. Richardson in the No. 2 position in the State Department. Richardson was appointed earlier this summer to succeed Robert H. Finch as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Irwin, a Republican, will receive a salary of $42,500. His nomination must be approved by the Senate.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Disorders Of Nervous System Having Unexplained Increase

Nervous system disorders have become more common. Very little was written about them in the past, possibly because the medical profession was more interested in organic ailments. Or perhaps nervousness was not considered an abnormality. It could be that the symptoms produced by nervous feelings or weak nerves were attributed to other conditions.

Dozens of symptoms of emotional origin resemble those caused by a diseased organ. For example, nausea and vomiting may stem from an attack of appendicitis, peptic ulcer or an inflamed gallbadder. But the manifestations also may follow an unpleasant experience. I have known many persons with sensitive nerves to have a trying day followed by insomnia and vomiting the greater part of the next day. Others develop headache or diarrhea.

BUT THERE ARE many more subtle manifestations of an unstable nervous system. These are more easily described than explained and usually involve behavior. People who are eccentric, fickle, difficult, hostile, dictatorial and unpleasant fall into this category.

The same can be said of those with a selfish desire for sympathy and the attention of others. Stuttering and tics also are of nervous origin. Antisocial character disorders including sexual perversions should be added to the list.

NERVOUSNESS CAN cause distress that varies from slight to disabling. So long as the distress does not preoccupy the thoughts and actions of the individual, they are considered normal. Depression and anxiety are the best examples. Every one of us has had these emotions; but when they persist, disrupt productive living or start for no reason, they are abnormal.

We do not know why nervous disorders are on the increase. No longer are they confined to the better ranks in life. They now are extending into the poorer classes. One authority blames too much freedom and too much wealth. In this regard, the welfare state may bring on more unhappiness than good.

FIRST AID FOR CHOKING

S.R. writes: What is the best first aid for a person who is choking on food?

REPLY

Encourage coughing. Other measures include a finger down the throat to induce vomiting, or reclining with the head lower than the pelvin. Slapping the victim on the back is usually recommended but it has drawbacks. With the first slap, the individual might gasp and force the bolus of food further into the lungs.

40 STEPS A DAY

A reader writes: Is it safe for a person suffering from coronary insufficiency to go up and down 40 steps every day?

REPLY

Yes, unless the activity induces chest pain or shortness of breath. Many individuals with angina pectoris, of necessity, have to climb stairs; they take it easy and stop for a moment or two at each landing.

AGE AND EAR SURGERY

E.A. writes: Is a man of 70 too old to have an ear operation for otosclerosis? He developed the condition many years ago.

REPLY

The man is not too old, but ear tests would be needed to determine whether the operation will improve his hearing.

No Results Reached In County Talks

Marin County's Sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers emerged from a bargaining session today with County Administrator Alan Bruce and reported they are still deadlocked on new salaries and benefits.

"They (the county team) came up with a proposal quite a bit lower than our request," said Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, which is bargaining for the 210 safety employees. Sheriff's deputies are holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise, and county firemen, 10 per cent.

Prevo, Sheriff's Sgt. Wade Powell, and Robert Testa of the county fire department met with Bruce, Senior Personnel Aanlyst Richard I. Uchida, and Deputy County Counsel George Silvestri Jr.

Prevo said the county team headed by Bruce came up with a counter proposal which will be presented to individual members of the safety employees in the form of secret ballots. Bruce declined to discuss his proposal.

Another Bomb Hoax Clears BBC Studio

LONDON (UPI) — The British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) ordered the audience out of the studio and sent its disc jockey to another broadcasting station today because of an anonymous bomb threat.

It was the latest in a series of bomb hoaxes that have kept police busy since a bomb apparently intended for a crowded movie theater exploded in a car Sunday and seriously injured a young couple.

Linda Says She Told Her Husband

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Linda Kasabian admitted today that she told her husband about the Tate-LaBianca murders a few days after they occurred but that neither of them made any attempt to contact police,

Under cross examination by Irving Kanarek, the attorney for hippie cult leader Charles Manson, Mrs. Kasabian said that she did not really know how to "go to the police" and tell the story.

"You mean you didn't have the courage to tell the police?" Kanarek asked.

"I don't know."

Kanarek asked her what she told her husband Robert about the slayings a year ago this month.

"I told him Charley flipped and had a whole bunch of people killed," she said. "I said I saw a number of people killed myself."

Kanarek asked the witness whether her husband had not suggested they should contact authorities.

"His reaction was that you got to hurry up and get your little girl out of there," she said. "He didn't see the reality of it."

Army To Aid Rifle Shoot With $70,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army, saying it is acceding to the wishes of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and some members of Congress, will provide more than $70,000 in personnel and equipment for the 1970 World Shooting Championships.

The championship match will be held this year at Black Canyon, Ariz., near Phoenix Oct. 14-26. It is the second time the contest, featuring the world's top marksmen, has been held in this country.

The Army said it would supply 68 officers and enlisted men to "command, control and operate equipment." It also said it would supply a radio communications system, 22 field telephones, four general purpose tents, two first aid stations and two ambulances with qualified medical personnel, four small arms repair vans and four armorers. The Army will pay $62,000 for these services, and the Navy and Air Force will pay an additional $10,000.

Zsa Zsa's Jewels Worth $700,000 Taken By Gunmen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Zsa Zsa Gabor, star of the Broadway show Forty Carats, was robbed of jewelry estimated to be worth $700,000 by two gunmen in an elevator of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel early today, police said.

The actress was not harmed. "I got in the elevator and it was all over in two seconds," she was quoted as saying. "I wasn't going to argue with a gun so I gave them the jewelry and then went upstairs and called the police."

The actress was returning to her suite in the Waldorf Towers with her maid at about 12:45 a.m. when the robbery took place, a press secretary said. Police said the bandits took two 48-caret rings and a set of diamond earrings.

At the stationhouse where Miss Gabor went after reporting the robbery, police said it was their understanding the gems were not insured.

Angry Pole Fires At German Envoys

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 76-year-old native of Poland who said he was upset because of Nazi killings of Poles fired four shots in the West German consulate Tuesday. No one was hit and the man was captured by two menbers of the consulate.

Police said Leon Zelewaski, Bridgeport, Conn., a retired employe of a paper company, fired the shots from a .38 caliber pistol in an alleged attempt to kill Vice Consuls Axel Schwirtz and Werner Keil. All four shots hit a wall, and one was said to have missed Schwirtz' head by just an inch.

NEW COACH — Rev. John Heaney (above) will take over head varsity football coaching duties at Marin Catholic High School this season with former all-pro guard Bruno Banducci of the San Francisco 49ers as his assistant.

Marin Catholic High School will have a new varsity football coaching staff this year consisting of a reverend and a former all-pro San Francisco 49er guard.

Athletic Director Gary Hughes revealed yesterday that Cliff Vattuone, who guided the Wildcats to a record of three wins, four losses and two ties in his first campaign as head coach last year, has decided to step down from the job. He will switch positions with last year's junior varsity coach, Rev. John Heaney.

Father Heaney, whose record with the Jayvees was eight wins against a single loss, will be assisted by Bruno Banducci, a member of the all-time 49er team who played pro from 1946-53 after starring at Stanford.

In announcing his resignation, Vattuone stated that he was stepping down so that he can concentrate on teaching mathematics and history.

"I want to devote more time to my classroom work," he said.

This will be Heaney's first head coaching job, although he has had prior experience on the varsity level. He was an assistant at Sacred Heart High School in San Francisco for two years, and coached the jayvees for two years before that.

Heaney did not make any promises for the 1970 season, but did indicate that his plan is to bring Marin Catholic back into the Marin County Athletic League within the next few years.

"The kids are determined to put Marin Catholic back on the football map," he said. "In a year or two we should be able to compete in the MCAL."

The Wildcats dropped out of the league three years ago and have played football as an independent school since then.

According to Heaney, Banducci will be of great value as a line coach.

This will be Banducci's first year as a coach. Formerly a resident of Menlo Park, he has bought a home in Marin County and intends to make coaching and teaching in Marin a career.

Namath Gives It The Garbo Act

By JOE CARNICELLI

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)— Joe Namath reported to the New York Jets training camp Tuesday, but whether he'll be able to play football remains a question.

Namath, the Jets' tempestuous quarterback, arrived at the team's Hofstra University training site in the early afternoon and after some Greta Garbo type theatrics, said his football career may be decided in the next two weeks.

"Physically, I don't think I'll be able to play," said Namath. "I haven't thrown a ball since December. There are other things more important to me than football now. They say football is No. 1 at this time of year. That's ridiculous. It's not my main concern and it's always been my main concern and that's one problem I have.

"I don't know whether I want to go through it all again. Losing is a horrible experience. Scoring only six points against Kansas City was being humiliated. I don't know if I can go through that anymore. I don't know if I want to be sick. Losing leaves a bad taste. You get a bad feeling. You get the chills."

Namath said his attitude toward football has changed greatly since the Jets dropped the 13-6 decision to the Chiefs in the AFL playoff last season.

"Physically and mentally, my attitude has gotten worse," said Namath. "I now look at the game in a different respect. It used to be my whole life. It used to be everything I lived for. Logically and realistically, it's not now. On the football field it is. You give 110 per cent and everybody strives for one thing—to win. I really don't know if I can play this year—I'll know in the next couple of weeks."

Namath missed 11 days of training and two pre-season exhibition games, citing "personal problems" as his reason. His absence, however, caused middle linebacker Al Atkinson, who co-captains the Jets with Namath, to walk out of camp. Atkinson reported back to camp Monday after injuries to defensive end Gary Philbin and linebacker Mike Stromberg.

"I read what Al said," said Namath, "But I'm not going to go grabbing anything out of the papers. I'm going to talk to Al. We'll talk it out. If a guy like Al feels the way he does about how I acted, then maybe I should have done things differently."

Weeb Eubank, coach of the Jets, said he would have to see Namath's condition before determining how long or if he will play Sunday against the New York Giants in New Haven, Conn.

"We'll have to use some common sense," said Ewbank. "We're not going to throw a guy to the wolves. He always has trouble with his legs early in the season and he always has trouble setting up early. We'll have to see his physical condition and make a decision late in the week. Right now, I wouldn't think of pushing him. It's all contingent on Joe's legs, his physical shape and what the doctor says. There'll be no crash program for him."

Namath refused to answer reporters' questions after entering the Jets' training quarters, going directly to his room. He unpacked, picked up a new pair of white football shoes and left for a team meeting.

Five uniformed police helped Namath squirm through a crowd of 1,000 spectators at the afternoon workout. He threw lightly for about five minutes before practice and was an observer through most of the 90-minute session.

Hazeltine Miserable In Comeback Attempt

Word from New York is that ex-49er Matt Hazeltine may be having second thoughts about his comeback with the N.Y. Giants at age 37.

A close friend of the former Tamalpais High School star told me: "I talked to Matt after the San Diego game the other night and he's just plain miserable. He's second string — something he's not used to — and doesn't get to play much. He played only briefly against San Diego and hurt his leg.

"But this comeback is just something he had to try. You know, he looks great and felt great when he reported to training camp, but it's rough trying to make the grade at the age of 37 when you're up against kids 15 years younger. I don't think Matt would be disappointed if the Giants release him. At least he tried — and found out it's much tougher than he thought."

Matt retired after the 1968 season after 14 sterling years with the 49ers.

MARTIN BACCAGLIO of Novato appears to be a lead-pipe cinch to win a starting job as defensive end with the team's training camp in Wilmington, Ohio.

Assistant coach Chuch Studley already has tabbed Martin a leading candidate as a starting member of the front four, observing:

"There are several basic differences between the 1969 and 1970 defensive lines. The overall quickness and speed is much better, the capacity to learn and adjust is immeasurably better and the enthusiasm and aggressiveness reminds me a great deal of a college team rather than the pros. It appears to be a young, quick, intelligent and aggressive front four."

Yep, He's All Those Things

Those of us who know Martin Baccaglio can readily understand how he perfectly fits into that picture. He's all those things rolled into one great guy.

SPEAKING OF talented Novatans, baseballer John Dolinsek slumped sharply last week but his .310 batting average for the Columbus, Ga. Astros continues to lead the Class AA Southern League.

Reports on other Marin pros: Tom Corder of Novato is batting .236 and Dewey Forry of San Rafael is at .263 for the Ogden, Utha Dodgers of the Pioneer Rookie League; Ken Johnson of Larkspur is batting .251 at Kinston, N.C.; and pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato has a 3-3 record for the Greenwood, S.C. Braves in the Class A West Carolinas League.

AFTER READING Fish and Game warden columnist Al Giddings' dissertation on mini-skirts in yesterday's I-J I may change the name of his column to "Fun and Games." And I always thought Big Al was an OUTDOOR sport.

MARIN MAY have two starting offensive guards for the Washington State Cougars within the next three seasons, according to word out of Pullman, Wash.

Lando, a 6-2, 235-pounder, was a starting tackle for the undefeated frosh team last season, but will be tried out at guard ". . . to give him more of a chance to play," according to Coach Jim Sweeney.

And Kasprzak, 6-2 and 205 pounds, appears fully recovered from the knee injury that kept him out of spring practice. "He should be well this fall," said Sweeney, "and will provide competition for a starting guard position."

Hitless A's In Trouble

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI)—All of a sudden the Oakland A's are in trouble.

Five days ago there were riding high and seemingly had a fine chance to overhaul the slumping Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

Today, after dropping a 3-1 decision to the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night, they are in desperate need of some hitting help.

Since last Friday they have dropped five of six games, three to such star pitchers as Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Mickey Lolich, all lefthanders. In the stretch, they have managed only 23 hits.

Lolich topped them on just five singles Tuesday night and got all the help he needed from Dalton Jones and Mickey Stanley as Chuck Dobson went down to his first defeat since the All Star break.

Lolich had his curve under control, and that made the difference.

"When my curve is working I'm a pretty good pitcher," said Lolich. "When it isn't, I'm in trouble."

EIGHT WHIFFS

Lincoln struck out eight A's—Reggie Jackson three times—and walker three as he snapped a personal losing streak of two and gained his 11th triumph compared to 14 losses.

The A's loaded the bases with one out in the eighth and did not score. In the ninth, they finally broke through for their only run but only because Detroit third baseman Don Wert made an error.

Florida Sun Proves Tonic For Injury-Riddled 49ers

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Florida sunshine is proving beneficial to a group of hobbling San Francisco 49er football players.

Four veterans who have seen little or nor action so far this season resumed practice Tuesday and three of them could see action Saturday night in an exhibition game against the Miami Dolphins.

Only guard Kevin Hardy, knocked unconscious 10 days ago during a blocking drill, probably won't play. He resumed one-on-one drills for the first time Tuesday.

LIMITED ACTION

Others who probably will see limited action are fullback Ken Willard, tackle Cas Banaszek and defensive end Bill Belk. Willard has begun to run on his sore foot.

"He may go Saturday," said coach Dick Nolan. "We'll have to see how much his foot swells."

A crowd of 75,000 is expected in the Orange Bowl to watch two former Heisman Trophy candidates—Bob Griese of Miami and Steve Spurrier of San Francisco—direct their teams from the quarterback slot. Spurrier was born in Miami and became an All American and Heisman winner at the University of Florida.

Nolan said he may start Spurrier in a head-to-head battle with Griese and use John Brodie in the second half.

Assistant 49er Coach Mike Giddings revealed he received an invitation from a coaching friend to have the Prospectors play an exhibition in the Orient next year.

Art Johnson, assistant to the president of the 49ers, said the possibility of such a trip was "possible but not very probable."

Garibaldi Leads PCL–By Default

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Garibaldi of Phoenix leads PCL pitchers in latest figures, but he got a big assist from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers bought season-long PCL earned run king Charlie Hough of Spokane to bolster their bullpen squad so Garibaldi took over by default with a 2.58 earned run mark. Garibaldi is also the league workhorse with 17 complete games and 223 innings pitched.

Jerry Stephenson of Spokane and Dennis Bennett of Hawaii have won 15 games each to share the lead in that department in games through last Sunday.

Giant Rook Roughed Up By Pirates

A week ago the 20-year-old hurler pitched 6 1-3 scoreless innings of relief against the Cubs to pick up his first major league victory. He wasn't so fortunate Tuesday night in the Pirates' new Riverfront Stadium.

Carrithers entered the game in the seventh inning with Pittsburgh leading 3-2 and exited four batters later with the Giants trailing 6-2 which, incidentally, was the final score.

FOURTH APPEARANCE

The young pitcher, making only his fourth big league appearance, walked Dave Cash and Roberto Clemente singled. Matty Sanguillen singled home Cash and was thrown out in a rundown.

Then Bob Robertson belted a two-run homer off Carrithers. Robertson also tripled home a run in the Pirates' three-run third inning off San Francisco starter Skip Pitlock, now 3-4.

The loss snapped a four-game win streak of the Giants and lest them with a 5-4 record on the current road trip.

TOUR ENDS

San Francisco closes out its 10-game tour tonight at Pittsburgh against Luke Walter (10-3) Juan Marichal, looking sharper with each outing, will try to improve on his 6-9 record.

The Giants have an off day Thursday before opening a nine-game homestand Friday

Millionaire Coach Returns To Baseball

PITTSBURGH — Happy Herman Franks now is baseball's only millionaire coach once again. He used to be baseball's only millionaire manager. Next to making money, Franks loves baseball best. He just can't stay away from the game. He jumped at Alvin Dark's invitation to return to the game after Dark was appointed manager of the Giants in 1961.

Franks left the Giants at the end of the 1958 season during which old Seal Stadium fans gave him quite a riding for an inability as third base coach to stop Orlando Cepeda and other exuberant rookies of that team from running through his traffic stops.

NO THIRD base coach could have stopped the rampant rookies from being thrown out at the plate without tackling them. But Franks deeply resented the suggestion that Seals Stadium fans ran him out of San Francisco.

"Nobody ever ran me out of any place," roared Franks. "I'm going back to Salt Lake City to take care of my business that has a future in it."

INDEED, FRANKS' business did have a future — a most profitable one. He built mobile homes and sold them as fast as they came off his assembly line which in a few years was manned by 150 men.

So Franks became a millionaire. Just before Dark's call came, Franks had promised his wife, Ami, and their three children a trip to Europe. Franks kept his promise while accepting Dark's offer to become his chief coach. He reported late for spring training that year.

FROM 1961-64 Dark ran the Giants as they had never been run before. Dark never visited Horace Stoneham. The president of the club didn't like that. Stoneham bounced Dark at the end of the 1964 season and put Franks in as manager.

Franks ran the Giants from 1965-68 as a sideline to his mobile home business. He gave the team his full attention, of course, on the field. But off it, he clipped coupons. It became frustrating and monotonous to finish No. 2 three years in a row. At the outset of the 1968 season Franks said he'd step aside if he didn't finish on top. He kept his word after a fourth No. 2 finish. Stoneham didn't try to persuade him to stay.

ONCE AGAIN he returned to the serene surroundings of Salt Lake City. Even the business of making money in mobile homes began to bore him. That took some doing, considering Franks' love of money. He sold the business for a handsome profit, of course.

When Leo Durocher's call came the other day, Franks was planning a fishing trip to Great Slave Lake in Canada. He was catching limits in the mountain streams around Salt Lake. He even made a trip to the Jackson Hole country to catch limits there.

BUT SOMEBODY told him that eight-pound trout were thrown back by Great Slave Lake sportsmen because they were too small. However, Franks may never get a chance to check out that fishing tale. He's back in baseball now. Durocher's invitation to join the Cubs as a coach was one Franks knew couldn't be put off for any delayed acceptance as was Dark's.

The Cubs are in a pennant race. So Franks cancelled his plane reservations for Canada and got a ticket for Chicago.

"We've been down this road twice before this season," said A's manager John McNamara, referring to the team's sudden lack of hitting. "We'll just have to bounce back again, which we showed we could do last week."

Diego Segui, a pitcher who has had his problems of late, goes for the A's tonight as they try to fight their way back from a six-game deficit, eight on the loss side. Mike Kilkenney pitches for the Tigers, who have a four game winning streak.

Dobson had won eight in a row since the All Star Game but he didn't have much going for him Tuesday night. The Tigers reached him for eight hits in eight innings but some of the couts were solid smashes to the fences.

A double by Jones and a single by Stanley produced Detroit's first run in the third. Jones hit his fourth homer for the second run in the seventh and Wert drove in the third tally in the eighth with a double after two walks.

Five Marin Girls In National Swim

Four girls from the Marin Aquatic Club and Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin will be this county's represenatives in the AAU Senior National long course swimming championships beginning tomorrow at the Los Angeles Swim Stadium.

Jo Hislop and Denise Ham of the MAC will swim individual events and combine with Kathy Hislop and Ann Engel in the 400-meter freestyle relay.

The senior nationals ranks as one of the most prestigious swimming meets in the world. No event except the Olympics has lower qualifying times. Among the national champions and record holders who will compete are Dave Edgar of Florida, the worlds fastest swimmer, Mark Spitz of Indiana and fabulous Debbie Meyer of Arden Hills (Sacramento).

BUSY GIRL

Miss Bachrach will swim in four events, the most of any Marin entry: The 100 and 200 butterfly, and the 200 and 400 individual medleys.

Miss Ham will swim in both fly events also, plus the 200 I.M. Miss Hislop's event will be the 100 freestyle.

The Swim Stadium, located near the USC campus, is considered by many to be the fastest pool in the country. The depth of the pool, its non-turbulent racing lanes, the gutter construction and maintenance of water level are all fators that contribute to the reputation.

This year the meet will include consolation finals, in which the second eight finishers will receive points. MAC coach Don Schwartz predicts that if his girls can equal their best times, they will score points for the club.

BOATING

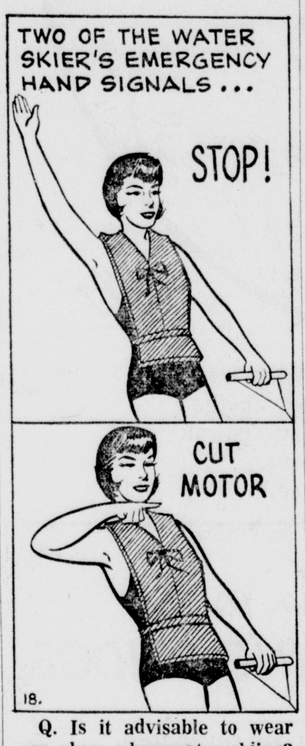
Water Skiers: Your Driver Is Your Life

A word of advice to water skiers: Pick the driver of your tow boat carefully. Your life may be in his hands. It's a very important consideration because of the phenomenal growth of the sport (there are better than 100,000 new devotees every year). Since there are so many novices in the game, it seems to have more than its share of accidents.

Now, it must be admitted that water skiing accidents are very seldom fatal, or even serious. But there is such a rash of minor injuries every weekend across the country that it attracts attention.



ALTHOUGH THE skier is always the victim, after examining reports of some of the accidents I find that the boat driver often is more to blame.

For instance, here are a couple of recent examples. A skier fell in shallow water and broke her collarbone. In another case a skier hit a piece of driftwood, fell and struck his head on another piece. He went to the hospital.

Now a skier can't go into shallow water or through a mass of floating driftwood unless the boat takes him there. So skiers take note. If you have a choice about someone to drive the boat which will tow you, select a person who is a water skier himself. He'll know the dangers.

THE SKIER will have taken some instruction on dry land in order to get the feel of the skis on his feet and the pull of the rope. This helps his balance. But it is just as essential that the boat driver take a little instruction beforehand on the manipulation of the boat and an understanding of the skiers' signals.

That there are many areas of uncertainty about water skiing is evident from the questions I've been asked this year:

Q. Where are the laws covering water skiing rules and regulations?

A. They are in the Boating Act of each state. All are getting more stringent each year. Read yours carefully.

A. Are there severe penalties?

A. Very much so. Careless or reckless operation of a ski-tow boat is regarded very seriously everywhere. Fines range up to $2,000 with six months in jail. If a fatality results, the charge is manslaughter in some states.

Q. Can I fasten the tow rope to one place on the transom of the boat?

A. It's not a good idea. The best thing is a bridle with the tow line tied to a pully or a ring which slides along the bridle. This makes for better steering of the boat.

Q. Is it all right to use plain rope as a tow rope?

A. Yes. The only reason the new fangled plastics are so popular is that they float. It's easier to see the rope and pick it up.

Q. Can I pull a skier with a 7½ hp motor?

A. It can be done, with a very light flat bottom boat and a very light water skier, say 100 pounds. Generally 10 hp is the least power that's recommended.

Q. Is it possible to ski in rough water?

A. Yes. But it's more dangerous and not for novices.

Q. What causes the most accidents?

A. The Safety officials ay it's stunting without proper instruction or experience. Hitting docks or boats, or falling in shallow water causes the most serious accidents.

Q. Who invented water skis?

A. A patent was issued Oct. 25, 1927 to Fred Waller, the man who later invented Cinerama.

Q. Is a life jacket or life belt compulsory when water skiing?

A. No. But wearing one is a very good idea, because in the event of a fall the skier may be knocked unconscious.

Q. Is it advisable to wear ear plugs when water skiing?

A. Medical authorities say no. They may be forced into the ear in the event of a fall.

Q. How about a bathing cap?

A. Bathing caps are good. Statistics show that more men suffer ruptured ear drums in bad falls than women . . . because more of the latter wear bathing caps.

Q. Does the boat have to go faster in slalom skiing?

A. Not necessarily. It depends on the area of the ski and weight of the skier. But in tournament slalom, the boat makes the first run at 28 mph, the last at 34 mph.

Q. How late in the year can you safely water ski?

A. Until winter . . . if you wear a skin diver's wet suit. It will keep you warm even if you fall in freezing water. A lot of the professionals extend their practice season this way.

Q. What are the skier's emergency signals?

A. A raised arm means Stop! Drawing the hand across the throat in a cutting motion is a more urgent demand to "cut the motor." These are the two main emergency skiers' signals.

Yachts Resume Trials

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—The final U.S. America's Cup Trials, suddenly but not unexpectedly a three-yacht contest rather than a walkaway for Intrepid, sent Weatherly against Intrepid and Valiant vs Heritage today in the second day's races.

Valiant and Heritage both had been soundly trounced as Intrepid won nine of 10 races in the observation trials in July and both scrambled to make major changes in sails, mast or rudder. It paid off Tuesday as Valiant, skippered by Bill McCullough of Riverside, Conn. scored a 42-second victory over skipper Bill Ficker of Newport Beach, Calif., and his Intrepid.

Heritage won as expected against Weatherly, which after all started the year as Heritage's trial horse, but the margin of victory of the golden mahogany craft of St. Petersburgh, Fla. was an impressive six minutes 19 secodns.

The races were sailed in light air with winds at about eight knots, and even then the yachts had to wait 90 minutes past scheduled starting time to get enough wind for racing.

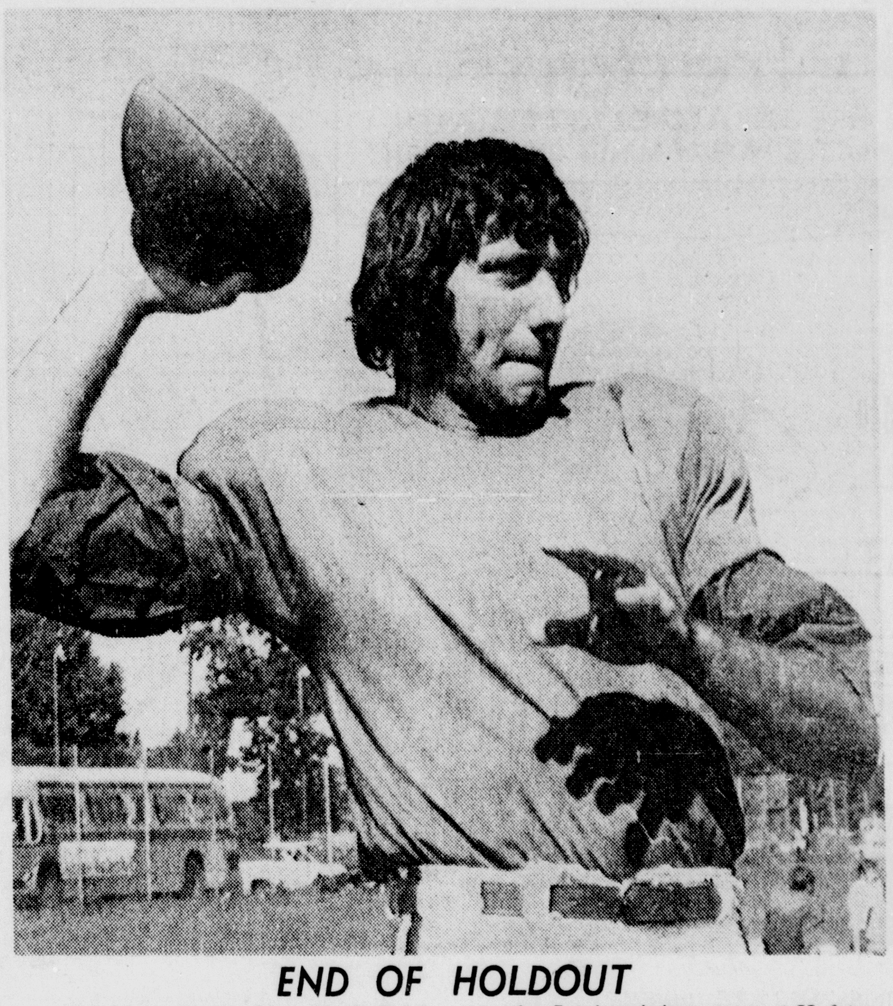
Ficker said he was not downcast about the defeat, noting that he had said many times that both Valiant and Heritage have improved very much over their July performances. McCullough, who had been quietly confident as Valiant, a new 12 meter built this year got better and better in practice, said only that "it will be a real battle all the way now."

Intrepid was the 1967 Cup winner against Dame Pattie of Australia, and Weatherly, the 1962 Cup winner against Gretel I of Australia, is only in this series to provide the second pairing.

The two foreign challengers, Gretel II of Australia and the France also were expected to sail today in final practice for Friday's start of their best-of-seven series for the right to challenge the U.S. for the Cup in the big races starting Sept. 15.

Softball Results

Foust Chevron and the Doves played to a 4-4 tie last night in San Rafael adult softball league action at Albert Park. In other games, Fairfax Shell defeated Suburban Auto, 6-1, Cain's Tires downed the Bar, 10-1, and in a contest at San Rafael High School, W.E. Joost outslugged the Brothers Three, 15-13.



END OF HOLDOUT

Joe Namath, the New York Jets' controversial quarterback, tossed a football yesterday during his first workout of the year, after reporting to the Jets' training camp at Hofstra University two weeks late. Nearly 1,000 fans including 300 newsmen were on hand to greet him.

Raiders To Test Rookies

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Alvin Wyatt, Ed Hayes, Ray Chester, Don Highsmith, Tony Cline and Gerald Irons aren't exactly household names with the limping Oakland Raiders.

But this group of rookies will see a lot of action against the Los Angeles Rams Saturday night because a handful of their veteran teammates, plus rookie running back Ted Koy, are hobbled with various injuries.

Offensive guard Jim Harvey appeared the most seriously hurt with a knee injury. All were suffered in the Raiders' 30-19 win over Philadelphia on artificial turf Monday night.

"I hurt the same knee last year on Astroturf," said Harvey. "I'll vote for grass every time. Alfalfa, even a good field of oats. . .anything but that artificial stuff."

Pulling guard Gene Upshaw sprained both ankles against the Eagles, defensive back Willie Brown may have suffered a slight concussion when he was knocked out and Koy jammed his knee.

Defensive backs Wyatt and Hayes, linebackers Irons and Cline, tight end Chester and running back Highsmith all saw action aginst the Eagles.

The Raiders will have only two days of serious scrimmages this week before flying to Los Angeles Friday for the night exhibition match against the Rams who looked like their awesome selves Saturday in beating Dallas 17-10.

Lefthander Ken Stabler, who has thrown six touchdown passes in five quarters, will again split the Raiders quarterbacking chores with Daryle Lamonica.

Oakland coach John Madden has been enthused about the play of Stabler this season and it looks like he will stay around as Lamonica's backup man.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

True Bridge Expert Described As Compassionate For Partner

Everybody knows that a boy scout is trustworthy, loyal, friendly and so forth, but who knows what a bridge expert is? The word, in case you are looking for it, is compassionate. If you are a true bridge expert you watch out for your partner to make sure the poor devil doesn't make a mistake. If you're doubtful about all this, I have a hand from the recent world championship to prove it.

NOT COMPASSIONATE

At one table, where Mike Lawrence, of the victorious American team was declarer, West cashed the ace of hearts and then shifted to the jack of clubs. Simple, but not very compassionate.

Declarer played low from the dummy, and East played low without deep thought. South won with the singleton queen of clubs and had no further trouble with the hand. He could ruff two hearts in the dummy, losing only one trump, one heart and one diamond.

DIDN'T THINK

From his own hand and the dummy, East could see that his partner had only the ace-king of hearts, and nothing better than jacks in diamonds and clubs. Surely he had the ace of spades for his opening bid. Therefore East could make sure of one trick in each suit by taking his ace of clubs at once. But East didn't think.

BETTER SWITCH

At the other table of this match, Bobby Goldman and Billy Eisenberg held the West and East hands. Goldman took a high heart to begin with, and then he shifted to a club. But Goldman, a true expert, is compassionate. He led the five of clubs rather than the jack.

If East held the ace-queen of clubs, he would be able to win with the queen. If East held only the ace, he would be forced to win the trick at once. And that is just what happened. The defenders got on trick in each suit because West was too compassionate to give his partner a problem.

Do your partners say the same thing about you?

RCA Shares Suffer In TV Market Slump

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 1,500 shares of RCA, some bought as far back as 1933. Although I do not need the money, I would like your opinion on whether to hold or sell. — A.M.

A. RCA has been hard hit this year by the slump in demand for TV receivers — approximately 20 per cent of company sales come from this course. In the first six months, net dropped 40 per cent on a 4 per cent decline in sales. A strike at 12 manufacturing plants was cited as being an important factor in the sharply lower second-quarter earnings. RCA's National Broadcasting subsidiary reported reduced commitments by major advertisers, and company's government-related business remained slow. Partially offsetting these negative influences, however, were computer, food processing, global communication and service operations which continued strong. In 1969, nonelectronic business accounted for 40 per cent of sales and 44 per cent of earnings; in addition a real estate company and a food processor have been acquired thus far this year. RCA's program of diversification, which has added an important measure of stability to the company, will probably provide the springboard for earnings recovery. Although near-term, the shares will continue to reflect the sluggishness of the TV set market, holdings. over a period of years should grow at least as fast as the economy.

Q. Can you recommend three AAA-rated bonds that are exempt from New York state and federal taxes? — R.M.

A. Interest on municipal bonds is generally exempt from income tax in the state where issued and is also exempt from federal income tax. All general obligations of the State of New York are rated AAA by Standard & Poor (NYC issues are rated BBB). An offering made by the state late in July reached the public at yields of 5.1 per cent and 6.1 per cent depending on maturity dates, which ranged from 1976 to 1994. Taxable equivalent yields for a person in a 50 per cent bracket would be approximately double the coupon rate. A bond dealer can give you more details on what is available from this "Blue List."

HORNET SPORTABOUT DEBUT

American Motors will introduce this new Hornet model on Oct. 6 — a station wagon concept with sedan styling. The Sportabout provides seating for five passengers and is powered by a 232-cubic inch six-cylinder engine. A V-8 engine is also available. Cars will be shown in Marin at Marin Automobile Co., San Rafael; Larry Brink Motors, Mill Valley; and Andersen Motor, Novato.

NEW SMALL CAR MERCURY

The 1971 Comet is smaller on the outside than the original Comet first introduced in 1960. It is offered in the two-door sedan above, a four-door sedan and as a sports coupe. A six-cylinder engine is standard and a 302-cubic inch V-8 is also available. Cars go on sale next month at Larry Brink Motors, Mill Valley and Marin-Bay Lincoln-Mercury, San Rafael.

Oven Timer Cost Up

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Robertshaw Controls Co. is raising prices on timing systems for gas and electric ranges by 9 per cent and on oven controls for gas ranges by 6 per cent, effective Sept. 1 and Aug. 1, respectively. Increased production costs necessitated the increase, the company said.

News Pushes Stock Prices Higher Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Encouraging economic news Wednesday provided major support for the stock market for the second day in a row as turnover climbed to nearly 10 million shares.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 7.40 at 724.06.

Of the 1,549 issues crossing the tape, advances outscored declines, 797 to 458.

Closing prices included: Am T & T 44 3-4 up 5-8; Chrysler 18 5-8 off 1-8; Dupont 120 1-2 up 1 7-8; Ford 47; Gen Motors 68 3-8 up 1-2; IBM 239 3-4.

The market was buoyed initially by a favorable economic forecast by the Commerce Department.

In a mid-year review, the department predicted the slumping U.S. economy will rebound strongly during the last part of this year and at least the first part of next year, bolstered by a new wave of consumer spending.

Analysts also suggested that the list benefited from carryover demand from Tuesday, when Wall Street responded favorably to the Federal Reserve Board's cut in bank reserve requirements on certain types of deposits, and to a comment by White House economist Paul W. McCracken that the nation can look forward to a moderate upturn in the economy for the rest of the year.

Among the day's most active issues were Continental Oil, Plessey, Westinghouse, Jersey Standard, Gulf Oil and Texaco. Standard Oil of Ohio also attracted demand. A Sohio subsidiary is linked with Reserve Oil & Gas in a joint mineral exploration program in Canada's Northwest Territories.

Bankruptcy Filed

DALLAS (UPI) — Nine former officials and employees of G F Industries, Inc., have filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the company, alleging it owes them $51,000 in salary and expense accounts. The company recently sold about $671,000 worth of assets. It is engaged in machine tool manufacture and oil and gas operations.

Gulf Oil Expands

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gulf Oil Corp. has announced formation of a new division to direct the company's rapidly growing worldwide chemicals business. The division, Gulf Oil Chemicals Co., will have responsibility for worldwide chemicals policy direction, planning and achieving efficiency in production, distribution and marketing.

FAIRCHILD SEMICONDUCTOR, San Rafael has announced a major milestone in production with the shipping of its one-billionth silicon diode — a tiny electronic device used in equipment ranging from shirt pocket transistor radios to advanced aerospace computers and Apollo antenna control systems.

One billion diodes placed end to end would just about circle the world one and one-half times at the equator.

Product marketing manager Ray Gouldberry reports that Fairchild shipments of diodes have roughly doubled each year since the company started producing them in 1959. Shipments during 1970 are estimated at 360 million units.

Other Fairchild products besides silicon diodes include a specialized diode used in votage controls, photo devices, remote controls, various transistors and integrated circuits and combinations.

The San Rafael plant serves as headquarters for diode operations. Other plants are located in Mountain View, Palo Alto, New Mexico, Maine, Mexico City, Hong Kong, Korea, Singapore, Australia and West Germany.

MOZART AND ANNETTE KAUFMAN set up their new antiques department in the San Anselmo dry goods store bearing their name this week and even before they could get price tags on the merchandise many of the items were purchased.

The Kaufmans spent six weeks in England and Europe earlier this year, prowling through old garrets, cellars, ironmongers' warehouses and other side-alley sources of supply, turning up hundreds of hard-to-find pieces that many professional decorators would give their most prized bibelots to acquire.

Sonoma State President Due Constructive Backing

Earl W. Jones, the new acting president of Sonoma State College, is facing a hard row to hoe.

His predecessor, Ambrose R. Nichols, Jr., was personally quite popular. He was well like by all who knew him, including those who strongly disapproved of some of his decisions.

In fact, Nichols' popularity with activists among faculty and students sprang from what some regarded as Nichol's haste to "give in" to each new demand rather than face a show-down.

("SHOW-DOWN" is plain, old fashioned English for what is known on campuses these days as confrontation.)

Jones previously was on the faculty and in the administration at San Francisco State for more than 15 years. He was witness and sometimes participant in the events which showed that militant activists can succeed in closing down and almost ruining a college headed by a series of weak administrators.

In succeeding a personally popular president whose administration was marked by acts of appeasement when confronted by demands and threats, Jones comes to bat with one strike already called.

WITHOUT WAITING for him to make a single move or decision, a group of two dozen students who in the past have exercised some leadership on campus gathered to denounce his appoitnment and predict bad times ahead for Sonoma State.

From its ivory tower at the corner of Fifth and Mission in San Francisco the "Voice of the West" editorialized a bit in its news columns to label Jones a "conservative" and protray him as the choice of the farthest right wing of the State College Board of Trustees.

IN THE SENSE that many have expressed preconceived negative opinions about Jones, he comes to his job with a second strike already called.

On the other hand, State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke has said, "Mr. Jones has demonstrated great skill and administrative grasp of academic issues at San Francisco State College. I am confident Sonoma State will benefit from his many insights and his ability."

AND JONES HIMSELF has observed, "Sonoma State is ideally situated to provide a highly constructive education experience for its students and service to an important surrounding area . . ."

Let us hope that activist faculty and students at Sonoma State get off the hostility kick and show some constructive interests in accomplishing what the new acting president has indicated is his goal.

An Early Fall?

We are a bit cynical about weather signs. Our tendency is to dismiss nature's signals as indications of the immediate past more than as premonitions of the future. However, like the chartists of Wall Street who project today's market actions into tomorrow's predictions, we concede that there are trends in nature which might possibly have some follow-through.

So when a neighbor walking by on an evening stroll said the signs indicated an early fall this year, we did not dismiss the idea.

"The leaves are starting to turn brown," he said. "It's a sure sign of an early fall."

But we also recall what a wise farmer once taught us. "Nature seems to balance the weather out." We would interpret this to mean that since we had a cooler than usual summer, we will have a warm autumn.

So, we will see what we will see.

Environmentalists Mourn Bills Killed In Senate Committee

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Somewhat apprehensively we looked out our window this morning to see if the sun had come up. It had, and in a heavy brown haze.

The heavy brown haze resulted from a lumberyard fire, and the apprehension resulted from the action of the Senate Transportation Committee in killing two bills the environmentalists said we had to have — or else.

Sen. Randolph Collier, committee chairman, will take the heat for the loss of these two highly-touted bills, but we suspect the committee pretty well reflected the views of the Senate.

The perennial cry of the loser here is that his bill would have made it if only it had got by some committee or other, and the home folks are supposed to believe it, even if nobody else does.

The two measures were ACA 38 by John Foran of San Francisco and AB 79 by Pete Schabarum of Covina. Both dealt with serious subjects.

ACA 38 would have put it up to California voters to decide whether cities and counties could choose, after approval by their local voters, to use their share of the state's seven-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax on anything other than building and maintaining their streets and roads.

This would make a pot of $268 million that ACA 38 would allow to be tapped for public transportation and automotive smog research.

Nobody supposed cities or counties were going into the smog business in competition with the Air Resources Board, already supported by motorist taxes not constitutionally dedicated to highways.

And as to public transportation systems, a number of senators were solicited for their vote on the theory nothing would happen because no city or county in its right mind would abandon its streets or roads for that purpose.

In other words, a bill that would accomplish little more than to establish a precedent of diverting gasoline taxes to other than highway uses, would nonetheless make points with the environmentalists.

AB 79 would have phased the lead content out of gasoline over the next seven years. Pete Schabarum had done his homework and made a strong three-hour presentation.

He complained that he was shorted because he got 50 hours of discussion on his bill in various Assembly committees and on the floor, but then the Senate, known as the House of Lords, knows the Assembly as the Cave of the Winds.

Assemblyman Schabarum's bill is aimed in the right direction, and we expect to see it back again.

But some of the senators were undoubtedly concerned that cutting the lead starting now might result in gasoline formulas that would produce more, rather than less, of the damaging smog that smarts the eyes and irritates the lungs.

The lead, testimony developed, is a cheap way of getting the anti-knock characteristics that keep California's 12 million cars from pinging their engines to pieces.

If you reduce the lead, you may have to increase the eye-smarting substances to get the same anti-knock effect, at least at a lot of refineries at the present time.

Technology will probably take care of things in the long run. Detroit is starting to build engines to operate on lower octane fuel, and the refinery industry, dancing to Detroit's tune, has started to convert to different processes requiring different equipment.

The value of Schabarum's bill is in bringing this all out in public so that the industry and the technologist that work for it can feel a little of the heat that legislators get.

Boys Hunt Spot To Ride Mini-Bikes

My friends and I are 14 and 15 and live in Los Ranchitos and Santa Venetia. Some of us have mini-bikes and mini-trails. We don't have licenses and we're not allowed to ride on the streets. We all have to ride on the trails. We started riding on the fire trails and we were all satisfied with riding up there. The police kicked us off and now there is a $600 fine if we're caught up there. We started using the Civic Center, as they said it was okay, but now they are building an auditorium so we were told to stop riding there. Now we're riding on the trail by the railroad, but the railroad company put up signs saying, "Stay off."

There are no places for us to go. Our bikes are safe. We have spark-arresters so we can't start a fire. What I am trying to do is find a hill or some place where my friends and I can ride. Can somebody help us. Thank you.

Average Citizen Entitled To Speak

I would like to reply to an article in the I-J, written on Aug. 11 by C. P. McCarthy.

In opening I would like to comment on the statement made by Mr. O'Connell that I was Mr. Nelder's co-chairman during his campaign.

I am quite flattered and surprised to have this title given to me simply because I voted for Mr. Nelder and believed in his campaign. I hadn't realized it would be that easy to be named a co-chairman. I am obviously new to the intrigues of politics.

It may come as a comlete to Mr. O'Connell to find out people do have a mind of their own. Unlike Mr. O'Connell, I can speak for myself and write my own material.

As far as "goading" the mayor into making a motion, I certainly am entitled to bring up a subject that has split this town for years. I spoke out publicly on this issue (full-time administrator) at the "Whose Town" congress last October before I even had met Mr. Nelder. Mr. O'Connell may check on this if he would care to know the truth.

I would like to know the reason for Mr. O'Connell's violent reaction to a motion to hire a full time administrator. What gives him the right to attack the integrity of a citizen and taxpayer of the town of Fairfax? Also a lifelong resident of Marin County. Is the average citizen still entitled to free speech, even if he doesn't agree with another citizen and person serving in a public of fice?

Mr. O'Connell certainly takes every opportunity to use his title of city councilman to expound at length on his own opinions. He should learn to accept opinions other than his own more graciously.

Fuzzy Thinking At Plan Session

Last night, Aug. 13, I attended a "public work study session" of the joint meeting of the Novato Planning Commission and Downtown Planning Committee which was working on the "oDwntown Plan" for Novato.

All Novato property owners should seriously consider attending some of these meetings, if only to be aware of the fuzzy thinking being handed out by the professional planning consultants who drafted the plan. Two examples: 1st — Because they forecast a need by 1990 for 300,000 square feet of office space, they say it is necessary to zone for 900,000 square feet of office space now. (My question is, what are two-thirds of the landowner victims supposed to do, starve?) 2nd: Mr. Cooke, of Sedway and Cooke, the consultants, seemes to think the law of supply and demand has been repealed. He told the assembled group that the more land you zone commercial, the higher the price gets, because owners think it is worth more than it is. Apparently he never heard of "market value", which is the only valid guide to price, and quickly corrects an owner's misconception . . .

Please, Novato taxpayers, come to these meetings. The next meeting is Aug. 20, 8 p.m., place to be announced.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THE QUICK-TEMPERED Clarence Day, author of "Life With Father," once was taken ill at a summer resort, and Mrs. Day, despite his bitter protestations, summoned the local doctor. Later she demanded, "Clarence, did you follow what that doctor had to say to you?" "If I had," snorted Day, "you'd probably be treating me now for a broken neck — because I threw him down two flights of stairs."

AN EBULLIENT drunkard, weaving happily down a Chicago street years ago, saw an old-fashioned fire engine, drawn by three dappled greys, and belching smoke, clanging by — and promptly set out in pursuit. He kept up the chase for three blocks, cheered on by delighted onlookers, but finally gave up, shook his fist at the vanishing fire engine, and bellowed, "To hell with you and your damn chestnuts!"

THE DRUMMONDS

With McGovern-Hatfield Move How Does U.S. Avert More Wars?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Reaction to the Vietnamese war is producing some queer and dangerous ideas.

Many in Congress want to cut back the President's war-making powers and much of the public now shows it wants to cut the President's peace-making powers.

A recent Louis Harris Survey finds that most Americans — young and adult — want to cut Vietnamese war spending more than anything else (76 per cent) and that the next thing they want to cut most is foreign aid (42 per cent).

THE FIRST PART of this response is understandable: The pervasive feeling is that the United States has borne the brunt of the fighting in Vietnam long enough and that South Vietnam should take up the burden of its own defense.

But do Americans want to get out of the peace as well as out of the war?

But that will be the effect of a U.S. policy which says to the smaller nations facing aggression and subversion: "You must do more to defend yourselves militarily, and we are going to do less to help you economically."

This menaces the sound Nixon Doctrine that while the United States will normally rely less on its own military force to keep the peace, it will help other countries defend their independence through economic and military aid.

THE HARRIS SURVEY shows that many Americans support only half the Nixon Doctrine — to keep out of war. But they want to do less and less to keep war from breaking out.

Such a state of mind is headed straight into head-in-sand isolationism, because if the Nixon Doctrine is cut in half by a divided public, it becomes nothing more than a wishful objective without any means of fulfilling it.

Here is another example of how the thinking of the anit-Vietnam extremists produces proposals which undercut the ability of the United States to deter future wars.

The McGovern-Hatfield amendment, forcing the President to inform Hanoi that all American forces would quit Vietnam by June 30 next year, has an odd provision on how prevent future Vietnams. It provides that the United States must give no military assistance to Cambodia or Laos unless Congress declares war.

WHAT CONCEIVABLE purpose is served to make it necessary for the United States to go to war in order to provide economic aid and arms to a nation fighting for its life? We would thiink that the extreme Senate doves would be working to reduce the prospect of declaring war rather than increasing it.

The Nixon Doctrine is toward less involvement. It turns away from using U.S. combat forces abroad unless our vital security interests are at stake.

THE McGOVERN-HATFIELD amendment points exactly in the opposite direction. It requires a deeper involvement even while doing less. It demands that Congress declare war in order to assist a friendly and aggressed country by means short of war—economic aid and arms.

If the McGovern-Hatfield policy became general law, we couldn't provide fighter planes to Israel without going to war. This means that we would either have to deprive Israel of the means to defend herself or we would have to declare war on somebody to do this.

This doesn't make sense. It makes nonsense. This is what we mean when we say that the revolt against the Vietnamese war is producing some very distorted and inconsistent ieas. We better see where they would take us before we let them gain more credence.

Their effect would be to carry the United States onto the shoals of a new isolationism.

There would be no peace there.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Kennedy May Have Given O'Donnell Demo Rational

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — One of the unpleasant characteristics of a politician, in the eyes of many Americans, is a tendency to tell each audience just what it wants to hear.

In that sense, then, it is time to suggest that John F. Kennedy was very much a politician when he talked to Kenneth O'Donnell in a hotel bathroom during the 1960 Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

According to recently published exerpts from O'Donnell's forthcoming book, Kennedy told O'Donnell in that secluded setting why he was inviting Lyndon B. Johnson to be his vice-presidental running mate. To O'Donnell, the choice seemed to smack of "cynical, old-style politics we were trying to get away from."

KENNEDY EXPLAINED, according to the O'Donnell account, that he did not expect Johnson to help the ticket in the South. But the selection would, said Kennedy, eliminate Johnson from his powerful and potentially troublesome post as Senate Democratic leader.

It is very easy to believe that politician Kennedy was providing O'Donnell, and other members of the emerging "Irish Mafia", with a rationale which they could accept for the Johnson candidacy. It is not at all necessary to challenge the accuracy of O'Donnell's version of the conversation.

There is, of course, very good reason to think that Kennedy did have very strong hopes that Johnson would help the ticket in the South. The results of the election speak for areas. In fact, it may well be Kennedy could not have won without the support of Texas and other southern states.

IT IS CLEAR that Johnson did help the ticket in those areas. In fact, if may well be written in the history books that Johnson's leisurely train trip through the South ("What did Dick Nixon ever do for Culpepper?") was the last truly pivotal excursion in the long and colorful history of whistle-stop campaigning.

O'Donnell's other disclosure, that Kennedy was planning to withdraw from Vietnam, need not be challenged either. As a matter of fact, it is very difficult to challenge, since it has been supported by the respected Senate Democratic Leader-Mike Mansfield, of Montana.

The idea of a Kennedy withdrawal must, however, be put carefully in proper historic context. According to O'Donnell's account, President Kennedy called Mansfield in 1963 to let Mansfield know of his intention to withdraw from Vietnam after the 1964 election.

AT THAT TIME most of Washington was "planning" on the withdrawal of the small 16,000 troop advisory mission by 1965. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was himself predicting such a withdrawal in his rosy forecasts.

The Diem government (later to be overthrown) was still in power in Vietnam and the major U.S. troop commitment was still in the future. (After the 1964 election Johnson was accused of following the blueprint of his campaign opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, when he began the Vietnam escalation.)

Johnson's own self-torture over Vietnam has been well described by his brother, Sam Houston Johnson, in a recent book. It is really not so surprising to learn that Kennedy was seriously mulling over a complete withdrawal.

There is, however, a sad sort of irony in O'Donnell's revelations. He is trying to explain away two decisions which he views as flaws in the Kennedy presidency.

College Finally Lets Out A Roar Over The Creek Project

The College of Marin, which has remained relatively silent during the month-long squabble between Marin County and the Army Corps of Engineers and the contractor for the Corte Madera Creek project, last week let out a roar.

Source of the college's frustration is the temporary loss of a water line used for fighting fires and providing potable water to the College Center. The "fire loop" water line was damaged last week when a section of wall in the creek bed, running through the heart of the campus, crumbled away exposing and breaking the water pipe.

The college reacted to the news by jumping into the raging free-for-all over the merits of the contractor's operating procedures. It issued a five-page report to the county flood control office listing grievances with the project contractor, J B and C Co., of Arizona.

CHARGING THE CONTRACTOR with repeatedly trespassing on college property, the report notes the parking lot near Olney Hall has been used by concrete trucks and other construction vehicles for entrance to the construction site.

Dale Fleming, college planning director, asked the county to advise the Army, which oversees construction, of the violations. Adding the construction company also had piled gravel on a portion of the college parking lot adjacent the data processing building.

This same parking lot, the college maintains, is being used by the contractor for parking employees autos and the contractor's heavy trucks.

THE REPORT ADDS that forms are being stacked outside the construction area on campus property and a considerable amount of college water was used for curing concrete poured by the contractor. The contractor has agreed to repair or cease the damage the report states.

However, the report continues, a significant number of college improvements appear to be threatened by possible damage from the construction work.

A separation in the asphalt walkway to the Data processing building has appeared. The building is adjacent to the excavation.

"EROSION THAT occurred as a result of the breaks in the water lines has undercut the supports for the pedestrian bridge on one end while cracks in the soil banks are apparent at the other end," the report says.

Evidence of cracking is also found around a sanitary man hole near the college center, the document adds.

Faced with the start of the fall semester in about a month, the college concluded it was willing to do "anything reasonable to assist the contractor."

"We are willing to consider encroachments or other deviations from the contract documents that might help the contractor as long as they will not damage college property or interrupt the college operation," the report concluded. "We must, however, be provided the proper protection of college improvements, be assured of safety for students and staff, and continue the instructional program."

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The furor over Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield's bill to forbid busing school children without parental consent indicates how far afield public school integration has run since Brown vs. Board of Education in 1954.

The bill (AB551) by the Downey Republican passed the state Senate 21 to 12, after clearing the Assembly by a lopsided 48-17 vote.

It consists of just 32 words to be added to the California Education Code: "No governing board of a school district shall require any student or pupil to be transported for any reason without written permission of the parent or guardian."

SEN. MERVYN M. DYMALLY, D-Los Angeles, called it a racist bill. Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, said it was "a flagrant racist attempt . . . to bring Dixie politics into California . . . a throwback of 100 years."

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, said it wasn't racist at all, pointing out that as passed it makes no mention of race. However, as introduced it would have banned busing without parental consent "for purpose of integration." That language was changed when it was questioned on constitutional grounds.

The heat over the measure shows pretty plainly that almost everyone has forgotten the issue that caused the U.S. Supreme Court to rule on May 17, 1954:

"WE CONCLUDE that in the field of public education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. Therefore, we hold that the plaintiff and others similarly situated for whom the actions have been brought are, by reason of the segregation complained of, deprived of equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the 14th Amendment."

The plaintiff was Linda Brown, a Negro child. Her father brought suit against the Topeka, Kans., Board of Education because Linda was required to take a bus across town to an all-Negro school although there was a school within four blocks of her home. He wanted Linda to attend the neighborhood school.

The fight over AB 551 found defenders of the neighborhood school lined up for the bill, with the opposition coming from those who claimed the neighborhood school concept creates and preserves segregation.

THIS HAS BEEN the stance in much of the conflict over busing of school children. Educators who contend that the only way to upgrade the education of black children is to sit them in the classroom beside white children have attacked the neighborhood school concept and urged "educational parks" to replace it for intergrated education in the 1970s.

Somewhat overlooked has been the fact that parents, black and white, have often shown their devotion to the neighborhood school when the racial issue was not involved. Some school districts have at times bused children away from their neighborhood schools to keep class sizes down to an arbitrary maximum figure. Almost without exception, this has brought opposition from parents of the children who were bused.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD school issue in Brown vs. Board of Education has been forgotten. The ruling of a lower court in one of the many cases that followed that decision probably has not even been read by most people.

In Bell vs. Gary (1963), a federal district court judge held: "Requiring certain students to leave their neighborhoods and friends and be transferred to another school miles away, while other students, similarly situated, remained in the neighborhood schools.

Groups File Suit Against Sex Laws

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal court suit filed Tuesday asked that a broad range of laws governing sexual behavior between consenting adults be declared unconstitutional.

The suit was filed by an organization of homosexuals, two groups advocating greater sexual freedom and six individuals. It asked that a three-judge panel be formed to consider the matter.

"The growing militancy, first of blacks and other minorities, has been taken up by homosexuals," attorney Earl G. Stokes said when he filed the suit.

The organizations are the Society for Individual Rights (SIR), the Sexual Freedom League, Inc., and the Modern Sex Institute.

Residency In State Voting Law Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Superior Judge Robert W. Merrill yesterday upheld the constitutionality of California's one-year residency requirement for voter registration.

The court action was brought here by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of Peter and Nancy Keane who moved to San Francisco from Texas last Nov. 28 and who want to vote in the Nov. 3 general election.

ACLU attorney Paul N. Halvonik argued that the right to vote in state and federal elections is protected by the U.S. Constitution. He said the U.S. Supreme Court now demands that the state must show a "compelling interest" before it can restrict voting rights.

"The voting franchise is the most precious right we have, and the law infringes on that right," he said.

Deputy City attorney Burk Delzenthal said the state can demand that a person reside in the state one year. "We are seeking assurance that our ballot boxes are being protected," he said.

Delzenthal said the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the one-year residency requirement in 1906.

In addition to displays by a variety of individual artists, including painters, potters and sculptors, the festival will fature demonstrations in crafts such as glass blowing, photography, serigraphy and ceramics.

Application Plan Stalled By Neighbors

Objections by neighbors have stalled an application by Ralph C. Noah for a reduced front yard setback on property at 6 Rolling Hills Road, Tiburon.

Development Administrator Phil V. Scott said the Tiburon Board of Adjustments Monday continued Noah's application to Sept. 21 after several nearby residents complained about the design of a house Noah built on his property.

Although the application before the board was for a parking deck to be built within 20 feet of the front property line where a 30-foot setback is required, discussion mostly centered on the design of the house.

Scott said the neighbors mainly objected to the structure's height. Thirty feet is allowed, but they feel that the height exceeds that figure, Scott said.

In other action, the board approved David Lawson's application to build a house at 2326 Mar East Street to within three feet of the front property line and four feet of the side yard line, where 15 feet and eight feet, respectively, aer required.

The board also continued to Sept. 21 an application by Winston A. Jones to build an addition at 20 Apollo Road to within four feet of the side property line where an eight-foot setback is required.
